A new age is dawning; a new time has come. We stand on the brink of Tomorrow, balancing on Today, leaving Yesterday far behind us.

The dawning of a new decade brings a time to write on fresh, unmarked pages of history, to seek fuller understanding of the present, to put aside the mistakes of the past. The Decade of the Seventies promises the beginning of unparalleled advancement for mankind. Discoveries in science and technology herald an age of universal expansion. We on earth watch the attempt to conquer outer space while the struggle to bring peace to ourselves continues.

In this period, we, the new generation, will seek individuality instead of conformity, communication instead of alienation. Perhaps more than any of Yesterday's youth, we are concerned with peace, understanding and brotherhood.

Learning, expanding, and growing, the shimmering spirits of today's students make the brilliance of the past seem but a blur. Like circles of light, fleeting and transitory, we mingle with each other, intertwining our paths and directions, often adopting new ideas, but always moving forward, ever advancing.

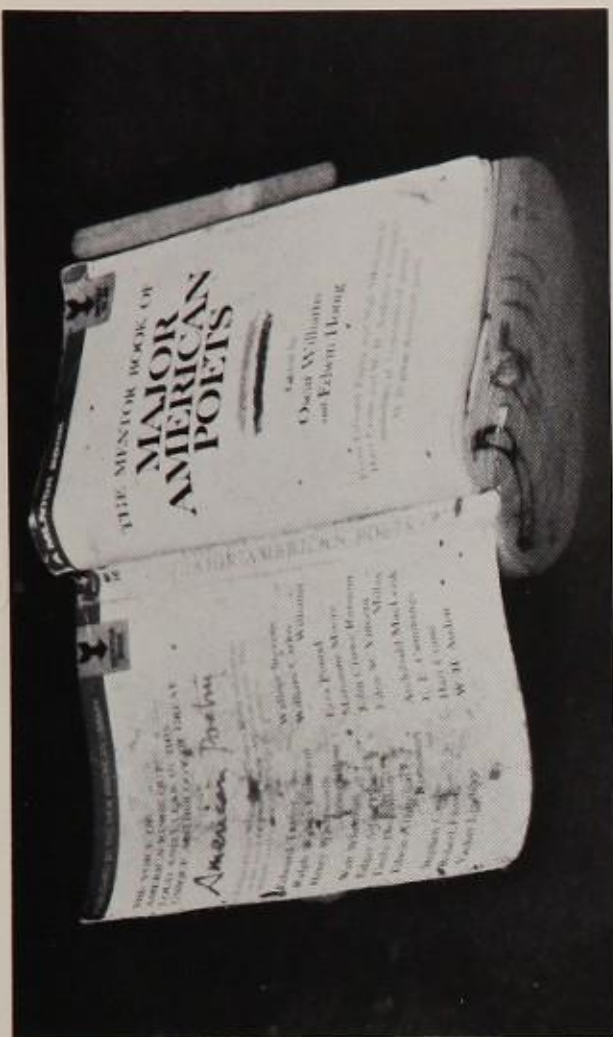

Questioning, examining, challenging, achieving—the classroom offers us new frontiers to conquer. It helps to broaden our knowledge of men and society by exploring many facets of education. By learning about a variety of subjects, we enrich our understanding of ourselves and others.

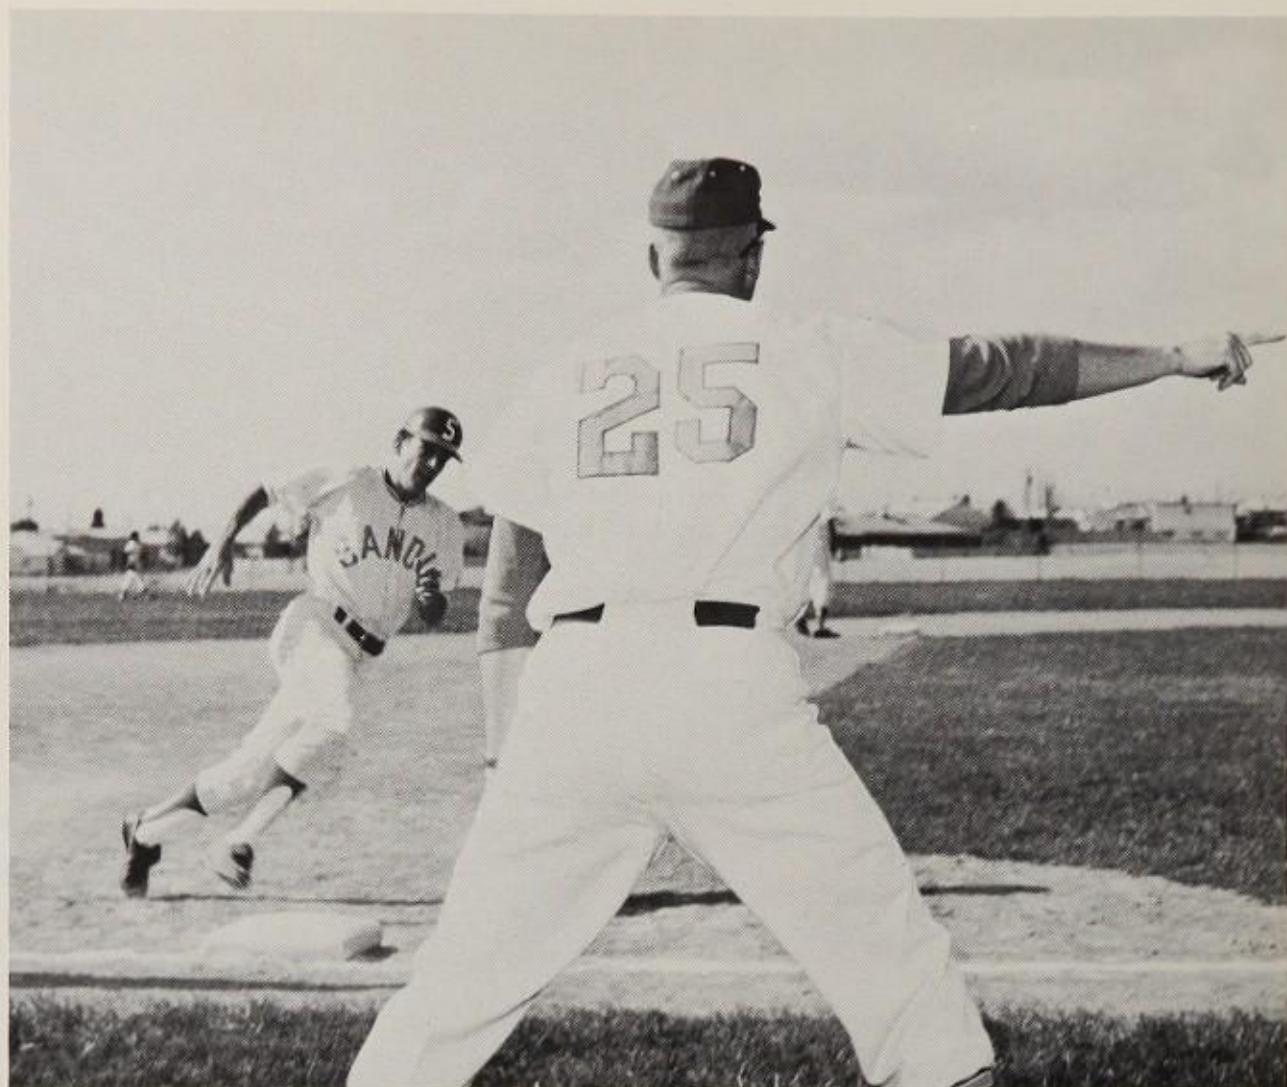

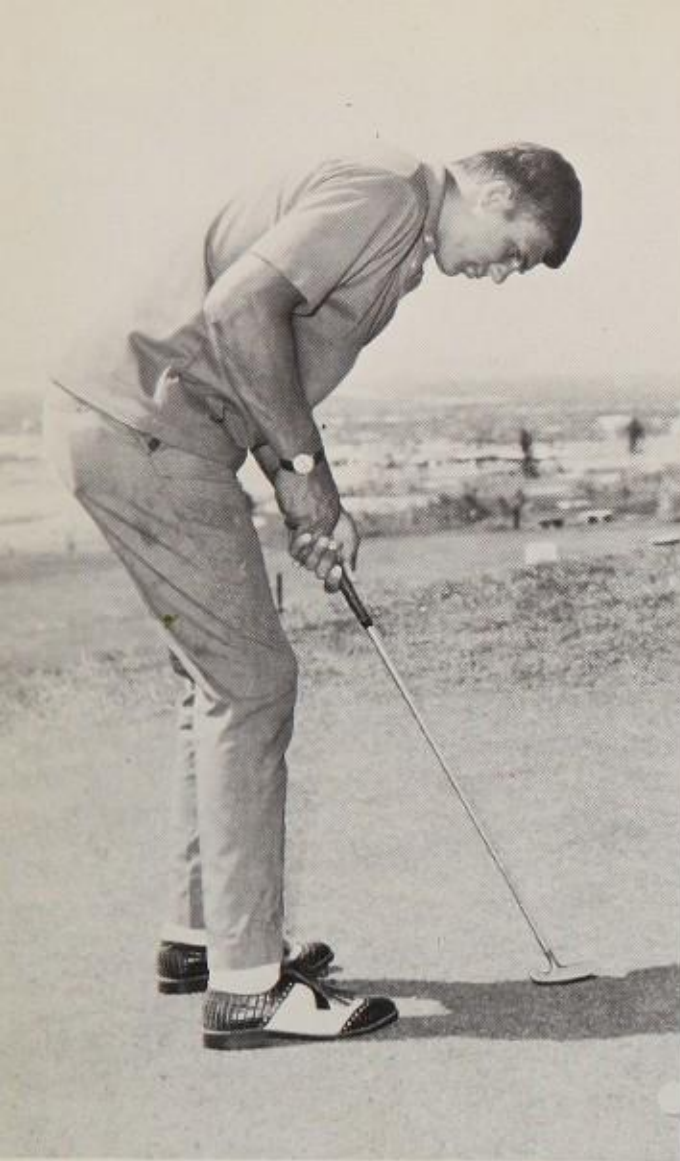

Excellence in scholarship and leadership finds recognition in this new age. Those among us who give more of themselves than is required find satisfaction and honor to be the culmination of their labors, failures and ultimate successes.

Enthusiasm for athletics is an integral part of our high school experience. Team or individual sports test us against others or ourselves and bring the experience of losing or the joy of winning.

All aspects of the educational experience combine to prepare us to advance into a new era . . . the future of the decade which can only remain hidden beckons to each of us. Inevitably, we must face it. The disillusionment of the past recedes; it cannot be changed. We step forward to the promise of this new, dawning age.

Participation in clubs and organizations offers students the opportunity to become involved in the school community. Such involvement offers us the chance to form our own, new society, one which will satisfy our needs rather than those of the previous generation.

Brannon takes new job

This new age brings not only enthusiasm and anticipation, but also sadness. After serving as principal since the school opened 12 years ago, Leroy Brannon left Sandia last fall to accept the position of Coordinator of Vocational Education for the Albuquerque Public Schools system.

Mr. Brannon has been with APS since 1945. He was a chemistry teacher at Albuquerque High School as well as the director of the APS Night School for several years. He had been principal of several schools in the system, as well, opening both McKinley Junior High and Sandia.

Mr. Brannon's administration at Sandia was characterized by calm understanding, quiet sympathy and profound respect for the individual, whether student or teacher. Continually confronted with problems, Mr. Brannon could often find a solution where none seemed to exist.

In gratitude for his years of service to Sandia, we dedicate this 1970 CREST to Mr. Leroy Brannon.

Superintendent of the Albuquerque Public Schools after serving for three years.

Student unrest came to a peak on the University of New Mexico campus with the suspension of two teaching assistants from administrative and teaching duties, as the result of a controversial poem distributed in some freshman English classes.

New Mexico legislators passed a liberalized abortion bill, granting abortions in cases of rape, incest or endangered health of the mother or child.

Capital punishment was abolished in New Mexico, the 14th state to pass a bill. Assassination of policemen, jailers or prison guards in execution of duties remained the only crimes punishable by death.

Mickey Mantle, a national baseball hero for many years, was forced to retire from the New York Yankees because of a struggle with osteomyelitis, an inflammation of bone and bone marrow.

The three Apollo 9 astronauts tested the Lunar Module as the space race continued at high speed.

United States' relations with Peru showed signs of disintegration with a conflict over coastal fishing rights.

After a prolonged illness, the death of former President Dwight "Ike" Eisenhower united nations in mourning.

Violence of the Chinese-Soviet border and the election of Israeli's new premier also made the news, while the Biafra death toll mounted as efforts were made to settle the conflicts.

"The Mouse That Roared" was revived as Britain sent an arsenal of military force to quell a minor rebellion on the small island of Anquilla.

Pakistan's premier resigned from his position. Germany's election of Gustav Heinrich to the presidency caused a rift between East and West.

An increase in zodiac signs and fortune telling was apparent as an astrology craze swept through the students to promote themselves with songs like "Aquarius" and movies like "Secret Ceremony" rising in popularity.

holiday, sports, cards emphasize April

Spring sports events, report cards and a four day Easter break touched off the activities that crowded April.

Baseball games, tennis matches and track meets provided entertainment for sports fans throughout the month.

A special all-school assembly introduced cheerleader finalists and student body council candidates to the students. The assembly was the culmination of weeks of sign-ups, try-outs and campaigning in the form of poster-lined hallways.

Journalists attended the state High School Press Assn. activities during Highlands Day on the Highlands campus in Las Vegas April 11-12. Sandians led for the eleventh consecutive year with 10 awards in five writing fields for newspaper stories.

Council representatives treated faculty members to a "Brownie Breakfast" April 15 in observance of "Teacher Appreciation Day." That same evening new members were installed in the Virgil I. Grissom Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Sandia's and Highland High's new members of Quill & Scroll were installed as the two schools participated in a dual candlelighting ceremony.

"On Conglomeration," a musical production presented by the Honor Choir, included excerpts from seven popular musicals. The program was staged in the Theater.

Five Sandians participated in the Northwestern Regional Science Fair at the University of New Mexico Basketball Arena. From the five, Bruce Ackerman was selected to go to the State Science Fair at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology.

A wide variety of motion pictures was represented at the 41st annual Academy Awards presentation. Breaking tradition, two shared the award for Best Actress: Barbra Streisand for her part in "Funny Girl" and Katherine Hepburn for "Lion in Winter." Cliff Robertson was named best actor for the leading role in "Charly," and "Oliver" won several Oscars including Best Picture of the Year.

While Easter vacation cooled student dissatisfaction, letters continued to pour in concerning the controversial "Love Lust" poem. University officials were appalled as funds were cut from UNM's budget for an investigating committee.

Albuquerque's ninth public high school, scheduled to open in the fall of 1970, was officially named Eldorado.

Unrest was evident around the nation with the Vietnam war and economic inflation causing the most dissatisfaction.

In a referendum in France, Charles de Gaulle was rejected by the people and, consequently, resigned from office.

Sandians saw award winning "Charly," while songs like "Dizzy" and "Galveston" were among the top 10 tunes.

Varied activities crowd hectic month

Seniors were counting final days of school, and underclassmen prepared for the next school year as the May calendar was crowded with end-of-the-year activities.

Ballots were cast to elect the coming year's Student Body Council and class officers along with cheerleaders.

Sandia's Albuquerque Youth Council members participated in AYC Day May 2. The traditional day enabled students to assume responsibilities of various city, county and school officials.

Booths, people, music and gaiety filled the Girls Gym during the annual Speech Club Carnival May 3.

Mentally disturbed characters were portrayed in the drama students' final production, "The Curious Savage," which was presented May 8-10 in the Theater.

Spring concerts were presented by the music organizations and classes, including a music theory recital, band, orchestra and choral programs. Sandians enjoyed a special attraction when the United States Navy Band from Washington, D.C., performed at an all-school assembly.

Outstanding Sandians who received national, state or city recognition were honored during the annual Awards Assembly.

Semester testing was scheduled May 26-28, and seniors began the harried, crowded race of Senior Week.

Although the Senior Assembly presented a note of nostalgia, the campus was the scene of excitement as the yearbooks were distributed May 29. The traditional signing party was held that night in the Gym.

Four Hills Country Club provided a relaxed atmosphere for the senior swim party, while soft formality floated through the air at the Junior-Senior Prom. The Prom, with the theme "In-A-Gadda-Da-Vida," or "Garden of Love," was held May 30.

City commissioners passed an ordinance prohibiting mobile food vendors from patronizing public school areas between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. The ordinance was to be put into effect in the fall.

Ten metropolitan mayors met with President Nixon to discuss the growing problems of urban conditions.

Sirhan Sirhan, convicted assassin of Senator Robert Kennedy, was sentenced to death in the gas chamber at San Quentin.

Riot-racked campuses continued to be in style as Cornell and Harvard Universities were victim to student unrest, along with Queens College and Radcliffe.

Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas was pressured into resigning as the result of allegedly unethical dealings.

Three astronauts shot skyward and orbited within nine miles of the moon's surface in preparation for the first moon landing scheduled for July.

Conflicts in northern Ireland between Catholics and Protestants and the Arab-Israeli situation in the Middle East continued to be serious problems.

Sandians viewed movies such as "The Shoes of the Fisherman" and "Star" and danced to songs like "In the Ghetto" in May.

Summer vacation brings joy, jobs, clinics,

Jobs, summer school, workshops clinics and vacations were on the minds of students as school closed June 6.

University Arena was the scene of the Scarlet and Blue graduating ceremonies June 2. The 758 graduating seniors became the first class to have the Commencement addresses given by classmates, Karen Talbot and Gary Smith.

Boys State delegates met at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, while Girls Staters attended meetings on the University of New Mexico campus.

Spirit and enthusiasm were found on the UNM campus as cheerleaders engaged in a week-long clinic.

Mrs. Margaret Myers chaperoned and taught students, including 10 Sandians, while on a five-week tour of Europe.

Sandia journalists outnumbered other schools at the third annual New Mexico Interscholastic Press Assn. workshop.

During the week's stay at UNM, students increased their knowledge of newspaper, yearbook and photography techniques.

Sixteen Sandians also attended the State Student Council Leadership workshop at Eastern New Mexico University in August.

Dr. Tom Wiley assumed responsibilities as Superintendent of Albuquerque Public Schools, initiating a program of decentralization, dividing the system into three areas. Sandia is in Ralph Dixon's East Area.

Hurricane Camille, the worst in recent history, smashed into gulf states, leaving a trail of devastation.

Summer school students participated in a drama workshop. The 18 students learned more about acting and stagecraft and put on three plays for the public.

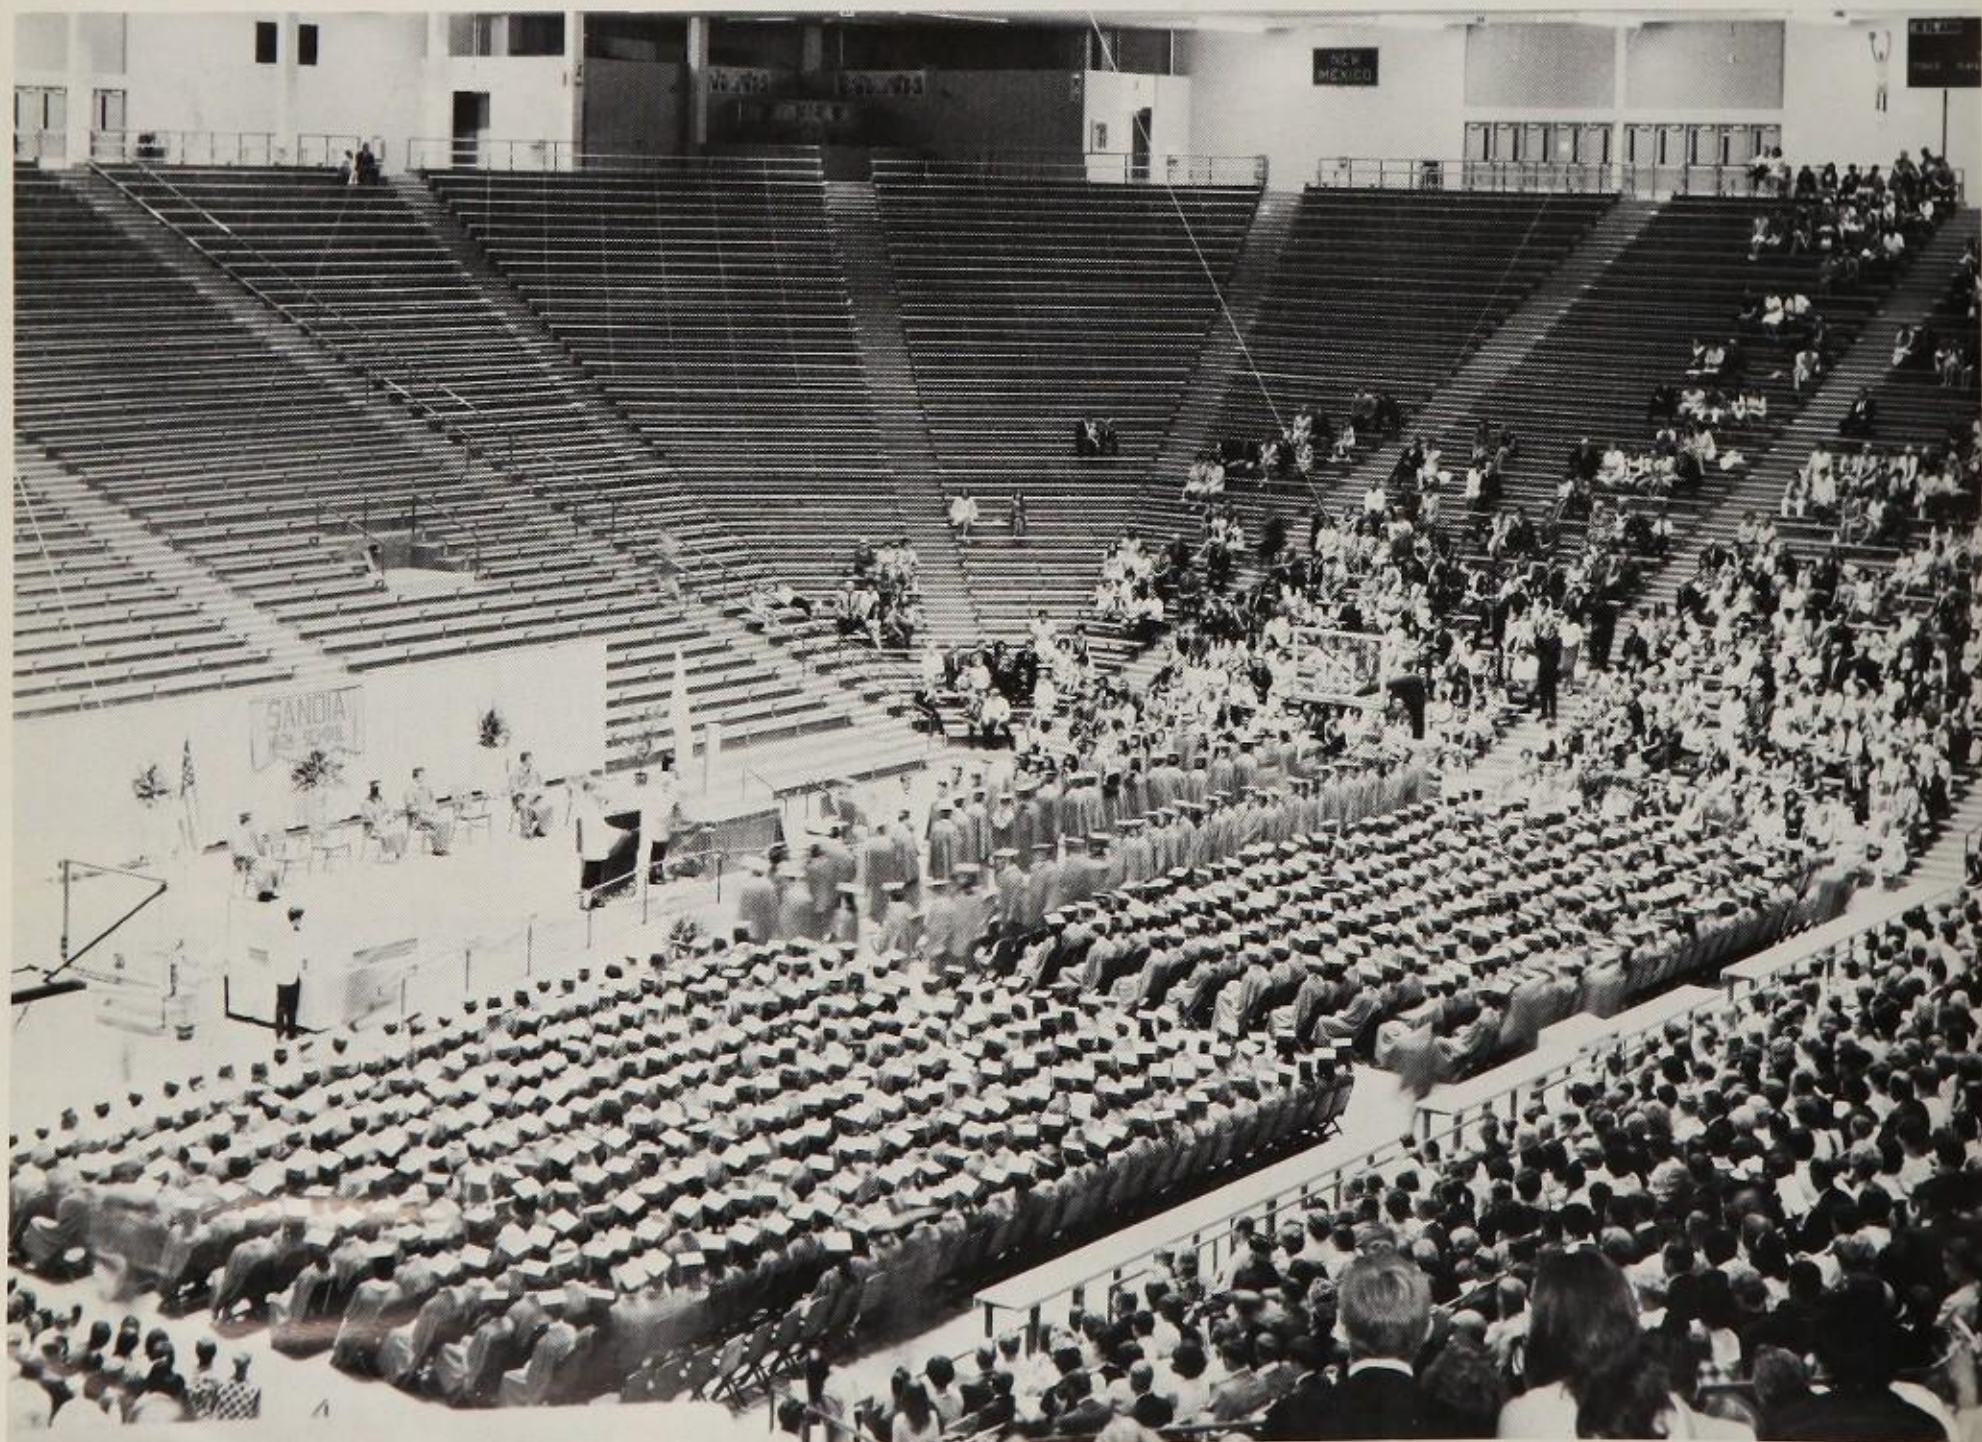

Sandia added to her list of 1969 graduates by graduating 21 students at the end of the summer term.

Judy Garland, famous for her "The Wizard of Oz" role, died in London June 2.

Reis Lopez Tijerina was returned to jail June 7 when his bond was revoked for alleged trouble making.

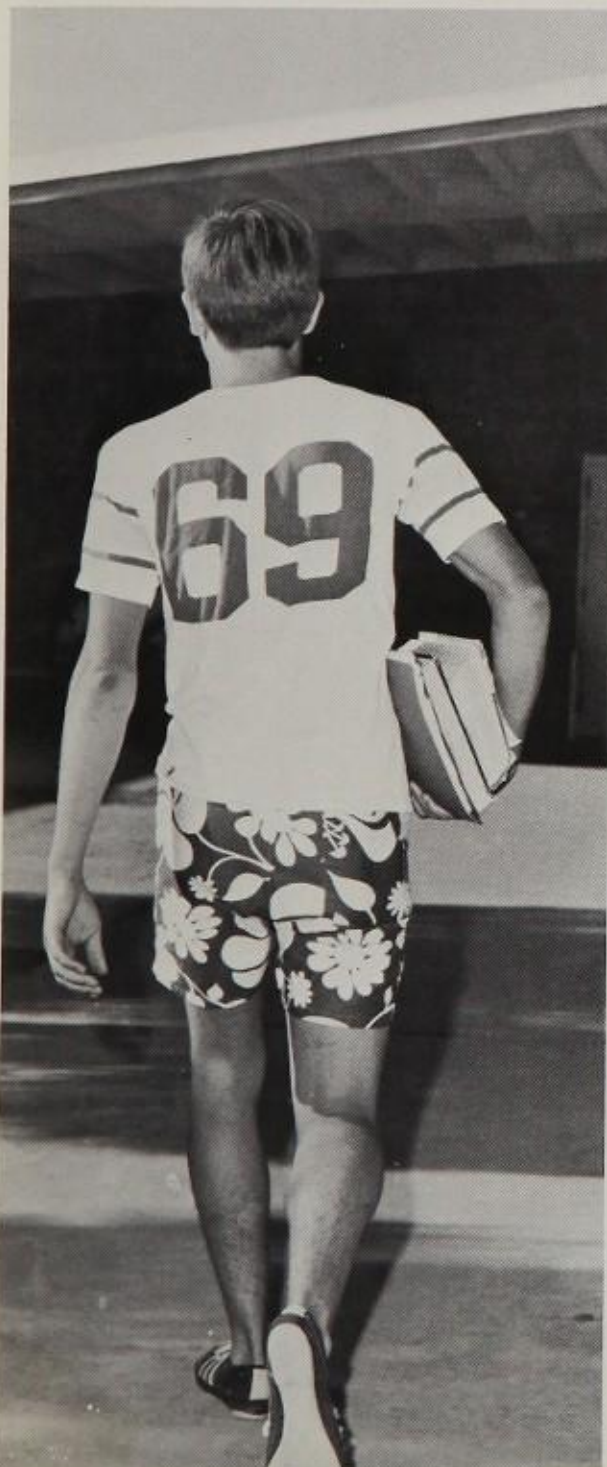

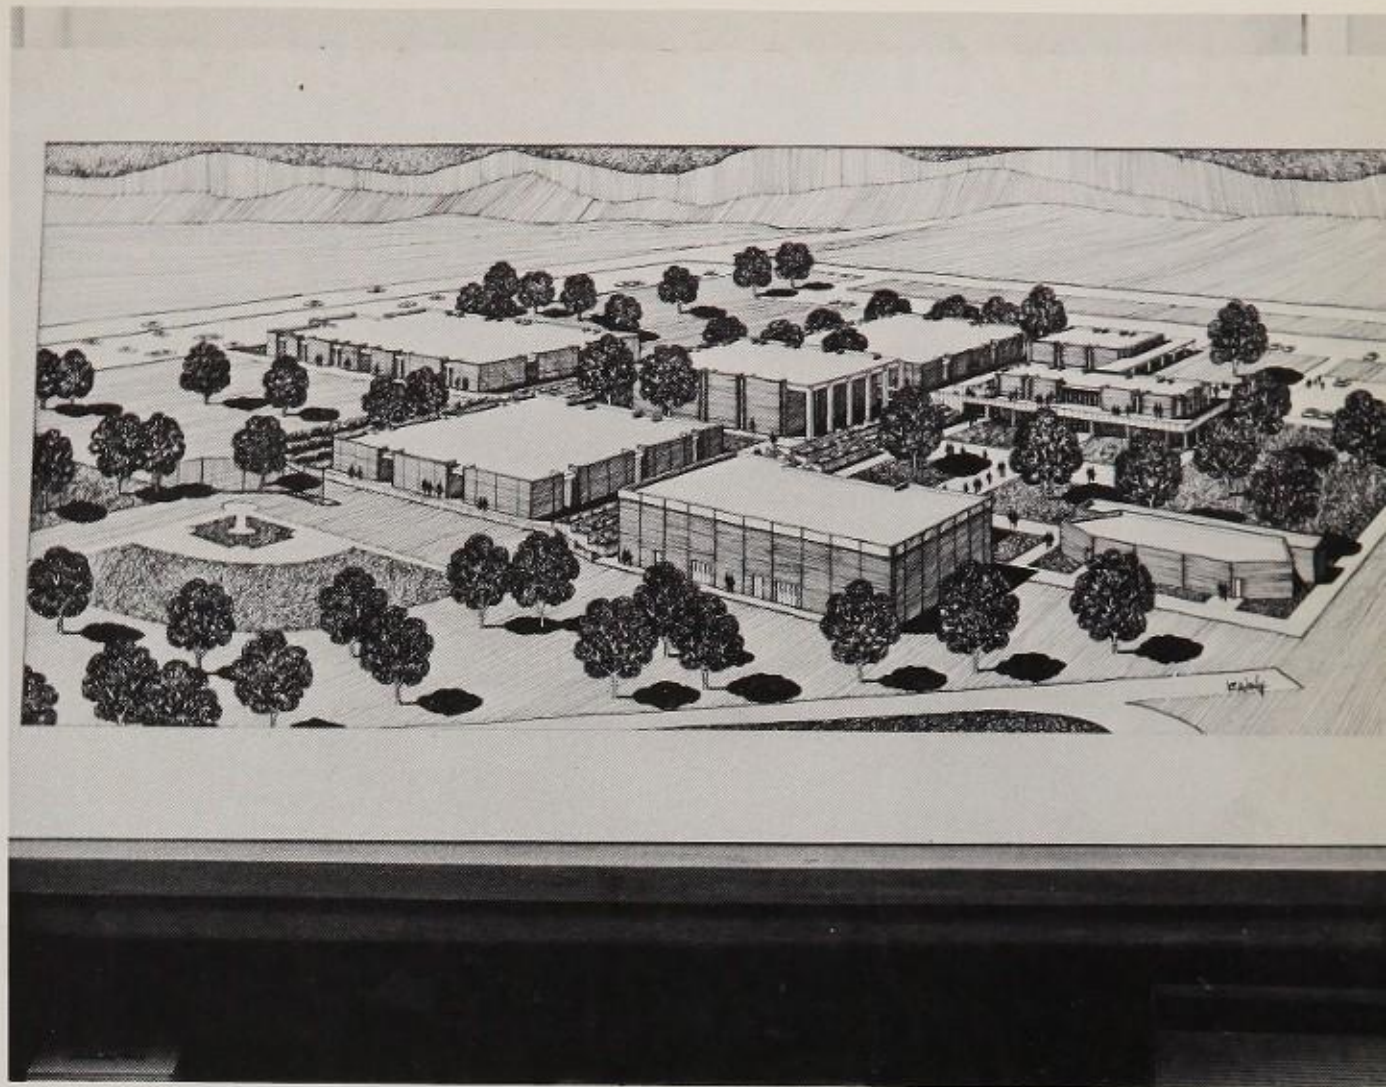

Elegant ceremonies marked the investiture of Prince Charles as the Prince of Wales July 1. The televised ceremonies took place at Caeroroin Castle, Northern Wales.

Edward Kennedy's possible presidential aspirations plummeted as a result of an accident in which Mary Jo Kopechne drowned, as Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island into a small pond.

'A giant leap for mankind'

"A small step for a man, a giant leap for mankind" were the words of the decade spoken as Neil Armstrong became the first man to set foot on the moon July 20. Buz Aldrin became the second man on the moon, while Mike Collins orbited in the Apollo 11 command module.

Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, died Aug. 17 in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Feelings of discontent grew concerning the Vietnam War as the Paris Peace Talks were at a standstill, and war death tolls continued to mount.

Sandians crowded theaters to see movies like "Popi," "True Grit" and "Goodbye Columbus." Songs that topped the chart were "In the Year 2525" and "A Time for Us."

Organized chaos reigned over Sandia as 2,970 students registered Sept. 3. To accommodate the ever increasing number of students, a new wing on the Boys' Gym had been added along with a new Industrial Arts wing and numerous annexes. Richard Rounds was introduced as Sandia's new principal, only the second since the school opened in 1958, and Robert Hutchins was a new assistant principal.

Elmer Bass was named as the new principal of Eldorado High School, after Ralph Dixon was named East Area superintendent.

In an effort to clear the smoke-filled restrooms, the Student-Faculty Committee had set up an F wing smoking area and also had adopted the most liberal dress code in the city. The only requirement was "a manner of dress" appropriate for an effective classroom atmosphere, including shoes for all.

B team cheerleader tryouts and elections were held early this month in time for the newly elected girls to cheer for the Novilleros' football games. Sophomores finally elected class officers after a series of run-offs.

September 17 Sandians were excused from classes early to attend the 32nd annual New Mexico State Fair.

Yearbook class pictures were taken, and the Crest staffers began the annual subscription drive Sept. 22.

Fourteen Sandians set a new school record when they were named as National Merit Semi-Finalists. Later testing would select the finalists.

United States ambassador to Brazil, C. Burke Elbrick, was kidnapped by guerilla terrorists and held captive until the Brazilian government released 15 political prisoners into the safety of Mexico and aired an anti-government manifesto.

Ho Chi Minh, leader of communist North Vietnam, died in September at the age of 79 in Hanoi.

Music, love and free expression characterized pop festivals that rocked the western world from the Isle of Wight, Britain, to Woodstock, New York.

Senator Everret Dirkson died unexpectedly Sept. 8 at 73. His death set off a hassle for his position as minority leader in the Senate.

marks school year opening

Mop up campaigns continued in the wake of hurricane Camile, the most destructive in this country's history.

Strict land, air and sea inspections for U.S. bound traffic from Mexico were initiated Sept. 22 in the form of "Operation Intercept." Purpose of this operation was to stop illegal drug traffic between the two countries.

Meeting in Santa Fe the Constitutional Convention delegates added a 20 year voting age to the proposed constitution.

Main theater attractions in September were "Easy Rider" and "Midnight Cowboy," while radio-listening teenagers turned on to "Easy to be Hard."

Open Forum, Probe, inspire, highlights October mood of discussion, meetings

Expression of opinion that characterized the new school year was highlighted in October with the first meeting of the Open Forum and issue of the Probe.

The premier Open Forum, a discussion period, concerned the Vietnam War, in which a student moderator controlled heated discussions between pro and con debators. The Probe was an opinion paper made up of student written articles.

Homecoming plans got into full swing as committees began work on the many facets of the November festivities. Serving as the chairman of the Homecoming Committee was the energetic Michelle Barnes.

Five hundred city high school students participated in an all-city choral festival Oct. 22.

The 82nd annual New Mexico Education Assn. convention was held in Albuquerque Oct. 23-24. The two day vacation for students was spent by the teachers in meetings and panel discussions.

The revenge-minded Hornets, combined with Homecoming spirit, led Highland to a Halloween night 34-0 shellacking.

Vice-President Agnew and Senator Edward Kennedy were main speakers at an Indian nation conference, in the city Oct. 7.

Thousands all over the country poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War on Moratorium Day Oct. 15.

"Those fabulous Mets" worked their way up from the National League cellar a few years ago to World Champions this year, defeating Baltimore Oct. 15.

Artificially sweetened foods were ordered off the market by the Federal government as a result of tests that concluded that Cyclamates cause cancer.

Friden Division of the Singer Co. broke ground for a city plant to produce low cost copying machines, a big step forward in Albuquerque's industrial development.

The Senate voted to ease trade restrictions with Russia. The bill cut from 1,300 to 200 the number of categories of goods considered strategic.

The Defense Department announced it would close 307 bases in U.S. and overseas to save $3. billion. New Mexico's portion of the cut was $3.734 million taken out of the White Sands, Sandia and Kirtland Bases funds.

"Funny Girl" proved to be the top theater attraction in October, while "Easy to Be Hard" topped the song charts.

Homecoming festivities provide month's

A whirl of elegance and a large portion of suspense characterized Homecoming, which combined with many other activities to mark the month of November.

Homecoming activities began long before the game with a series of elections that determined the queen and court. November 14 Jackie Quillen was crowned Queen of the eleventh annual Scarlet and Blue Homecoming. This was only the beginning of Queen Jackie's reign as a reception, football game with West Mesa and dance followed.

"Don't Drink the Water," a comedy by Woody Allen, was presented by the dramatic organizations Nov. 6-8.

"That's the Way It Is," the stage show, was presented by the Music Dept.

First quarter report cards were issued in November to the delight of some and dismay of others. These cards had several new features, the addition of + 's and - 's, teacher comments and second quarter grades.

Vietnam highlighted much of the news in November beginning with President Nixon's announced timetable for withdrawing U.S. troops from Vietnam and his speech to the nation's silent majority concerning the war Nov. 5.

The Senate passed the President's draft lottery bill. Under the bill men would be drafted into the army according to their birthdays. When the new system became fully effective, it would mean a single year of draft liability, usually the 19th, for most young American males. The first lottery was scheduled for Dec. 1.

In Washington, a letter from a former infantryman in Vietnam prompted an investigation of the alleged March, 1968, massacre of over 100 civilian Vietnamese by American servicemen in My Lai.

President Nixon nominated Clement Haynsworth to the Supreme Court Nov. 8. When the Senate finally voted on the nomination, Haynsworth was defeated in the first successful snubbing of the President by the Senate since 1920.

Despite many government moves to slow down or stop them, prices continued to spiral and stock values fell, thus increasing inflationary pressures in the economy.

Frequent airplane hijackings had almost dulled Americans' senses to the crime when 20-year old Rafael Minichello, an AWOL Marine, took over a plane from San Francisco to Rome, the longest plane hijacking in history.

Vice-President Spiro Agnew began a series of attacks on the news media this month, questioning the objectivity in reporting the news.

Apollo 12's astronauts, Charles "Pete" Conrad, Richard Gordon and Alan Bean returned from their successful trip to the moon Nov. 30. Conrad and Bean walked and performed experiments on the moon's surface from the lunar module "Intrepid." During the astronauts 31 hour, 31 minute stay on the moon, regular TV coverage was suspended when the camera lens was damaged after being pointed directly at the sun.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" and "Alice's Restaurant" attracted many Sandians to the city's theaters, while "Wedding Bell Blues," "Something" and "Come Together" were the month's top songs.

Culminating a hectic month was a well appreciated Thanksgiving vacation.

New year brings advent of new decade;

With the advent of the new decade, students returned to school to complete the first semester of studies and activities.

Amy Shaffer, American Field Service Americans Abroad student from Sandia, left for a South African home and a year of study in Paarl, South Africa, Jan. 12.

Seventeen students, including four Sandians, from four Heights high schools were arrested in narcotics raids on charges of selling marijuana and LSD. Information leading to the arrests was supplied by Narks, undercover police in the schools.

John Fannin was named Mr. Teenage America in an AFS assembly Jan. 16, winning the honor with his guitar playing and singing in competition with 12 other finalists.

Five local bands, Gertrude's Blues, Bounty Hunters, Heart, Family and Rush were featured in a "Rock Festival" put on by the junior class Jan. 17.

Seniors had their first real visions of graduation when they ordered announcements at the end of the month.

Three days of semester tests and a one day vacation marked the end of the first semester, which closed Jan. 23.

Introducing a new era in aviation, the Boeing 747 "superjet" made its first passenger flights from New York to London. The new craft, reportedly quieter, cleaner and safer than earlier jets, immediately presented the problem of mass luggage and local transit burdens to conventional airports. Despite objections concerning the slow takeoff and faulty escape methods, the first flights occurred safely.

Convening for the regular 30-day session, the State Legislature met in Santa Fe. Even before Governor David Cargo's opening address, the Senate introduced a state income tax cut bill. Major issues of the session were pollution control and Sunday liquor sales.

Three Alamogordo children were hospitalized with severe mercury poisoning after eating pork from locally raised hogs. An intensive search was made for the carcasses of other infected hogs, and 150 hogs being fed the mercury-treated grain were quarantined.

Joseph Yablonski, defeated candidate for United Mine Workers Union presidency, and his wife and daughter were found murdered in their home Jan. 6. Three suspects were arrested later in the month. Yablonski's defeat in the UMW election was a subject of much union controversy.

After 32 months of existence, the revolutionary government of Biafra crumbled Jan. 12 and surrendered to Nigeria. At the end of the conflict over two million had died and another million were expected to die of starvation before adequate relief was available.

H. Ross Perot, Texas millionaire, failed in his attempt to deliver Christmas presents to American servicemen in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps. A number of the prisoners' wives traveled to the Paris peace talks to get information about their husbands.

Birth control pills were the subject of Senate debate during the month, with factions differing over whether "the pill's" side effects outweigh its usefulness.

Also in Washington, President Nixon vetoed a Health, Education and Welfare appropriation bill in yet another effort to curb spiraling inflation.

Four days of closed door inquests were held to clarify the details of the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in which Senator Ted Kennedy was involved.

Triumphing over the Minnesota Vikings "Purple Horde" 23-7, the Kansas City Chiefs brought the Super Bowl Trophy to the American Football League for the second straight year and last time, as the two professional leagues will merge next year.

Movie-goers listened to "Venus" and "Arizona" on the car radio while driving to see "Paint Your Wagon" or "The Reivers."

Sport Señorita crowned in February

February's atmosphere was one of suspense and tension with Sports Senorita and TWIRP King selections and a hint of an economic recession nationally.

Sports Senorita Michelle Barnes was crowned during half-time ceremonies at the Highland High basketball game Feb. 7.

Names of 12 National Merit Scholarship Finalists, the largest number in Sandia's history, were announced Feb. 16. Juniors took the preliminary test Feb. 17.

TWIRP Week, February's largest attraction, provided a chance for Sandia's girls to ask out their favorite boys. The week was filled with many activities ranging from Sadie Hawkins game night, to Thursday's TWIRP assembly and the crowning of TWIRP King, Lerry Armstead.

Seniors continued their preparations for graduation with measuring for scarlet caps and gowns Feb. 24.

High point of the year for the juniors was reached with the distribution of class rings Feb. 27.

Suzanne

Suzanne Leslie was chosen New Mexico's Athlete of the Month for January by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Plans were announced designating the present D wing to become next year's multi-purpose library.

Sandians were saddened by the death of Mrs. Evelyn Civerolo. A veteran art teacher at Sandia since it opened, she died after a series of heart attacks.

With "turn on to Jesus" as a slogan and the attraction on a new type of ministry, Arthur Blessit walked through Albuquerque.

"Save the Alvarado" was the vain cry of some Albuquerqueans as a wrecking company began demolition of the historic hotel.

The State Legislature passed anti-air and water pollution bills. Included in the penalties for large polluters were $1,000-$5,000 a day fines.

"The Merry Round House," State Legislature, lived up to its name by rejecting, passing, recalling and amending bills.

Repercussions of youthful violence were felt when New Orleans' Mardi Gras came perilously close to being called off because of injuries resulting from the violence.

Southern white demonstrators turned to violence against the Supreme Court's forced integration of public schools, including bussing blacks to formerly white schools.

The "Chicago Seven" trial ended after five months of insults to the judicial process. The jury acquitted two and sentenced the other five to various prison terms on "Conspiracy to Incite" charges.

George Harrold Carswell was nominated to the Supreme Court by President Nixon. This raised cries claiming that he was a racist because of past activities.

Although the government insisted that the country was not in a recession, the stock market kept going down, prices up and defense cuts continued.

"John and Mary" proved to be the most patronized movie and "Bridge over Troubled Water" was the most popular song.

March's changing seasons reflected new activities for Sandia's populace as the end of school loomed ever closer.

Swimming and basketball tourneys, baseball games, golf, tennis matches and track meets kept sports fans busy in March.

Student Body Council endorsed faculty plans for a scholarship fund in memory of Mrs. Evelyn Civerolo. Homerooms raised money for the fund with projects ranging from a coffee shop to buying out of class.

Local students participating in summer tours, including 60 Sandians, attended a fashion show at Sandia to select appropriate wardrobes for their summer tours of Europe.

Dramatists kept busy with a class presentation of "The Wizard of Oz" and rehearsals for the April all-school production of Dylan Thomas's "Under Milkwood."

Plans for summer school were announced, and students began thinking of next year as pre-registration approached.

Albuquerque Youth Council sponsored a Teen Arts-Crafts Fair March 27-28.

Explosions on Israel-bound planes led to baggage checks by x-ray, stethoscope and simple scrutinizing from top to bottom. The Arab terrorist attacks also led to frisking of passengers.

Charles DiBona replaced Lieutenant General Lewis B. Hershey, 76, who had stepped down as director of the newly revised Selective Service System.

Expo-70 opened in Osaka, Japan, for a 183 day run. The architecturally phenomenal exhibits of 72 countries centered around the theme of "progress and harmony."

Despite frequent demonstrations, French President Georges Pompidou made his first visit to the United States. Included in his nine day tour were conferences with President Nixon and trips to Cape Kennedy, San Francisco, Chicago and New York.

Avalanches plagued communities in the Alpine nations with Switzerland suffering its worst since 1749.

North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao troops again attacked Laos, capturing the Plain of Jars and the Moung Soui airstrip. Many Americans worried that as the country's involvement in South Vietnam lessened, involvement in Laos would increase.

"The eclipse of the century" occurred March 7. Path of visibility of the eclipse cut across Mexico and the United States. The next visible solar phenomenon is expected in the year 2024.

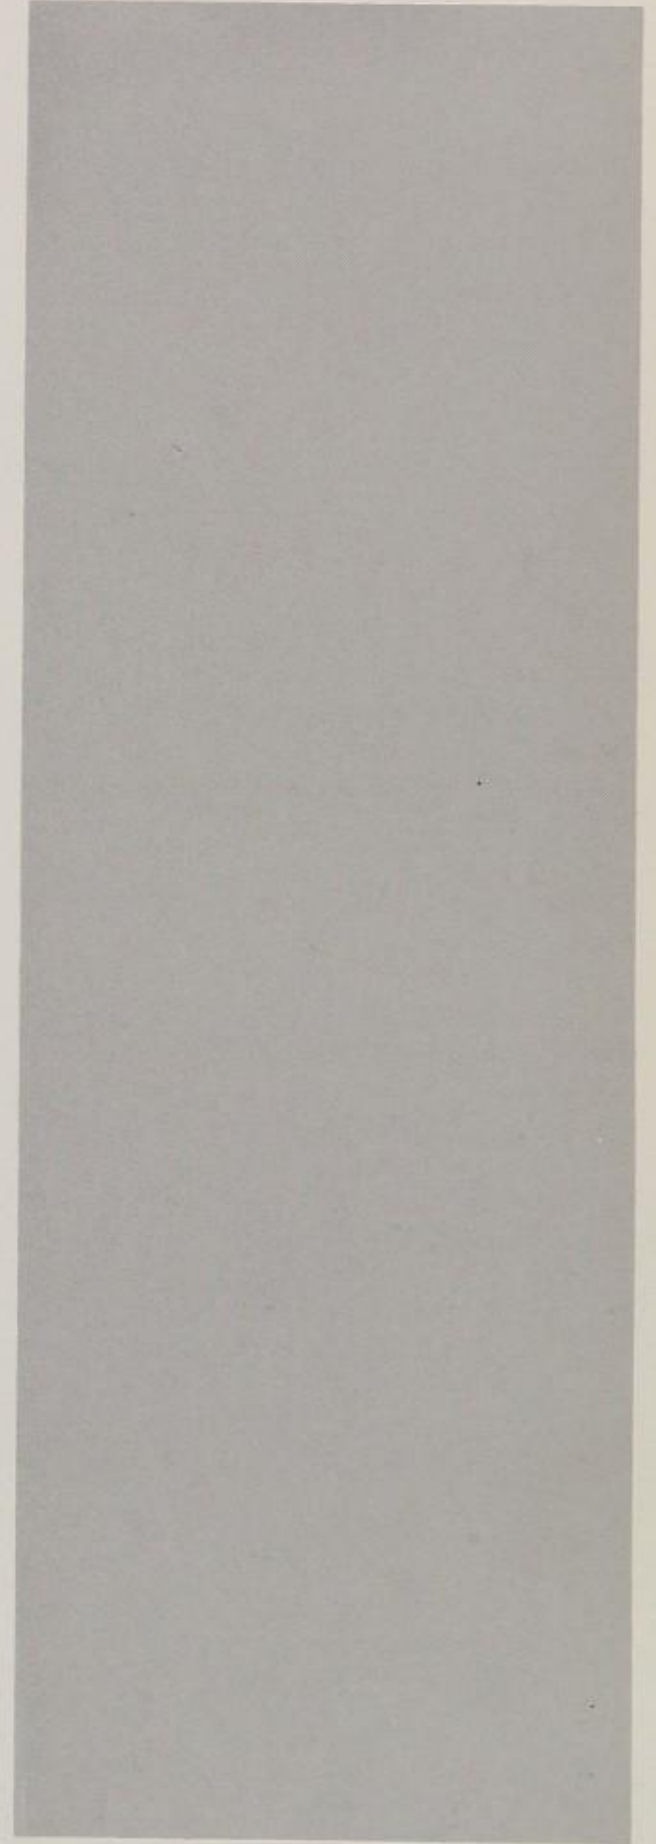

Recently suspended Detroit Tiger star pitcher Denny McLain and former pitching great Dizzy Dean were among those charged in a nationwide sports gambling scandal.

"Let It Be" emerged as the top song of March. Ever popular "Funny Girl" returned to city theaters, again attracting large audiences.

Faculty members, pupils crowd school;

An increase in the number of teachers and students, faculty changes, procedure revisions and building additions marked the 1969-70 school year at Matadorland.

Sandia was again rated the largest high school in the state with approximately 3,000 students enrolled in classes.

Sandia had 15 additional teachers as the result of the increased student body, bringing the total of faculty members to 106. While faculty changes occurred at Christmas and semester because of military and family obligations, student teachers continued to experiment in their first attempts at teaching.

While the curriculum continued to be updated, new methods of teaching were tried. Team teaching was used in the math and business departments. Programmed Algebra was also utilized to let students work at their own pace.

Students were given early dismissal unless they were carrying a six course load. Student assistants were required to complete a six hour day, but received half credit for their work.

Students experienced liberal changes in school functions. The dress code was modified; however, students were required to wear shoes. A smoking area was established to curtail smoking in the buildings. While students, parents and teachers discussed controversial issues at Open Forum meetings, students were also able to voice their opinions in the Probe, a monthly newspaper sponsored by Student Body Council.

Additions to the Industrial Arts wing and the Boys Gym were completed in the summer, and construction of classroom pods, to replace annexes, continued into December. A new senior parking area was established east of F wing, as the previous lot was needed for expansion. A new heating and cooling system was installed in E wing.

Mini-courses were offered by the Technical-Vocational Institute to students throughout the city during second semester. Students who enrolled were eligible for credit toward graduation.

Sandians were saddened by the death of Mrs. Evelyn Civerolo, an art teacher who had taught at Sandia since it opened. A committee was set up to establish a scholarship in her name as teachers, students and organizations contributed to the fund.

Two Sandia teachers received recognition as Orin Buchleiter was chosen the State Industrial Arts Teacher of the Year and Ernest Polansky was named the State Biology Teacher of the Year.

Plans for the construction of a new $90,000 multi-purpose media center to be located in D wing were prepared, and actual construction was expected to be completed by next fall.

Passage of a bond issue last spring secured funds to purchase land in the Model Cities area, begin construction of a new Albuquerque High and provide money for school additions. Money from the issue was also going toward the building of Eldorado, Albuquerque's ninth high school. Freshmen and sophomores previously in Sandia's district will attend Eldorado upon its completion in the fall.

Packing the crowded halls were new students, new teachers, a new principal and assistant principal.

After serving eleven years as principal, Leroy Brannon accepted a position as Vocational Education Director with Albuquerque Public Schools.

Richard Rounds came to Sandia as principal after being the Director of Guidance of APS. Being in charge of student activities, establishing school policies and approving supply orders and expenditures were included in his responsibilities.

Charles Hutchins, who came to Sandia from Monroe Junior High, was the new assistant principal. His responsibilities included sponsoring the custodian staff, taking care of teachers' evaluations and issuing materials and supplies.

Mrs. Vivienne Swanton returned for the ninth year as assistant principal. Her duties included determining grade point averages, coordinating the curriculum and scheduling graduation.

Establishing better student-faculty relations was the goal of the Sandia administrators for 1969-70.

Albuquerque Public Schools system

Changes in administration, personnel and budget took place in the Albuquerque Public Schools system as decentralization was the big project for 1969-70.

Robert Chisholm, superintendent since January, 1966, resigned in March to work in Arlington, Va. Operations shifted into high gear as long time state educator, Dr. Tom Wiley, was appointed superintendent of the system in June.

Decentralization went into effect as 80,661 students began school in the fall. In an effort to increase closer contact between schools and community, APS established three new areas to humanize the far-flung system and help expedite communications. Ralph Dixon took over as East Area superintendent, which included Sandia and Monzano and, in the future, Eldorado.

Committees were established and monthly meetings were held to help further communications between the Board of Education and Albuquerque citizens.

The Board approved plans to continue experimenting with four year high schools and to establish a "mini Primary" school, to include kindergarten through third grade, in certain areas of the city.

Albuquerque schools will pick up at most $34 a child under the schools' financial distribution plan approved in the final hours of the 30 day State Legislature.

In additional state funds Albuquerque schools were to receive $2,809,257; $1,905,794 in basic support to the 3.14 per cent increase figure and $903,463 in supplemental monies.

Before the legislative session, APS's Committee on Legislature Needs had estimated that Albuquerque would have to have $2,076 million in new money just to maintain its present programs and allow for a 1.5 per cent enrollment increase. The growth rate is now expected to be 2.6 per cent or 2,200 new students next year.

Results of negotiations last spring included a maximum seven hour and 15 minute working day, a pay hike and hiring of paraprofessionals. New also this year was the professional leave day for teachers.

Plans for the city's ninth public high school, Eldorado, were approved by the Board of Education and construction was well under way. Initial cost was estimated at $2.8 million. Innovations for the new high school will be team teaching and individualized instruction.

It is expected that when Eldorado opens in the fall of 1970 there will be approximately 1,700 students in the ninth, tenth and eleventh grades. Several Sandia teachers and 340 Sandia sophomores were expected to transfer to the city's ninth high school.

other facilities benefit Sandia pupils

Counseling, attendance, medical aid and library facilities were services provided for the students of Sandia.

Counselors administered individual and group tests to students, as well as providing assistance to parents, students and faculty. Special attention was given to students seeking help in job hunting or planning a college career.

Edwin Verploegh rejoining the counseling staff after spending a year's leave of absence in Ethiopia, where he was a counselor at the American Community School.

Checking vision and hearing, keeping up-to-date health records and giving aid and comfort were only part of Mrs. Marguerite Royer's duties as the school nurse.

Americo Andrade, attendance director, was responsible for maintaining attendance records of every student. Yearly his office distributed Federal Census information for those pupils whose parents live or work on Federal property, providing "Federal impacted funds" for the system.

New equipment, such as language booths, copy machines and microfilm readers were only a few items which were changing the traditional type library to a Media Center concept. Together Mrs. Mildred Schenkel and Miss Linda Skerritt combined their knowledge to introduce students to library usage.

Frank Moody, the new activities director, organized and co-ordinated school activities along with co-sponsoring Student Body Council activities.

Students profit from business skills

Students with occupational interest found Business Department courses that provided them with the knowledge necessary for employment, business and industry.

The curriculum included Typing, Book-keeping, Record Keeping and Personal Typing. Even more technical were Data Processing, Business Machines, Shorthand, Office Practice and Business Law courses.

New courses added to the department were Shorthand-Transcribing and Office Education-Secretary.

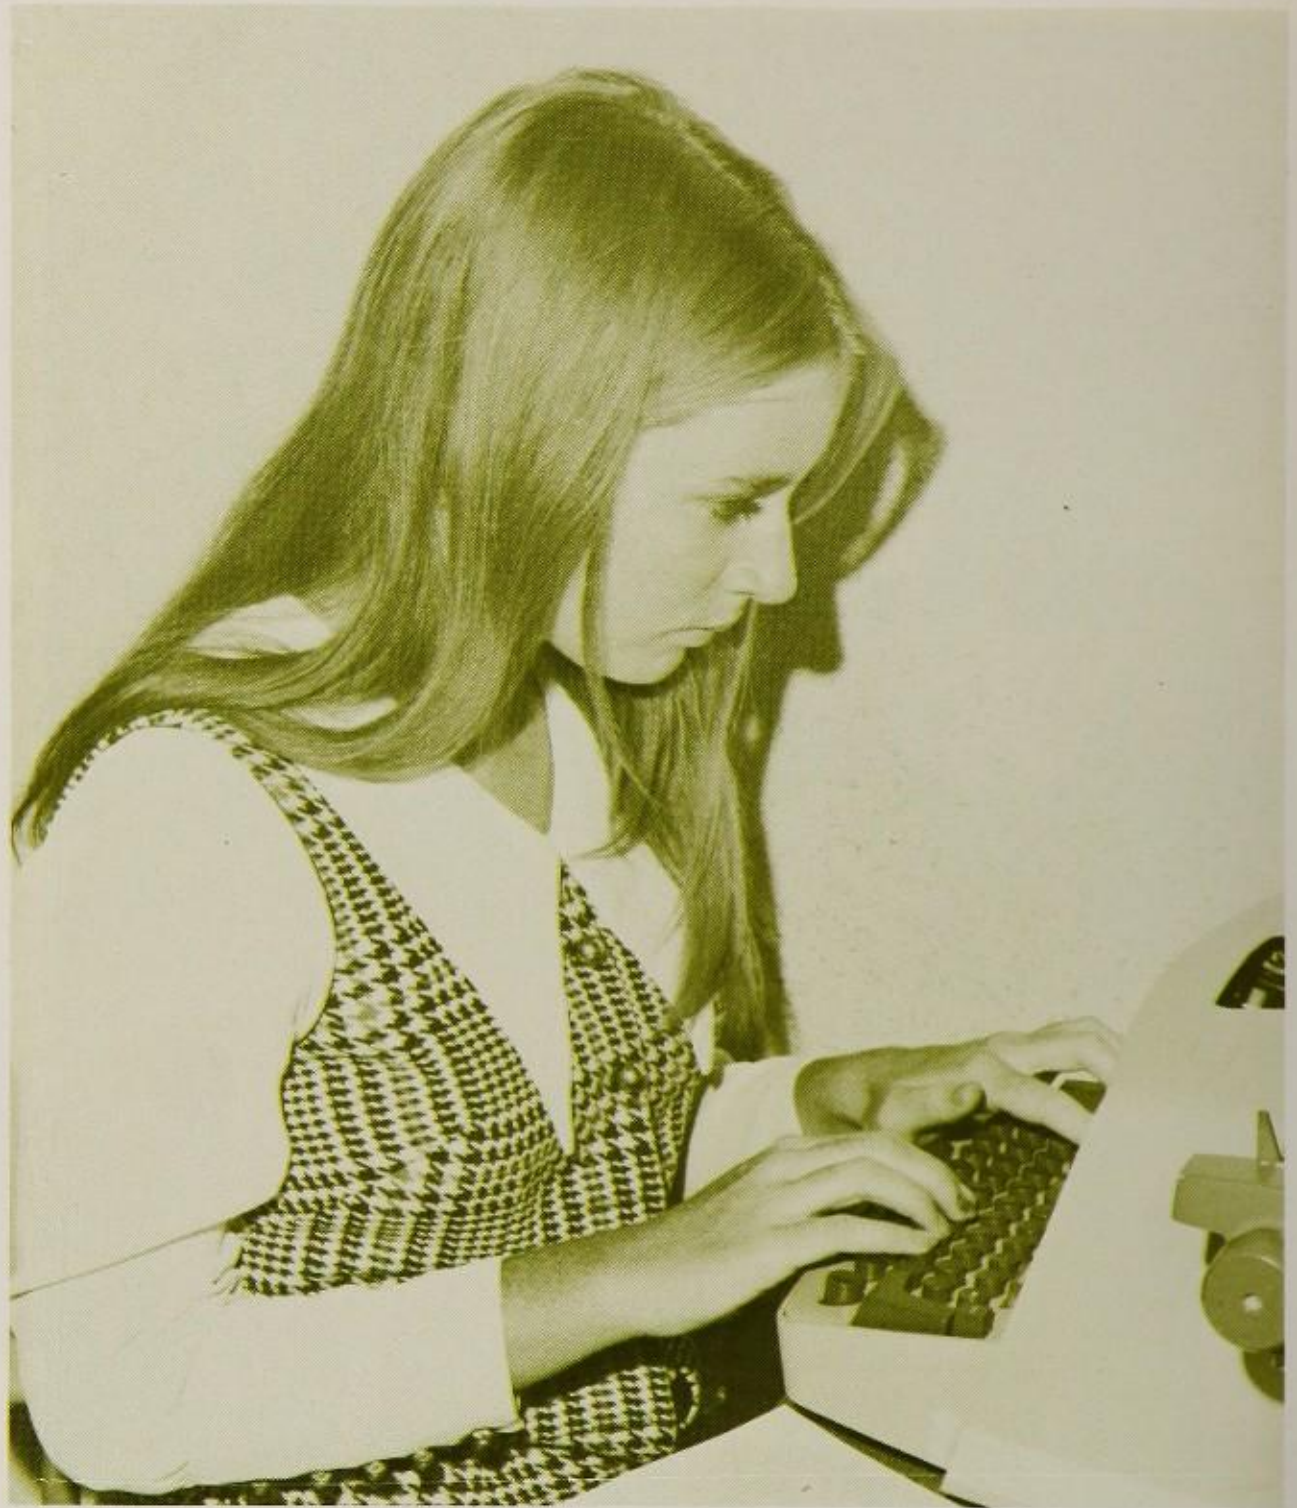

Distributive Education, a course which began here in 1960, enabled students to learn more about the selling and merchandising of today.

Team teaching, an innovation in typing classes, enabled teachers to give more individual attention to students.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Nancy Perry, chairman, were eight teachers, including one added to the staff this year.

The Distributive Education Club of America, a chapter of a national organization, provided interested students with helpful techniques in business and was open to juniors and seniors enrolled in DE.

creativity, comprehension, composition

Emphasizing creativity in composition, a fuller understanding of literature and better use of grammar were only a few of the objectives of the English Department, as students worked to earn the three credits needed for graduation.

The use of tracking enabled students' different needs to be met. Courses from the remedial level to developmental and regular levels were offered. Enriched humanities courses enabled more advanced students to cover material more rapidly and put greater emphasis on composition.

Sophomores were involved in the study of Julius Caesar and Silas Marner, as well as the study of short stories, vocabulary exercises, poetry and book reports.

American literature from the Colonial Period on was studied by juniors.

Senior studies accented English and world literature, including works by Shakespeare, Chaucer and Milton. A research paper was also required each semester.

For the third year the Core program offered correlated history and literature for juniors and seniors.

Communications Media, a new course which delved into the development of radio, television and the theater, was offered to students wishing to expand their knowledge in these fields.

Reading Improvement and English Self-understanding, aiding those with deficiencies in English, were new this year.

Alternating semester courses offered to students were Mythology/Folklore, Creative Writing, and Writing Experiences.

The Sage, a literary magazine edited by Creative Writing classes, was distributed around the second week in April.

Publications and journalism students of the newspaper and yearbook staffs published the Crest and the Sandian yearly and monthly, respectively.

"Don't Drink the Water," the year's first play, was put on by student dramatists. Other plays produced were "Under the Milk-Wood," and several different children's plays.

Speech and debate classes enabled students to be at ease with public speaking, while Speech Club activities gave them a chance for competition.

Top ranking high school journalists were eligible for membership in the Dr. Tom Erhard Chapter of Quill & Scroll, an international honorary society.

Teaching varied levels of English, Dr. Frances Kuliasha, department chairman, had the assistance of 26 teachers, seven of whom were new to the school.

Recitation, films, Spanish newspaper involvement, interest

"El Lucero," a Spanish newspaper published by advanced Spanish students, a course in Russian II and Mrs. Winnie Mahoney, Spanish and French teacher, were additions to the Language Department.

While primary levels were concerned with basic techniques and pronunciation, secondary levels increased the students' knowledge with recitation and board drills.

The students' ears grew accustomed to the inflections and accents of the foreign languages with tapes recorded by natives.

French and Spanish classes watched films about the customs of the people in France, Spain and Mexico, while German and Russian students listened to tapes and recordings which increased their hearing and speaking skills. Latin courses included mythology and a study of the Roman Empire.

Societe Franco-Americaine, French club; Die Halberstarken, German club, and Los Aficionados, Spanish club, provided extra-curricular activities for language students. "Spaniards" in advanced courses who maintained a B average were eligible for membership in the Manolete Chapter of the Spanish National Honor Society.

Allen Roth headed the department which offered 15 years of study, although a language credit was not required.

Math includes team teaching

Team teaching was utilized this year to enable mathematics teachers to give more individual attention to students.

This method was used in Algebra, Geometry and General Math. Math Analysis, Computer Math, Advanced Algebra and Geometry were also among the courses offered to more advanced math students.

Bleary-eyed Computer Math students arrived at the Public Schools Central Office every Friday at 6 a.m. to use a Honeywell 1200 computer to check equations they had done. An A or B in Algebra II was the pre-requisite for Computer Math.

Senior math served as a refresher course as well as the math requirement for those who had not yet earned the credit.

Remedial, average and enriched courses were offered by the department.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors with at least a B in math and science were eligible for membership in the Mu Alpha Theta, national mathematics club.

Mrs. Camille Bidwell was added to the staff after the first week of school to assist the 13 other math teachers under the supervision of John Benny.

Graduation requirements include one

Physical Education, necessary for graduation, was a course required during the first year of high school.

Students continuing in PE after their sophomore year found that sports aided them in their development as people.

The boys' program included elementary rules and regulations of football, basketball, baseball and soccer. Also as part of the curriculum, the boys gained experience in track, tumbling, weight lifting, bowling, billiards, golf and swimming.

Less vigorous in its demands was the girls' course which included volleyball, hockey, basketball, bowling, softball and track and field. The girls also received instructions in badminton, modern dance, golf, fencing and gymnastics.

The co-ed square dancing classes improved dancing skills and manners as well as enabling students to enjoy the combination classes of boys and girls.

These events were just a few of the programs that made gym class a most profitable experience. A major goal of the gym course was to introduce many sports to students in hopes that, through personal participation, a continuing interest would bring health and enjoyment in later life.

Under the direction of department chairmen, Miss Anne Poston and James Ottman, were six teachers, three of whom were new to Sandia this year.

Intramurals, Gymnastics Club, Girls Sports Club and girls and boys varsity sports were extracurricular activities available to interested students.

include Biology, Physics, Chemistry

Students' noses wrinkled involuntarily outside rooms of the Science Department as strange odors of chemicals penetrated the halls of A, B and C wings.

From Biology to Physics, students searched deeper into the world of science, expanding their knowledge of the fields, as they sought to earn the science credit required for graduation.

The discussion of plants and animals along with studying microscope slides and analysing blood types served as invaluable aids to biology students. Biology II students further studied the classification of living things and microbiology.

Budding chemists struggled through theories and formulas and learned how to multiply and divide with a slide rule. Chemistry II dealt with a higher level of experiments and calculations.

Investigation of equipment used in laboratory work enabled Physics students to learn the laws governing mechanics, electricity, sound, heat and light.

Members of the Future Doctors of America club visited educational establishments to learn about a possible career as a doctor. Los Cientificos, science club, was open to anyone wishing to enrich his knowledge of the science world.

A total of seven years study was offered under the supervision of DeWitt Ivey with the assistance of 10 teachers.

Field trips, group reports and discussions, film strips and research papers were activities included in 12 courses in the Social Studies curriculum.

United States History, a subject required of juniors, was offered in Core, a correlation of American literature and history, in regular as well as enriched classes.

Seniors were allowed to select the course that would give them their final history credit.

World History was also offered as Core in regular and enriched classes. Modern History was the study of world events of the past two centuries.

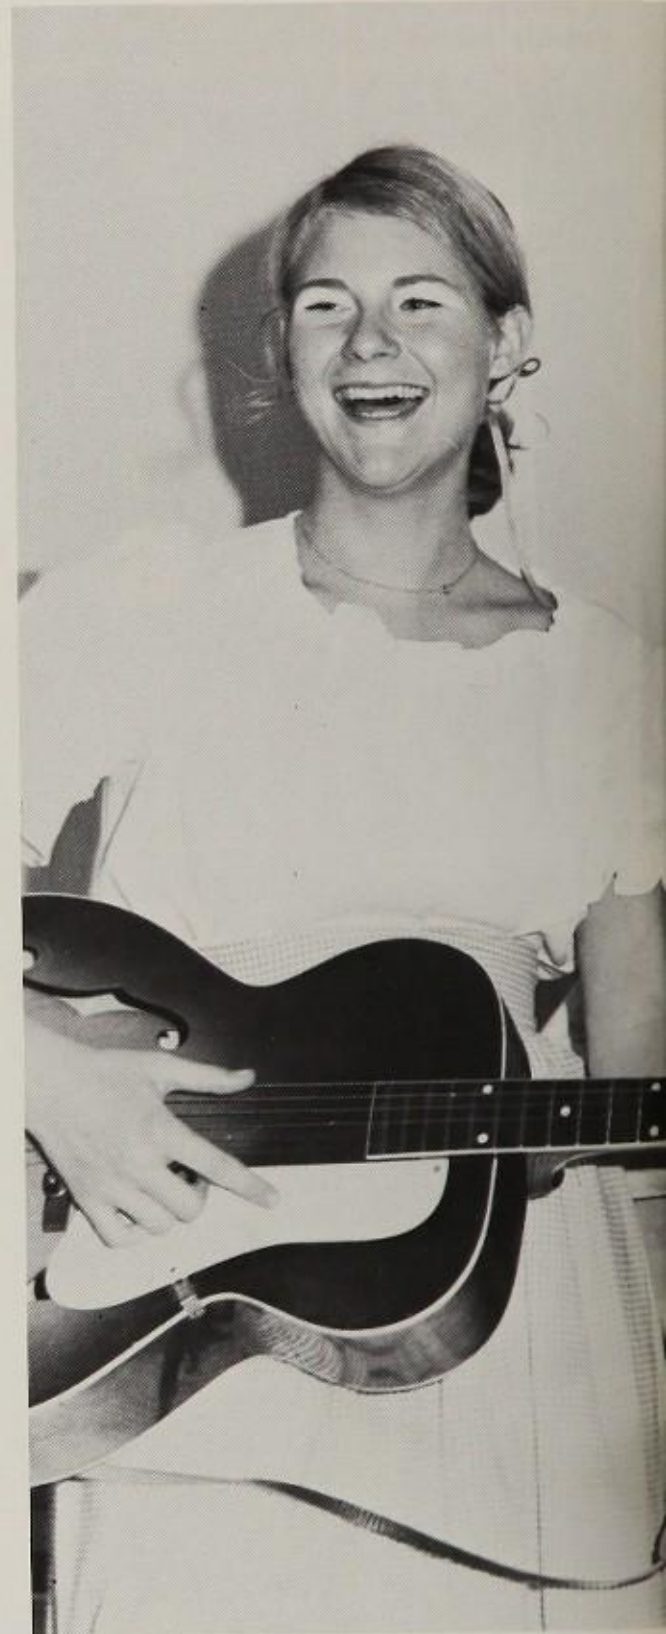

Students in the History of the Soviet and the Far East studied the cultural development of the countries involved. Comparative Government, open to seniors only, involved the concepts of American government in comparison to other national governments during the semester course.

While World Problems was concerned with current international affairs, Problems of Democracy, a semester course, was a study of the theories of nationalism and sectionalism. Those who took World Geography, also a semester class, learned of physical characteristics and native behavior of different areas of the world.

Anthropology, a new semester course, allowed students to delve into the life of early man. Psychology, the study of human behavior, and Sociology, an examination of behavior patterns of groups of people, were again offered as semester classes.

Mrs. Barbara Murdoch supervised the department which included 15 teachers.

Electives include art, drafting, music

Electives in the Arts and Technology Department ranged from Crafts to Commercial Art, Music Theory to Advanced Band and Drafting to Household Mechanics.

Art I students experimented with landscapes, still life and portraits, while Art II and III students worked with various media. Commercial Art I and II students worked with different styles of lettering in creating posters and advertisements.

Those in Craft classes worked with leather, ceramics, wire and copper.

Musically inclined students chose from various electives. While Girls Chorus and Mixed Chorus students performed at several functions, the Concert Choir served as the main performing group of songsters. Music Theory classes studied the fundamentals of music literature for a semester.

Beginning and Intermediate Bands worked on several compositions as Advanced Band members strived to perfect their talents.

Advanced Orchestra, Wind Percussion and Brass and Percussion Sectional were open to students with special talents.

Girls in Home Economics I and II examined family relationships and situations.

Students with more specific interests were able to take semester courses in Interior Decoration, Clothing and Foods, Child Development and Family Living.

Students in Metals I learned how to use metals and how to design with metal, while those in Metals II did advanced work and received two credits. Woods I, II and III students worked with equipment including drawing boards and blue prints. While boys repaired engines in Power Mechanics, girls in Household Mechanics designed breadboards and made other household items. Drafting I, II and III was also offered to interested students as well as Electronics.

Charles Singleton supervised the Arts and Technology Department.

Working before, during and after school, the custodial staff, supervised by Johnny Sanchez, strived to keep the grounds and buildings neat and clean.

Sandia's plant engineer, Arthur Montroy, who had been with the school since its opening in 1958, was forced to change jobs because of health reasons.

Planning and serving meals was the job of the nine cafeteria workers, supervised by Mrs. Ruth Lakeman. Spanish food continued to be the most popular food with students, aside from hamburgers.

In the administrative office, Mrs. Margaret McGee was the assistant principal's secretary and Mrs. Clea Smith was secretary to the principal and registrar.

Operating the data processing equipment was the job of Mrs. Polly Bartolucci, while Mrs. Betty Stripling was responsible for the school's bookkeeping.

Mrs. Lois Collins assisted the counselors, while Mrs. Betty Tyler helped to keep attendance records correct.

Mrs. Sotrea Meares, library clerk, and Mrs. Millie Ray, bookroom clerk, kept records of book fines and distribution.

Wayland strives for liberal changes;

Students of Sandia were given a larger and more positive voice in school affairs under the guidance of Gary Wayland, Student Body Council president.

New this year, Student Open Forum, headed by Dave Whitson, backed by SBC, enabled Sandians, parents and faculty to air their views on local and world affairs.

The Probe, newspaper, a sounding board for opinions, was also established.

Another first for Sandians was the establishment of a smoking area and a more liberal dress code.

Gary was chosen by the New Mexico Congressional District 1 to participate in the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans in Washington, D.C. Seminars were held Feb. 28—March 7 in the Senate and House to study government.

Actively participating in the Inter-City Council and the Albuquerque Youth Council, Gary also found time for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

He was a member of the American Field Service Committee, as well as the Staters' Club and Die Halberstarken.

Although interested in politics, Gary plans to major in math at Stanford.

Sandians greet first Irish student

Olivia McKeown, foreign exchange student, stepped from the plane Aug. 18 to be greeted by her foster family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Graham, daughter Stephanie, senior, and 200 cheering Sandians.

This began a new experience for the 17-year-old American Field Service student from Northern Ireland.

Although amazed by differences in weather, schools and dating customs, Olivia soon became active in school functions.

Joining several clubs, she was also a member of the National Honor Society and an attendant in the Homecoming court.

Olivia's own family in Ireland consists of six brothers and two sisters whose father is a civilian plane repairman for the Royal Air Force.

Olivia will return home to graduate from the Sacred Heart of Mary Convent Grammar School in Lisburn, Ireland.

Olivia plans to become a probation officer or social worker after graduation from Queen's College in Belfast.

Briefings, packing, flight begins AFS year in South Africa for Amy Shafer

Traveling to South Africa as part of the Americans Abroad program of the American Field Service, Amy Shaffer left for New York Jan. 12.

She arrived at her final destination, Paarl, South Africa, four days later. She spent one day in NYC for orientation, flew to Lisbon, Portugal, for another orientation session and from there to Johannesburg. She traveled to Paarl, a suburb of Capetown, the following day.

Amy is living with a family there, as do foreign students in the U.S. Her new family consists of two girls, ages 15 and 16, a 13-year old boy and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Pakleppa. Mr. Pakleppa works as the manager of a plastics factory. Amy's "sisters" are 16-year-old Katrin and 15-year-old Ulrike-Maria.

School started again for Amy Jan. 20 since South African schools run from January through December. She is attending La Rochelle Girls' High School.

The South African schools are not co-educational but are much like American private schools. The curriculum includes three types of courses: academic, practical and commercial. Amy is taking the practical, a combination of academic and home economics courses.

Amy will receive credit for the remaining part of her senior year and will be considered a member of the class of 1970. After her return in January, 1971, she will probably skip a semester of school and then begin as a freshman at the University of New Mexico in the fall of 1971.

Amy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shaffer, 3705 Gen. Stilwell. She has lived in Albuquerque since June, 1968, having moved here from Fort Madison, Io.

Amy, a senior, is Sandia's first full-time overseas exchange student since 1966-67. The last AFS student from Sandia was Ken Smith, '67, who lived in Brussels, Belgium. Bobbe Beck, '64, who studied in Argentina, was the schools only other full exchange student. Many

28 win recognition from National Merit

Sandians however, have traveled and studied abroad as part of organized summer tours.

Fourteen students broke school records to make the largest number of National Merit Semi-Finalists scoring in the top one per cent of Sandia's 12 year history.

An equal number of Commendation winners were also honored for scoring in the upper two per cent.

Semi-Finalists were awarded high praise and the chance to compete with 15,000 others who also scored in the top one per cent of the nation.

National Merit Qualifying tests were taken in 17,250 schools to award 3,000 scholarships of which 2,000 were for a complete four years.

Finalists were determined by the results of the Scholastic Aptitude Tests, taken by the Semi-Finalists in November.

Semi-Finalists Lawrence Allred and David Millican have since transferred to Washington and Hawaii, respectively.

Another Semi-Finalist, Stanley Kolodzie, is claimed by Sterling High School, Houston, Tex., where he took the test.

Publications include student opinion, art,

Deadlines . . . deadlines . . . deadlines! Harried editors of the four Sandia publications overcame these and many more crises.

Newest of the school's publications was The Probe which began its first year of publication Oct. 20 as the school's official student opinion paper.

Co-ordinator for The Probe was Mark Ish, who had previously been honored in the yearbook's Who's Who. An active leader, he was deeply involved in student government and school athletics.

Boasting a young staff of mostly juniors, the Sandian, newspaper, featured more pictures and a willingness to experiment with new ideas.

Al Young devoted his attention to the Sandian as editor-in-chief. He also served as an active member in student government.

Ruth Epstein, associate editor, and Debe Bestgen, assistant editor, were both members of several organizations.

Original art work was included in the Sage, creative writing magazine. Jon Caswell and Gloria Emmett served as co-editors.

Jon was also active in many organizations for student government, worked on the yearbook and was a member of honorary organizations.

Gloria was busy in several honorary organizations and was also a National Merit Commendation winner.

More full color photos and color variations, plus better lay-out techniques highlighted this edition of the Crest.

Mary Adams, editor-in-chief, proved her abilities as a member of several honorary organizations and was also active in other school clubs.

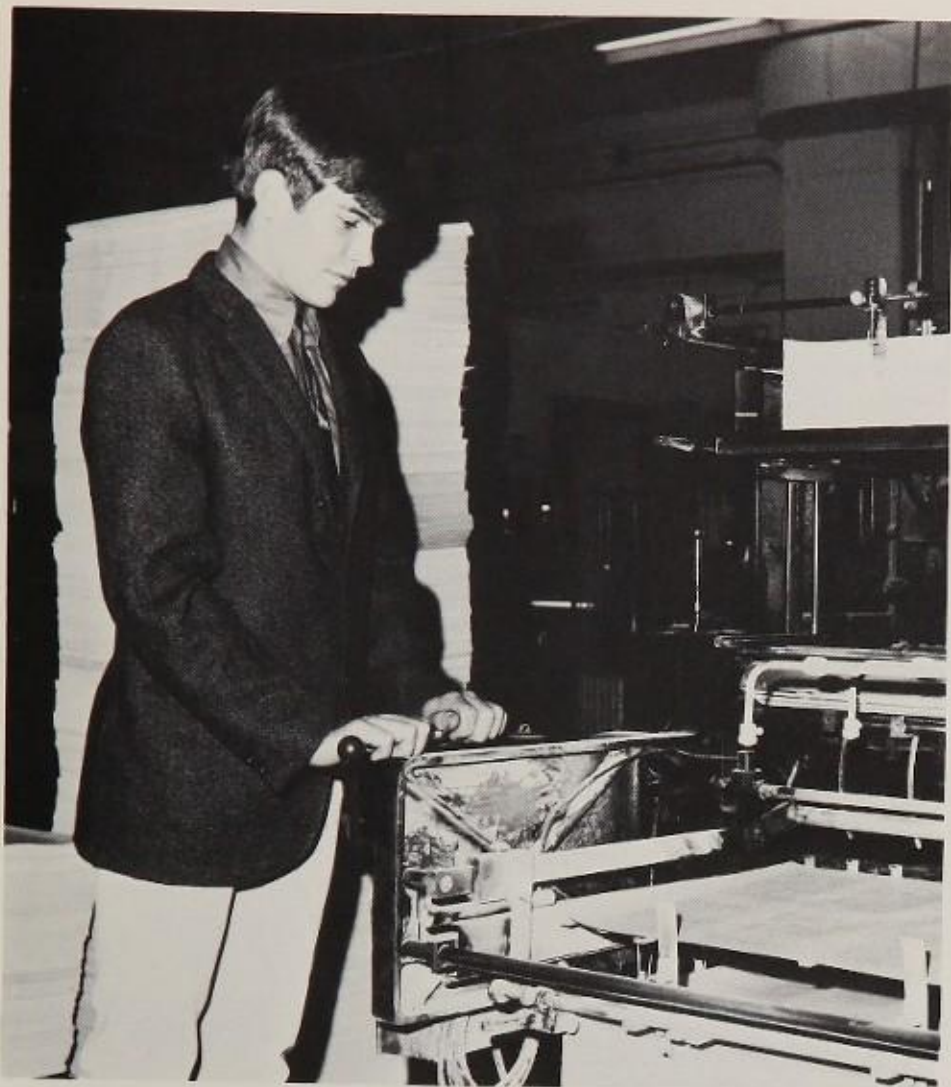

Medley Stehwien, associate editor, also divided her attention between honorary organizations and service clubs.

Students earn 'Sandian of Month' honors

Deserving students who had made outstanding achievements in service to the school, academic records and community activities were named "Sandian of the Month."

Eleven such students were chosen by a student committee to represent each month of the school year.

In March Paul Knudsen took the title for his achievements as an active participant in student government and athletics. He was also a member of an honorary club and received a National Merit Commendation.

April's "Sandian" Agamemnon Despopoulos was selected for his ability in drama and speech. He was a member of several organizations including an honorary. Ag also received a Commendation.

"Sandian of the Month" for May was Neal Kelley, active in athletics and honorary clubs. He worked extensively in school publications and was a student assistant.

Susan Fisher began the 1969-70 school year as September's "Sandian." She was active in school government as well as several other organizations.

In October Laing Gardner was named for his extensive work in student government and as the state chairman of the Teen Action Program of the March of Dimes.

Michelle Barnes was the November "Sandian of the Month." She was active in student government, distinguishing herself as the Homecoming chairman. Later in the year she was elected Sports Senorita.

Steve Porter was honored as the only sophomore named to the elite number of "Sandians of the Month." He participated in student government and athletics.

Chosen for her versatility in many fields, Marti Anamosa was named January's "Sandian." Marti was deeply involved in student government and several honorary organizations. Besides participating in other clubs and All-State Chorus, Marti was also a National Merit Finalist.

Leslie Roach was named February's "Sandian" for her work as chairman of the TWIRP Week activities. She was also active in honorary and service organizations, as well as in student government.

Molly Jackson and Larry Giron shared the March title for accomplishments as Distributive Education Clubs of America district vice-president and president, respectively. Both were nominated for the same state offices. Larry was associated with other DECA activities, while Molly added government and honorary organization work to her DECA involvement.

honor Sandians during special assembly

Many Sandians were named for honors and scholarships at the annual Awards Assembly May 23.

Robert Kastner, John Gilbert, Patrice Gabriel, Beverly Johnson and Greg Logan were presented with awards from the various school departments.

Awards from other school departments were also presented to Melody De Angelis, Jan Coffee, Kim Perdue, Dan Everett, Nancy Merritt, Linda Martinez and Gary Smith.

Scholarships were awarded by the University of New Mexico, New Mexico State and New Mexico Tech, as well as out-of-state colleges, to graduating Sandians.

Other scholarships were presented to Suzanne Gephart from National Merit and to Gary Smith by the National Honor Society.

Student Council scholarships were awarded to Karen Eakins and Steve Eagan.

Various other awards went to Rick Harrelson for the West Point Leadership award, Diane Stewart a fourth place national award in Creative Writing and Becky Shepard, the John Phillip Sousa Award.

Fred Arfman received the National Mathematics contest award; Steve Duke, the Rensselaer Award, and Peter Watterburg, the UNM Math Contest award.

Karen Eakins and Kim Perdue received Danford Foundation awards, and the Readers Digest award went to Paula Lees.

Pan American Roundtable awards for all levels of Spanish were presented to Peggy Bingham, Chrys Jaschke, Pam Leslie and Marian Corsentino.

Drama awards were presented by Thespian Troupe 879 and Las Candilejas to Darro Breshears, Paul Knudsen, Ann Wincenciak, Kevin Kierst and Robert Goulding.

Publications awards were presented to outgoing newspaper and yearbook editors.

Top scholars in all three classes were recognized, and graduating members of the Virgil I. Grissom chapter of National Honor Society were honored.

Staters participate in week of political,

Electing government officials, political parties and student problems were on the agenda as 11 boys and six girls attended the annual Boys and Girls States this summer.

Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion, was held June 7-13 on the campus of the New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell. Girls Staters, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, met at the University of New Mexico June 15-22.

Lerry Armstead, John Leslie and Steve Peterson served as city police judges, while Jon Caswell was city clerk and Ed Neidel was city commissioner. Other Sandian officials were Gary Wayland, mayor; Steve Loy, mayor and Boys Nation nominee; Gary Jones, county assessor; John Leslie, state senator; Laing Gardner, state Federalist party chairman and chief clerk of the House of Representatives, and Dan Detorie, state liquor control commission head.

Ginger Walhood served as city treasurer while Marty Anamosa was a city councilman. Susan Fisher and Marty Anamosa were representatives and Ginger Walhood was a senator.

Candidates for Staters were voted on in a class election, and faculty elimination determined Staters and Alternates.

Alternate Staters included Ward Brinegar, Rick Bozone, Jim Campbell, Glenda Carter, Debbie Coffman, Jim Coleman, Gary Doll, Tommy Hughes, Larry Lindsay, Terry Linton, Mike Livermore, Marsha McKee, Jan Sowell, Irene Thompson, Jeanette Ulivarri and Tim Van Osten.

The mythical states were designed to encourage participation in government affairs and to promote good citizenship.

Sandian musicians participate in 26th

Lectures, rehearsals and performances were all part of the excitement for many Sandia music students during the 26th annual All-State Music Festival Jan. 28-31.

Various groups of musicians were directed in rehearsals and concerts by guest conductors from across the nation.

Sandia All-State instrumentalists, numbering 30, were divided into All-State Symphonic Band, Concert Band and Orchestra.

Concerts performed by All-State Mixed Chorus and Girls' Chorus during the Music Festival were open to the public, as were the performances by the All-State Bands.

Mixed Chorus, including 16 Sandians, performed under Dr. Howard Swan, Occidental College, Calif., and the 10 Sandians in Girls' Chorus were directed by Dr. Tom Mills, University of Missouri.

The All-State Concert Band, including six Sandians, was directed by William Hill, University of Arizona, and the Symphonic Band, with 10 Sandians, performed under Dr. Donald Hunsberger, Eastern School of Music, Portales. Fourteen Sandians in the All-State Orchestra were directed by Abraham Chavez, University of Colorado.

Singers give

Honor Choir Members, numbering 77, were very active with concerts and performances throughout the year.

After auditioning to join the Choir, members competed against one another in semester performances.

The All-City Choral Festival Oct. 22 began the activities and provided the students with an opportunity to work with other students in the city.

Choralists also sponsored the annual Stage Show Nov. 28 and presented a sacred concert for Casa Angelica, while performances were held at neighboring schools.

Christmas Chorus activities included a concert at Rhodes, Coronado Center and neighborhood caroling.

"On Conglomeration #2" was presented in late April. Members sold candy to buy new equipment as well as music.

Choral activities closed with the presentation of a Spring Concert in May.

Jackie Quillen was crowned Queen of the eleventh annual Scarlet and Blue Homecoming during the Coronation Assembly.

Princesses Kyra Robbins and Ginger Walhood also reigned over the Homecoming festivities Nov. 14-15.

Under the chairmanship of Michelle Barnes, Homecoming arrangements were made in the theme of "Spanish Eyes."

Ward Brinegar, MC, announced each member of the court as she was escorted from red and white streamers to her seat.

In a break with tradition, the three finalists were escorted onto the runway, and, then, the Queen and Princesses were announced to a roar of delight.

Queen and court were entertained by songs while the traditional roses from the court and gifts from school groups and other schools were presented.

Alumni and the court met with families and friends in a library tea.

That afternoon the Matador gridders' victory over West Mesa 20-6 was highlighted by the traditional presentation of a football to the queen by Mike Gardner and Steve Loy, team co-captains.

Closing the festivities was the eleventh annual Homecoming Dance Nov. 15 with music by The Black and White.

Lerry Armstead reigns over TWIRP activities

Reigning over the traditional TWIRP assembly and dance, Lerry Armstead was crowned King Feb. 19.

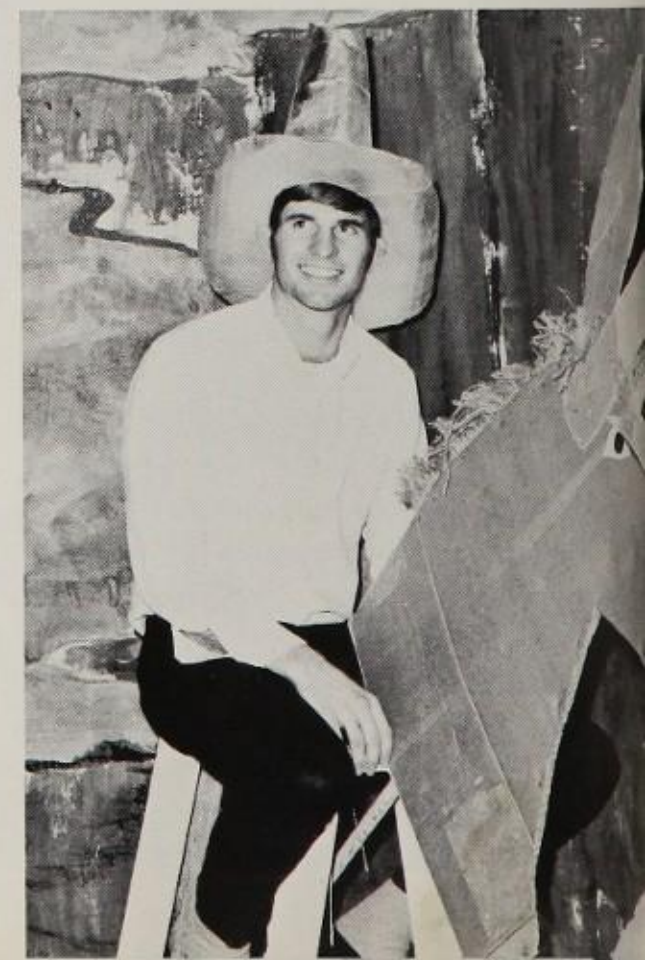

Roller skates, wagons, skateboards and tricycles carried the candidates to the royal barn decorated with wooden sawhorse thones and bales of hay for the King, his Knights and Squires.

Each candidate was one of two senior boys chosen by the participating girls service clubs to be elected by the student body in a secret ballot.

Entertainment for the 12 members of the court consisted of skits by members of the various girls service clubs.

Events highlighting the traditional TWIRP Week Feb. 16-21 were the junior class Hootenanny, Game Night, senior class movie, basketball game and the annual Coal Miners' dance honoring the court.

Michelle Barnes, Miss Cross Country, was named Sports Senorita during the half-time ceremonies of the Highland-Sandia basketball game Feb. 7.

Chosen by the Letterman's Club members from the various sports teams to represent their sport, the nine contestants were then voted upon by the student body.

The traditional Sports Senorita dance was postponed to coincide with the TWIRP Week activities.

awards in spring for accomplishments

Various honors were awarded to a number of outstanding students just before the close of school last spring.

Placing first in District competition in dramatic interpretation won Agamemnon Despopulos a trip to Georgetown University as a participant in the National Forensic League Tournament June 16-20. He was accompanied to Washington, D.C., by Speech Club sponsor Dale Bivens.

Sandia journalists won 10 writing awards at the annual Highlands Day to take top honors for the eleventh straight year.

Written by the student reporters for the Sandian, articles were judged by professional journalists. Highlands Day, held at Highlands University, is the site of the annual meeting of the New Mexico High School Press Assn.

Winning awards were Becky Rippel, Nils Donnell and Helen Hurst for feature stories; Lurline deVos, interview; Jean Hurst, sports; Dennis Cone, ex '68, editorial and news, and Greg Logan, sports, editorial and interview articles. Becky and Jean were repeat winners, while Cone won six awards in two years, and Logan won five in three years for new school records.

Sandia had six representatives in the State Science Fair last April at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology.

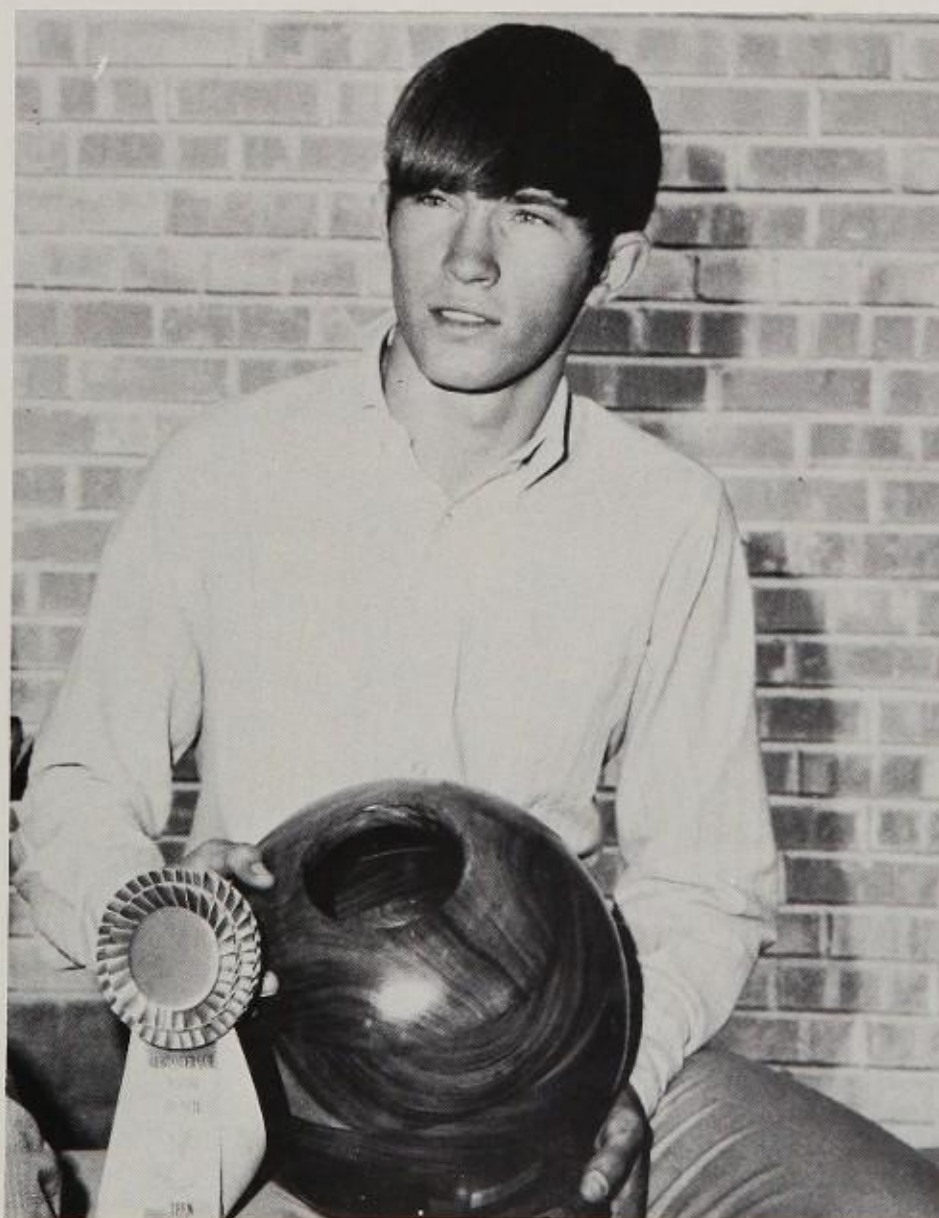

At the Socorro Fair, sophomore Bruce Ackerman received a certificate of achievement from the U.S. Army for his exhibit on zoology. The six Sandians had all won trips to State by placing in the Northwest Regional Science Fair on the University of New Mexico campus March 29.

The title of Ackerman's project was "The Origin and Comparative Study of Polymorphism in Ants."

Albuquerque Youth Council sponsored an Arts and Crafts Fair April 4-5 to sell and exhibit handicrafts by students. Grand prize winner was Sandian Robert Kastner.

Arts and Crafts Fair winners were chosen from each division of paintings and crafts. Costs of the Fair, held on the Winrock Mall, were paid by a 10 per cent commission on all sales.

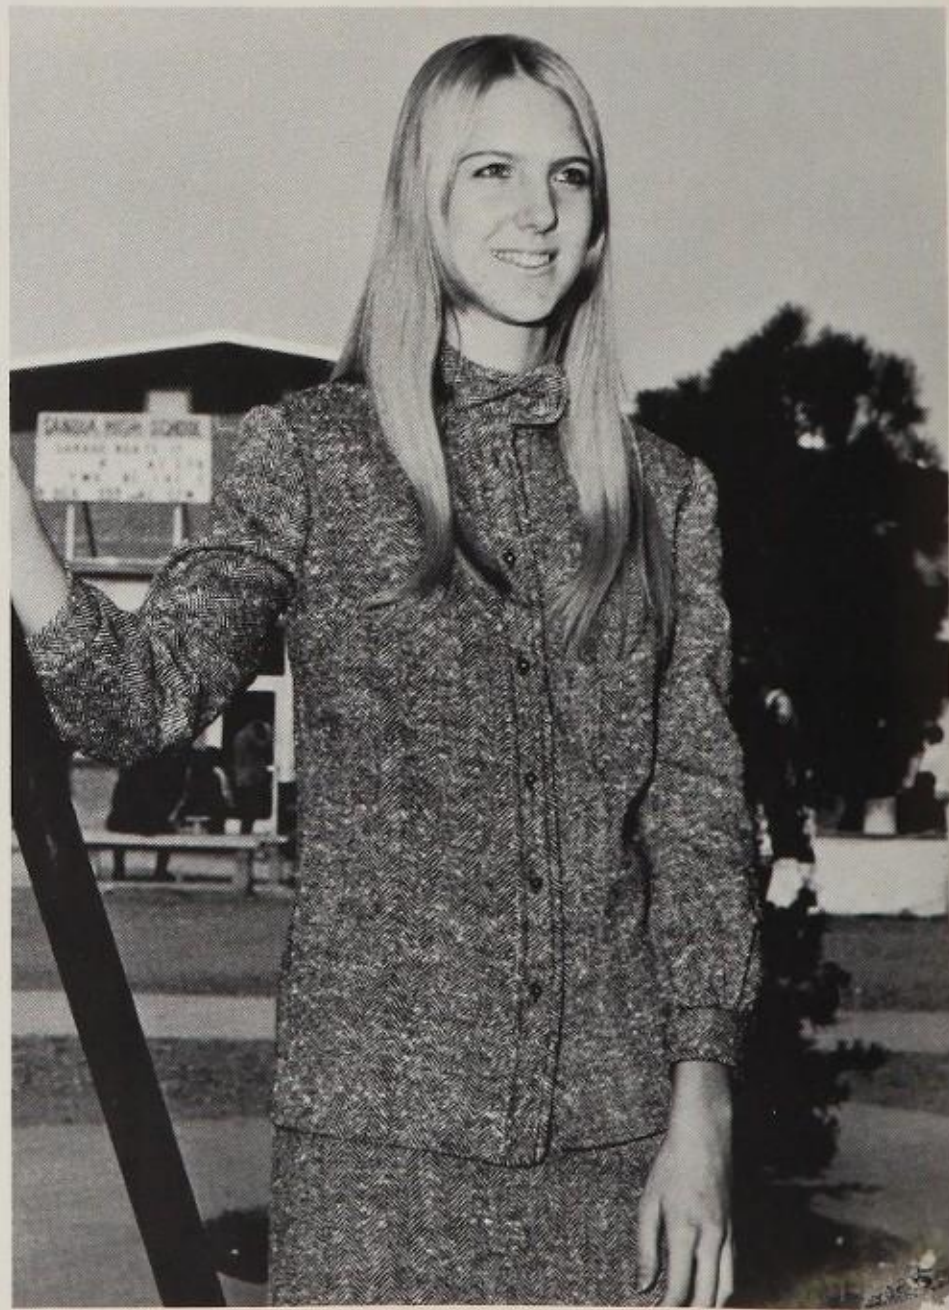

Receiving the 1969 West Point Leadership award was Rick Harrelson. He was chosen from five school nominees after a luncheon and interview at Sandia Base.

recognition for outstanding Sandians

National and local organizations presented many awards to outstanding Sandians during the year.

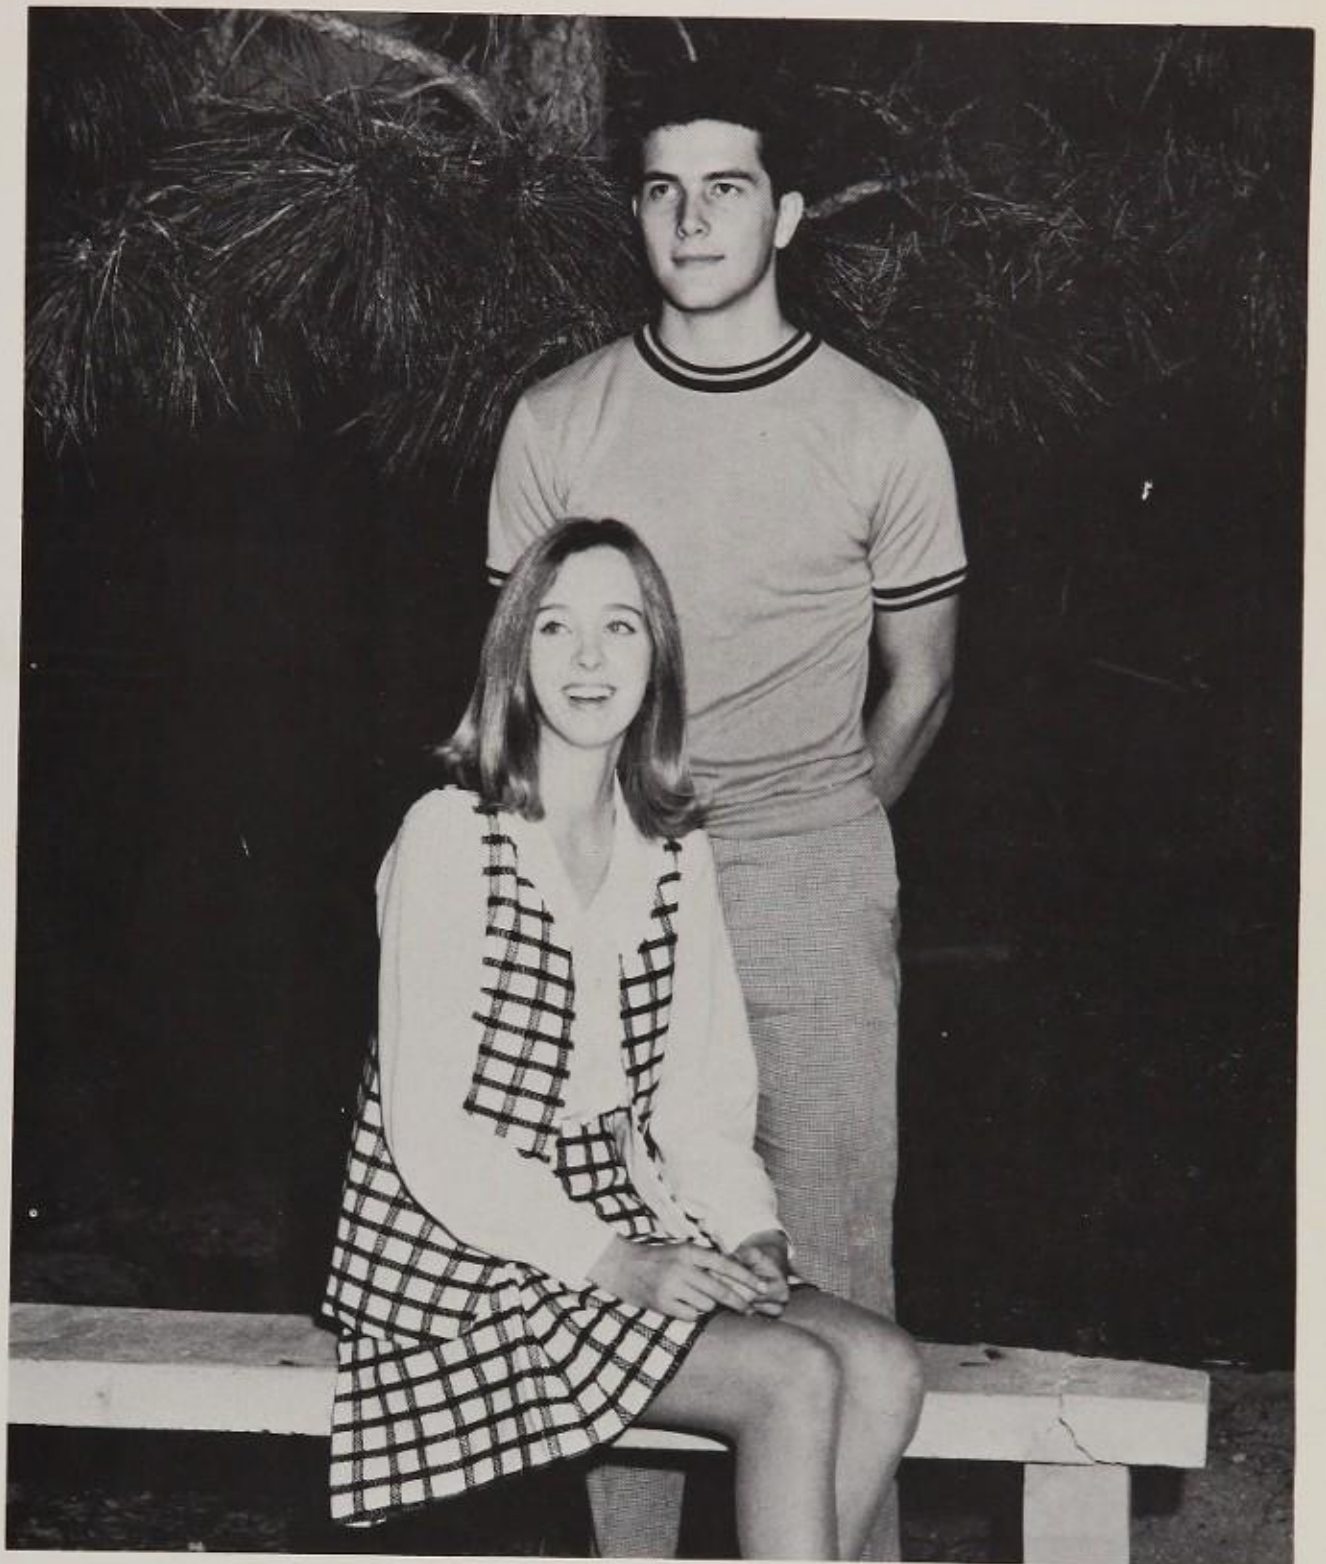

Seniors Gary Wayland and Dan Detorie were chosen to attend the Presidential Classrooms for Young Americans.

During their week-long trips to Washington, D.C., they attended 23 classes on government operations and programs. The $200 participation fees were paid by sponsors. Gary was sponsored by the Highland Kiwanis Club; Danny by the Albuquerque Journal. Gary attended the week of Feb. 28-March 7; Danny's trip was March 7-14.

Detorie also attended the State Youth Council last July in Austin, Tex. He was sent representing the Albuquerque Youth Council to study youth council programs in Texas. He spent five days in seminars on the campus of St. Edwards University.

Twelve students were named as Finalists, a school record, in the National Merit Scholarship competition in February. Finalists were Marti Anamosa, Judy Brown, Bruce Denning, Steve Duke, Sandra Ellingson, John Hawley, William Hodgson, Gary Jones, Stanley Kolodzie, Steven Lamberson, Al Reed and Joann Traylor. All became Finalists after submitting satisfactory Scholastic Aptitude Test scores and meeting other qualifications.

Rebecca Strasburg was one of two runners-up from New Mexico in the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards Program. There were two state winners and two runners-up. One of almost 8,000 in the contest, Rebecca was judged by samples of her writing on a national level.

Lynda Roe was one of three New Mexico students chosen to attend the National Youth Conference on the Atom, Chicago, Ill. During the conference, students studied peaceful applications of the atom. She also won a trip to the University of Iowa where she worked in the Department of Internal Medicine on a research project for the National Science Foundation.

Marti and Laing Gardner were presented with the Optimist award for their many activities during the Optimists' International "Youth Appreciation Week" Nov. 7-14.

Marti, Steve Duke and Gary Wayland were named Sandia's Outstanding Teens on the basis of their academic and community achievements. They will compete against other New Mexico students for the Governor's Trophy as the state's Outstanding Teen. The contest is sponsored by the Outstanding Americans Foundation.

Margana Peabody was named school Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow after scoring highest in the school on a national test. She became eligible for one of 102 scholarships worth $110,000.

Who's Who . . .

Thirty Sandians were selected as members of Who's Who 1970.

Faculty nominations and eliminations were based on leadership, academic achievements, character, service and individual accomplishments.

Photographs for the Who's Who section were taken at Sandia Frontier Town, located in the Sandia Mountains. Although snow, mud and darkness hindered the photographer, weather conditions added to the excitement of being a member of Who's Who.

allowing Sandians to voice opinions

Open Forum, the Probe, a new dress code and a smoking area were items introduced by Student Body Council.

Open Forum was established to allow students, parents and teachers to learn about and discuss controversial subjects. Invited speakers presented pro and con outlooks on the topics, and the audience was allowed to bring up questions or comments.

The Probe was published by SBC for the first time. The opinion newspaper served as a means for students to voice their opinions of school affairs.

SBC worked closely with the administration in altering the dress code, which was liberalized with the only requirements being that students wear shoes and observe good taste and health standards. A smoking area was also established.

Delegates from SBC took part in the inter-city council exchange day. Representatives also attended the State Student Council Convention Feb. 12-14 in Las Cruces.

Other activities included the annual magazine drive in November, Homecoming, a dance and the Christmas Drive.

Heading SBC this year was Gary Wayland assisted by new Activities Director Frank Moody.

Staters organized a slave sale, ran voting machines, held flag raising ceremonies and added Staters Week to their agenda as they planned the year's activities.

At the annual slave sale both staters and alternates were auctioned off as slaves by Coach R. P. Waters. Those who purchased "slaves" were admitted to the annual Staters dance free.

During Staters Week in March, staters had several speakers and activities to promote patriotism. Staters also spoke to underclassmen to get more interested in attending Boys and Girls States.

Staters staged a flag raising ceremony the first Thursday of each month and were required to wear their uniforms every first and third Thursday of every month.

Ushering on Parents' Night during American Education Week and presenting the colors at assemblies were some of the other tasks performed during the year.

Staters also ran the voting machines for the school's major elections.

Yearbook features added color

While deadlines and picture schedules constantly confronted the 1970 Crest staff, layout variations and additional four color pictures promised an exciting book.

Work on the book, which began last spring, included awarding publisher and photography contracts. The editors and second year staffers attended the New Mexico Interscholastic Press Assn. workshop at the University of New Mexico in August, collecting new ideas in yearbook.

Approximately 1,700 books were ordered during the annual subscription drive, and 100 additional books were ordered to be sold in May. Rising publishing costs forced the staff to increase the price by $2.

Techniques in picture cropping, page design and writing headlines and copy were introduced to the first year students. Using these techniques, they worked during the week, on weekends and on holidays.

In the past 11 years the Crest has received seven A+ ratings, three A's and one B+ from the National School Yearbook Assn., a national evaluation service.

Sandian

The Sandian is published monthly during the school year by the students of Sandia High School, 7801 Candelaria NE, Albuquerque, New Mexico, 87110. Price: 10 cents a copy or the activity ticket, and yearly subscriptions are $1.

The Sandian is a member of the National Scholastic Press Assn., New Mexico High School Press Assn., New Mexico Interscholastic Press Assn. Advertising rates for the Sandian are $2 per column inch.

Sandian continues to receive top ratings

Experimenting with the use of more pictures and different layouts, the Sandian staff worked to maintain the excellence of the paper.

More emphasis than before was placed on the Letters to the Editor column, and for the third year editorial cartoons were a special feature of the paper.

The Sandian staff published and had printed by offset approximately 2,500 copies. The nine staff members distributed the monthly issue, including four "specials." The first was a pre-school issue, given out to every student. The other specials were published at Christmas and in the spring, while the Commencement "special" recorded the close of the school year.

Distribution of the Roto, a small rotogravure section passed out in addition to the newspaper, was stopped by a vote of the student body because of the cost.

All but one of the staffers attended the New Mexico Interscholastic Press Assn. workshop held in August at the University of New Mexico. Here the staffers made plans for the 1969-70 edition.

The Sandian continued to lead in the number of honors in the New Mexico High School Press Assn. for the eleventh straight year as 10 writing awards were won, and a new photography category was added.

The first semester the Sandian was rated All American, the highest rating any paper can have, by the National Scholastic Press Assn. During the second semester the paper was rated First Class in a revision of the national awards program.

Sponsoring the Sandian for the twelfth year was Miss Jo Boughton.

Creative writers plan, judge, edit Sage

materials for early April distribution

Writing, planning and judging stories for the Sage, literary magazine, occupied the time for the members in the Creative Writing classes this year.

The Sage staff sponsored a contest in which any interested student could submit poetry, essays or short stories. The contest closed Feb. 2. Winners then had their materials printed in the Sage, which was distributed in early April for 50 cents.

The course was primarily for teaching students how to write essays, poetry and short stories. These students also submitted entries for judging.

Creative Writing teacher and sponsor, Mrs. Nancy Harris helped co-editors Jon Caswell and Gloria Emmett with the publication.

NHS members tutor many students,

offer academic scholarship to member

Tutoring, a scholarship and selling candy were projects of the Virgil I. Grissom Chapter of the National Honor Society.

The 125 members tutored students with academic problems, raised money and awarded a scholarship to one of its members.

They also inducted new members for the first time in the fall as well as in the spring and ended the year with a picnic.

For the fifth year members were given "privilege cards" entitling them to visit the library without a hall pass.

Initiates for NHS were taken from the top 10 per cent of students in the junior class and from the top 15 per cent of the senior class.

From these percentages the members were chosen by a committee of teachers for academic ability, leadership, citizenship and service to the school and community.

Sponsoring the organization this year were John Benny, Mrs. Blanche Griscom and Mrs. Wanita Bare.

Las Candilejas, Thespian Troupe 879

In the second year in the Theater, Las Candilejas, drama club, and Thespian Troupe 879 members presented four plays.

Starting the year they produced Woody Allen's comedy "Don't Drink the Water." This play was followed by "Dark of the Moon" in February.

In April the students dramatists presented "Under Milkwood." Ending the year in May the drama clubs put on a children's show.

The $230,000 drama wing dedicated in August of 1968 included the Theater, considered one of the best in the area, where all plays are produced. This year Student Body Council was considering the possibility of giving the Theater a name.

Director Ron Atkins, in his third year here, awarded points to productions participants. Ten points were needed to become a member of Thespians, the international honorary organization for high school drama students.

Q&S has candlelight induction

Gold pins, a candlelight installation ceremony and a subscription to a national magazine were all part of membership in the Dr. Tom Erhard Chapter of Quill & Scroll, an honorary journalistic society.

Highland's and Sandia High's chapters installed new members and honorees in a dual ceremony in the spring. Students who were unable to attend the dual induction ceremony were initiated one morning before school with only Sandia members presiding.

Eligible members were juniors and seniors in the top one third of their class who had done outstanding work for one semester on the Crest, Sandian or the Sage and had been recommended by their sponsors. Dr. Tom Erhard was also initiated.

Chapter sponsors were Miss Jo Boughton, sponsor of the yearbook and newspaper, and Mrs. Nancy Harris, Sage sponsor.

Continentials tour New Mexico

Continentials, an ensemble group with a repertoire featuring popular songs, toured southern New Mexico in May as their final activity, highlighting a year busy with performances for various activities.

Purpose of the trip was to try to promote the cultural exchange between northern and southern areas of the state. The tour began with a kick-off assembly at Sandia, Bernalillo, Santa Fe, Clovis, Portales and Eastern New Mexico University, Roswell, Goddard and the Military Institute, Artesia, Carlsbad and El Paso, Tex., were included in scheduled performances.

Continentials also spent six and a half hours at KGGM television station singing for the March of Dimes drive.

While the 22 members were invited back for a return engagement before the Legislature, they had to refuse. They did, however, perform a Christmas show at the National Realtors Convention. They sang at Rhodes Bridal Show and the Animal Humane Society Fashion Show at Popejoy Hall.

They also participated in Homecoming, the Stage Show and the kick-off assembly for Operation Hands Across the Border, which was the senior class project to build a Peace Corps school in another country.

The Continentials were sponsored by Alex Chavez, choral music teacher.

Chorus students participate in concert

Members of the Girls Chorus and Mixed Chorus participated in the traditional Christmas Concert Dec. 18.

Daily practices trained members in both choruses for Honor Choir auditions. Each member competed against others in semester performances with solos, duets and other choral activities.

Choral members also participated in a joint Spring Concert, closing their choral activities in May.

Uniforms for Girls Chorus were dresses with alternating color schemes of beige and dark brown, while Mixed Chorus members wore robes of red and blue.

Band entertains at assemblies, concerts,

"How many sharps in the B major scale?" . . . "What does 'crescendo agitato' mean?" . . . "How fast is 96?"

Band members frequently asked questions similar to these during their daily group and sectional practice sessions.

Under the guidance of Ted Rush, the 68 member band bolstered school spirit when they led the students in the school song as well as other numbers at Sandia's football games. Concerts open to the public were presented in the Theater in November, February and April.

Entertaining the student body and teachers, as well as parents, the Band played in the Homecoming Assembly and at several pep assemblies.

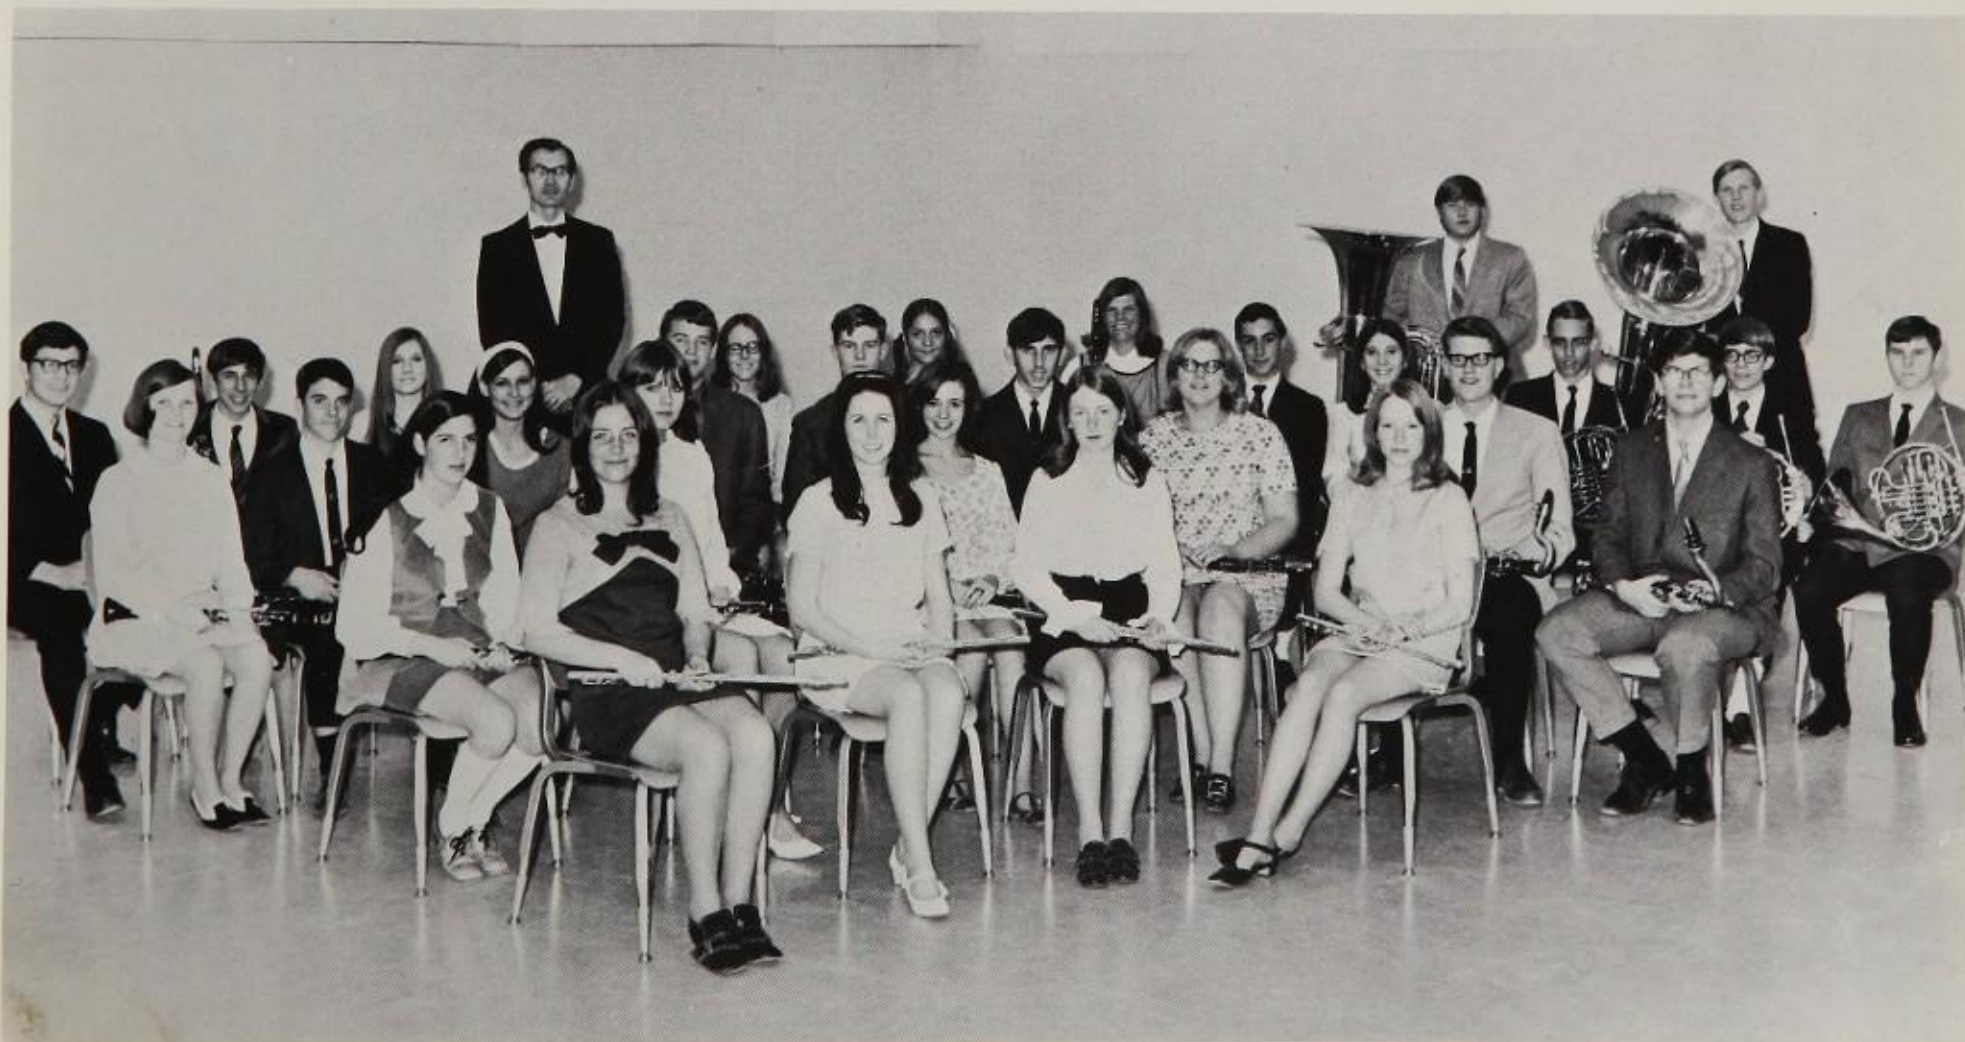

Sixteen of the members attended the All-State Music Festival in January.

Members also competed against similar school bands for judging and rating during the New Mexico Music Educators Assn. District Solo and Ensemble Festival Feb. 21.

Sandia was also represented by the band members when they participated in the Albuquerque District 7 Music Festival in April where they have earned superior ratings in the past years.

present concerts, take part in Festivals

Presenting concerts was the main activity of Sandia's 35 member orchestra.

Two winter concerts were presented in the school theater. Orchestra members also participated in the Albuquerque Orchestra Festival March 18-19 at the University of New Mexico.

Sandia was also represented as 15 members participated in the New Mexico Music Educators Assn. Convention and All-State Festival Jan. 29-31.

Thirteen members were also active in the Albuquerque Youth Symphony.

Directing the orchestra was John Gaston.

La Societe members tutor

Offering tutoring services to any French language student and having a bake sale at school were activities of La Societe Franco-Americaine, French Club.

"Le Phantom," a movie explaining the French way of life, was shown to the interested students.

A guest speaker from a local university compared the French and American school systems. Differences in the French and American young people's ideas were also discussed at the meeting.

Purpose of La Societe was to establish a better understanding of the French culture and way of life.

Skits on English fairy tales translated to French were performed by various members before the entire group.

Sponsor was Mrs. Ruth Howard.

LA members support school

Continuing to support a school in Quito, Ecuador, tutoring Spanish language students and adopting a needy family for Christmas were all part of Los Aficionados, Spanish Club's activities.

Dr. Ulivarri, from the University of New Mexico, spoke to the members. Colombian educators, who were studying at UNM, entertained the members by singing some of their native folk songs.

Offering guitar lessons Tuesdays after school to Sandia students was one project in which the members of the Spanish Club raised money.

In January the members were shown Spanish films in the Theater. The annual enchilada dinner, held during February, helped members raise money to finance their projects. In March, worthy Spanish students were inducted into the Manolete Chapter of the National Spanish Honor Society.

Highlighting the year was the annual trip to Chihuahua, Mexico, during Easter vacation. For the first time the club sponsored a nine day trip to Guadaluara, Mexico, for the third and fourth year students. These trips provided a better understanding of the Mexican culture.

Los Aficionados also contributed to the Los Amigos program. Students in this program volunteered three weeks this summer to give inoculations, medicine and teach hygiene in Central America.

Sponsoring the club this year was Belisandro Mares and Melvin Done.

German Club takes bike journey

Parties, hiking and the annual bicycle ride highlighted the year's activities of Die Halberstarken, German Club, members.

The traditional Oktoberfest was held Oct. 18. It included hiking in Embuddito Canyon, followed by a German sausage supper. Then a mock athletic competition was held in which feminine victors won locks of hair from the boys.

In February the members held a "fasching," a masquerade ball, which is a German per-Lenten festival. Everyone wore costumes and danced traditional German dances.

Die Halberstarken was sponsored by Allen Roth.

FDA tours medical facilities

Members of the Future Doctors of America Club visited educational establishments to learn about possible medical careers.

Meeting twice a month, the members planned tours and listened to speakers, including one from the Suicide Prevention Control Center.

Members took field trips to the University of New Mexico Medical School and to the State Rehabilitation Center.

To make money members held a candy sale during second semester.

Giving an inside view of biology, physiology and related fields of medicine was the purpose of the FDA.

Sponsoring the club this year were Ernest Polanski, biology instructor, and Dr. Agamemnon Despopoulos, instructor of physiology at the UNM Medical school.

DECA members stay active, continually

Members of the Sandia Chapter of DECA were active in a number of projects for the benefit of the community, the school and the DECA club.

Shoplifting was studied in a state-wide survey. The results, published in booklet form to aid in the prevention and apprehension of shoplifting, were distributed to store managers.

Civic-minded members collected Halloween candy for hospitalized children and participated in a city-wide drive to collect food, clothing and toys during Christmas.

Mixer dances, parties and monthly breakfasts featuring such guests as Frank Schifani, immediate past President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Pete Domenici, City Commission Chairman, were held for the benefit of the members. Funds for the Chapter were raised during Christmas by selling calendars, Christmas albums and luminarias.

Sandians, Larry Giron and Molly Jackson were the Northern District DECA president and vice-president as well as candidates for State DECA offices.

Competition ran high during the State DECA Conference at the State Fairgrounds March 19-20, as members participated in events including manual entries, job interview, display, public speaking, DECA Sweethearts, Boy and Girl Students of the Year and state officers.

Contestants were entered in every event as well as competing collectively for Chapter of the Year in which judgment was based on participation and club accomplishments. First place winners were sent to the National DECA Conference in Minneapolis, Minn., April 20-24.

DECA forms Junior Civitan

Junior Civitan, composed of junior DECA members, was newly formed this year under the leadership of Rod Hendrickson, Junior Civitan president.

Building a mobile library from a city-wide book drive was Junior Civitan's major project. Members also parked cars for special events at the Civic Auditorium.

Sponsor Leonard Voelker and co-sponsor, Miss Dawn Hendrick, supervised all activities of the Sandia DECA Chapter and Junior Civitan division.

Distributive Education Clubs of America were organized for the participation of students enrolled in Distributive Education Courses in club, school and community activities.

Chapter activities closed with a welcome breakfast for new members.

IA members move classes, hold 'open

Members of the Industrial Arts Club moved classes from the barracks buildings to the permanent pods in December for their main service project for the year.

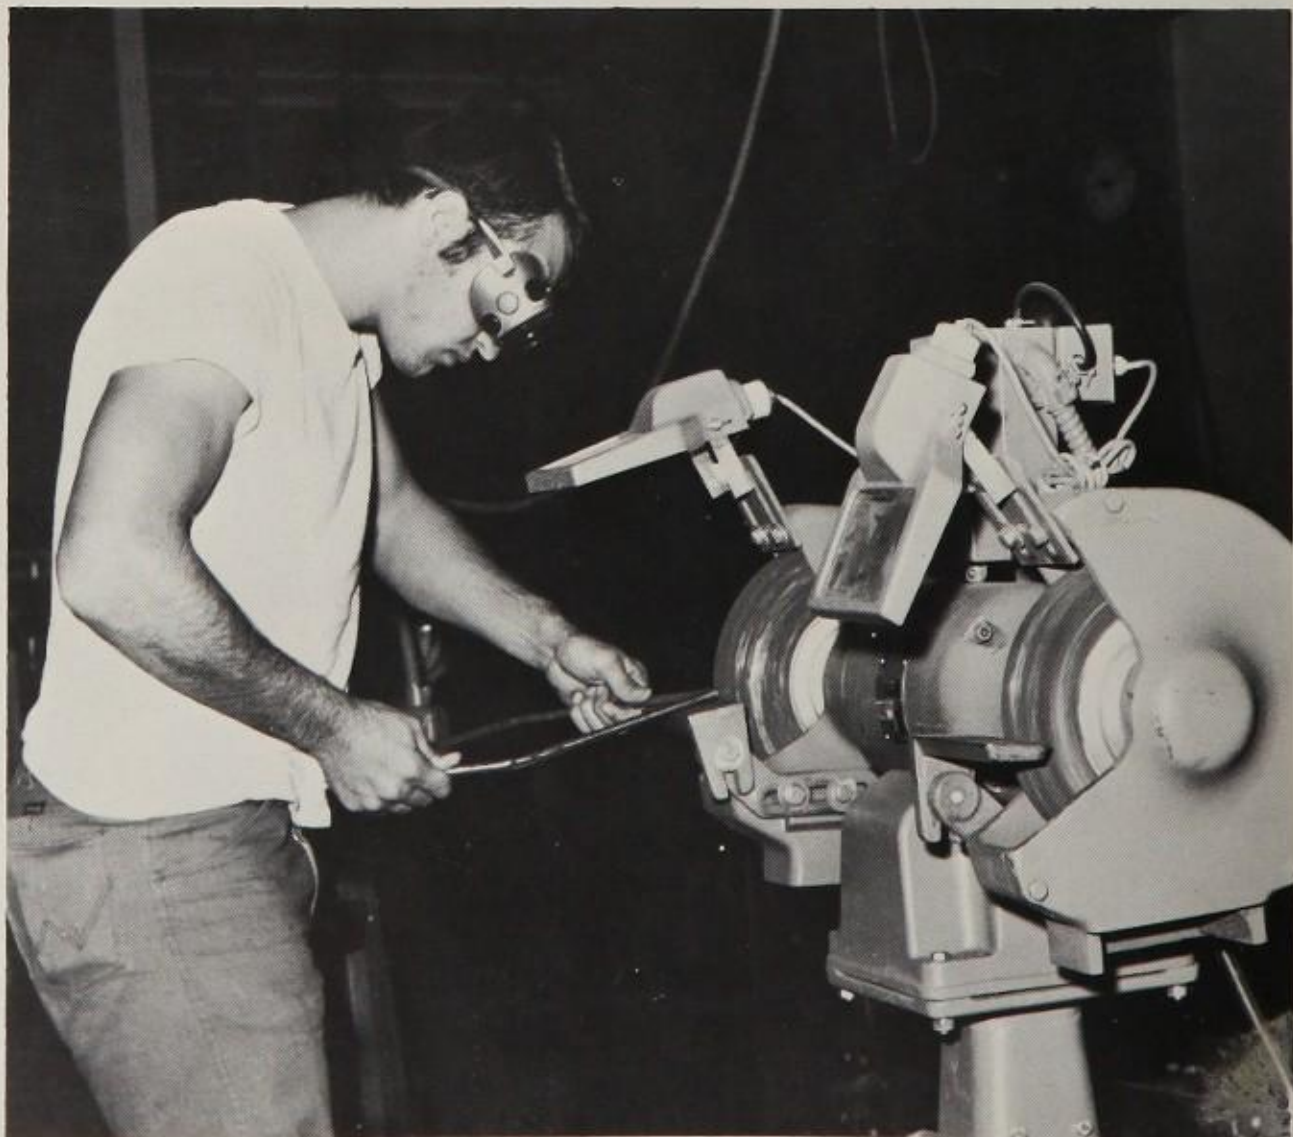

For their money-making project, the IA Club members made Roadrunner license plates for sale. The students designed the plates and, also, made the casts for them.

Giving the members a chance to work on whatever projects they wanted was the main activity of the IA Club. They created an "open shop," held once every two weeks for interested members.

At the end of the year the Industrial Arts Club members sponsored a road rally and attended a picnic afterwards.

This was the first year that girls were permitted to join the IA Club.

Sponsoring the Industrial Arts Club for the second year were Watson Ambruster and Orin Buchleiter.

AFS Club sponsors foreign exchanges;

Sharing a year with an Irish girl and sending a student to South Africa highlighted activities for members of the school chapter of the American Field Service.

Olivia McKeown from Belfast, Northern Ireland, was the school's tenth foreign exchange student. A previous adult AFS group did not raise enough funds to help sponsor a foreign exchange student last year.

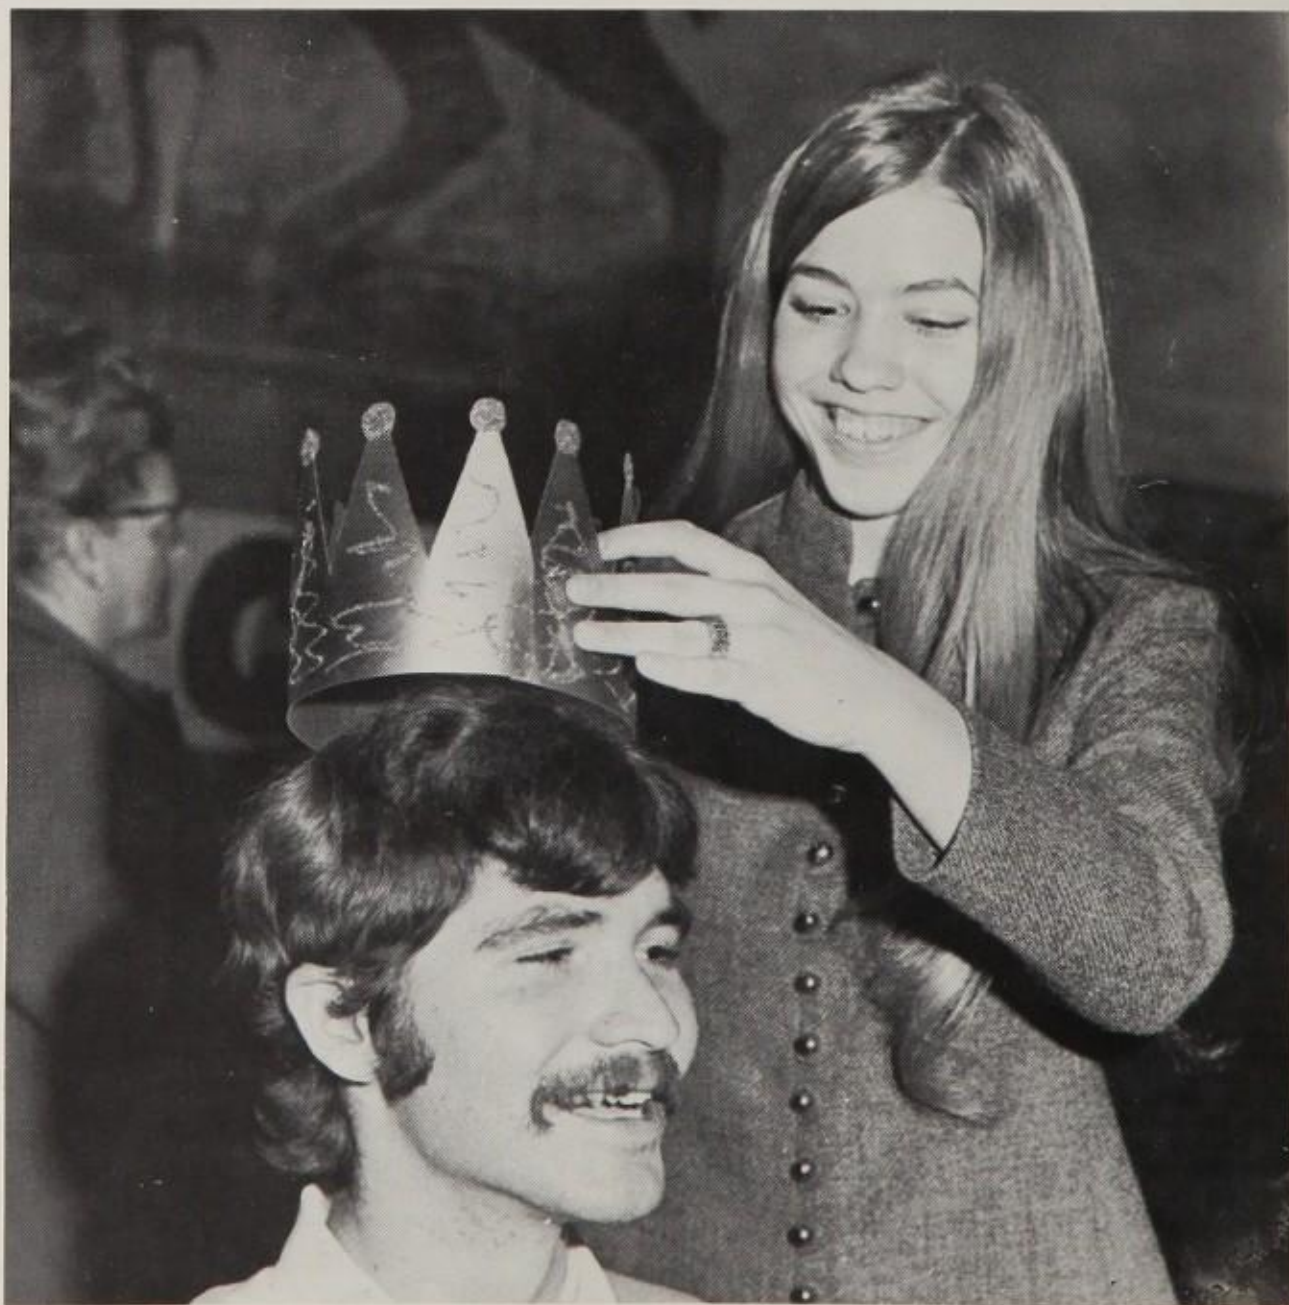

In January the chapter helped send Amy Schaffer to Paarl, South Africa, for a year through the Americans Abroad program.

Also in January the members sponsored the Mr. Teenage America contest as a money-making project. This year's winner, John Fannin, was crowned by Tommy Hughes, last year's Mr. Teenage America.

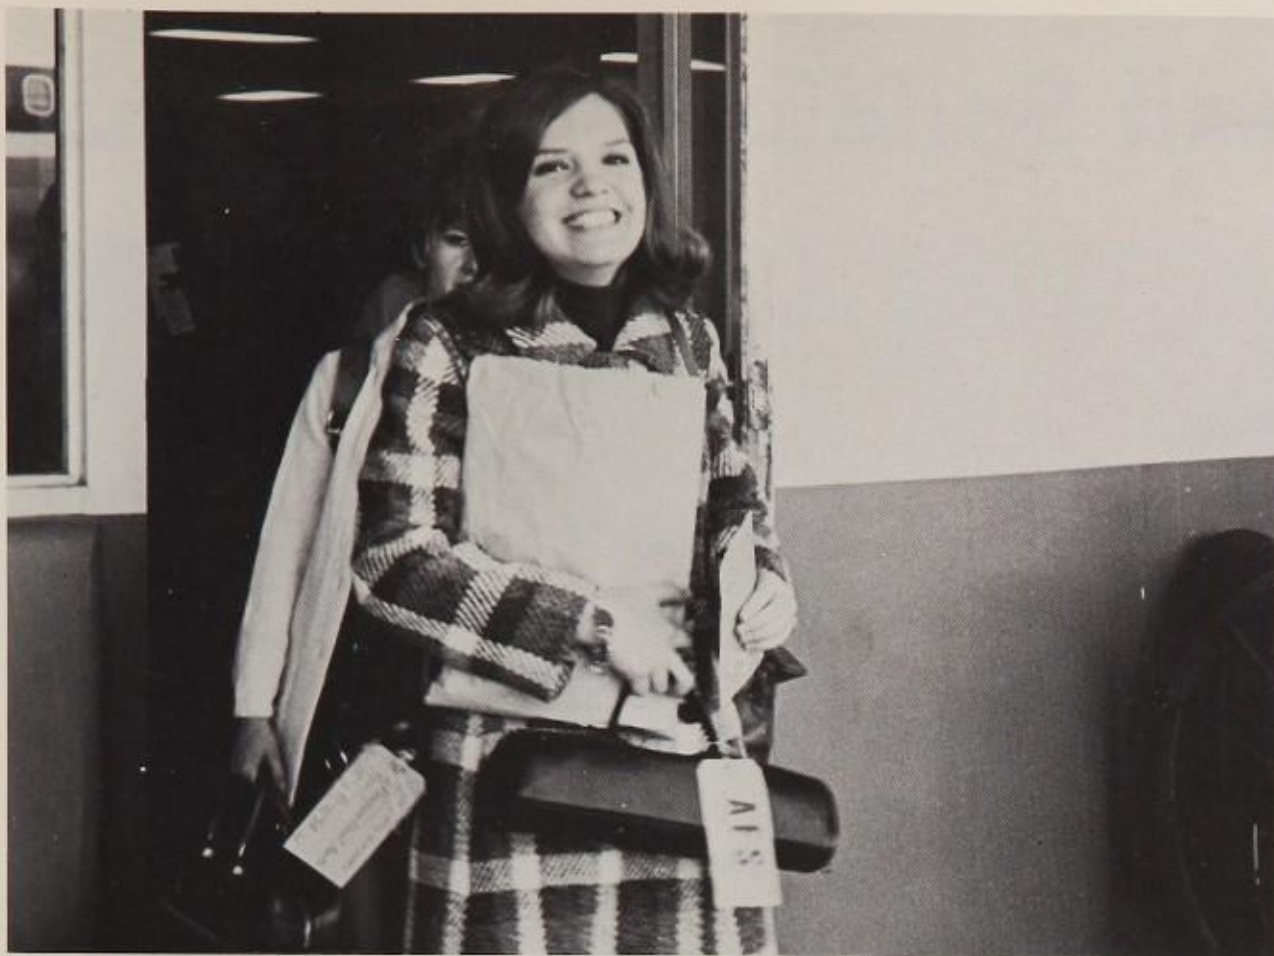

Other money-making projects through the year were a bake sale in November, "penny day" every other Thursday and selling candy hearts in February.

Before Amy's departure for South Africa, the students had two "going away" parties. The Sandias were the site of a sledding party also in January.

Mrs. Doris Bowen was in her first year as sponsor of AFS.

Lettermen sell Sandia t-shirts to raise

Selling 1970 red and white t-shirts was the main activity of S Club, letterman's club. The money earned was applied toward buying a new trophy case.

Lettermen sponsored the traditional TWIRP Week Coalminers Dance where couples danced by the glow of flashlights.

In the spring lettermen from each sport choose a candidate to represent each sport in the annual selection of the Sports Senorita. Also held in the spring was the annual lettermen's picnic.

Lettering in a varsity sport insures membership in the club. The members of S Club always tried to uphold the ideals of their motto "Our School—Win or Lose—Our School."

Sponsoring the club this year were Coach R. P. Waters and Coach Rick Ruscetti.

Toreras stage drills, routines

Practicing after school and on weekends, Las Toreras drill team members perfected routines to be presented to the student body at pep assemblies and football and basketball games.

Songs used for routine formations were "Lady Godiva," "Medicine Man" and "Whipped Cream."

For money making projects, the drill team members sold mums and boutonnieres for the Homecoming dance Nov. 15. More money making projects were held so that the drillers could accompany the basketball team to El Paso for one of the games.

Each girl made her own red pleated jumper and Columbia blue blouse.

Chosen last spring by the club sponsor, Miss Barbara Dillon, each girl had to perform an original routine to a song of her choice. They also had to perform to the school song as a group. A clinic was held to help teach new-comers.

Las Toreras originated in 1966 with 20 members. Membership has grown to 34.

Ayudantes paint Senior Dome

Painting the Senior Dome and donating a new trophy case to the school were part of the activities for members of Ayudantes, girls service club.

Money making projects included car washes and bake sales. Homemade popcorn balls were sold at a local shopping center and candy was sold at school to the students. The money was used toward the club's first and second semester service projects for the school.

New members had been inducted and pledged at the end of the previous school year after attending the tea.

Red and blue helium balloons furnished by the Ayudantes and other girls' service clubs hit the sky during the Sandia-West Mesa Homecoming game as the girls promoted school spirit.

Christmas activities included caroling at an old people's home and in private neighborhoods. An alumni tea was held Dec. 2 at Sandia.

Another activity was the staging of a skit in the annual TWIRP Assembly.

Surprise kidnap breakfasts and slumber parties were held throughout the year. A banquet was held to end the year.

Sponsors were Mrs. Robin Morgan and Mrs. Carol Tinnin.

Cordial's service project includes

Typing, filing and answering the phone at the Muscular Dystrophy Office in October and November were service projects of Cordials, girls service club.

Other service projects included a bulletin board used to post all of the activities going on at Sandia.

Members also participated in a skit put on during the TWIRP assembly.

Tootsie roll pops were sold by members during first semester. More money was raised when the girls sponsored the marriage booth at the TWIRP Week game night.

At the beginning of the year, Cordials inducted six new senior girls. A formal candlelight installation ceremony was held in late September.

The annual end-of-the-year tea was held to bring in new members to replace the graduating seniors. Underclass members held a banquet in May in honor of their departing sisters.

Mrs. Sharon Kapp and Mrs. Sydney Janak sponsored the club this year.

Coquettes support Brazilian child,

Continuing the tradition of supporting a Brazilian child under the Foster Parents Plan was one of the many activities of Coquettes, girls service club.

Other service projects included selling fire extinguishers during National Fire Prevention Week and collecting for the March of Dimes.

Children of local nursery schools received bean bag toys made by the girls.

Throughout the year the girls frequently held surprise kidnap breakfasts and slumber parties.

A formal Christmas dinner was held at Town Hall in Coronado Center. Other Christmas activities included a stocking party, in which the girls exchanged stockings, a sledding party, and the traditional candy cane sale.

Money-making projects included a car wash and two bake sales, one at school and the other at a local shopping center.

With the money earned, the members donated a new flag to the school.

A snow party and a slumber party were held before the annual end-of-the-year tea so that the members could better know the in-coming members.

Sponsor was Mrs. Arden Hilton.

Elites fill ditty bags for servicemen

Servicemen in Vietnam received ditty bags filled by Elites, girls service club, during the Christmas holidays.

Sponsoring the Clean Up Campaign in conjunction with Ivy members greatly improved the condition of the school campus and fountain area. Members also painted trash barrels around the school and drew game "spirit" signs.

Elites sang and provided cookies and punch during a party for the patients in Four Seasons Nursing Home.

Members also donated money to the AFS exchange program and helped provide cookies and balloons at Homecoming.

To earn money, the girls sold cokes and popcorn during TWIRP Week game night. Zodiac pendants were sold to students at school. Other projects were a bake sale, car wash, bottle drive and rummage sale.

Slumber parties and kidnap breakfasts were held throughout the year. During Christmas vacation a kidnap party and a tobaggoning party were held.

The annual end-of-the-year tea was held to bring in new members to replace the graduating seniors.

Sponsor was Mrs. Muriel Beaven.

Ivy members collect trading stamps

Collecting trading stamps for the senior class project was the main activity of Ivy this year.

Club members sold caramel apples to raise money for the annual Ivy scholarship. This $100 scholarship was given to any deserving senior girl.

Consisting exclusively of senior girls, the 20 members, selected in the spring of their junior year by outgoing seniors, chose five more seniors in September.

In January the service club joined with Elites in an effort to clean the campus. Selling donuts in March was Ivy's second semester money-making activity.

Racing Barnicles ski at Purgatory

Highlighting the ski season for the Racing Barnicles was a trip to Purgatory in late January, in which the members competed in races against various high schools.

Races were held every other weekend at the Crest. The team has won three races and tied one against Highland. Several Del Norte students also raced with the Sandia Ski Racing Team.

Under the direction of John Durem, an instructor at Sandia Peak Ski Area, the members practiced every Wednesday afternoon and evening.

A ski carnival was planned for the end of March, with all New Mexico high schools invited to participate in races, games and a party.

Club skis at Sandia Crest

Renting a bus and traveling to Sandia Peak Ski Area for ski practice was the main event highlighting the year for the members of the Sandia High School Ski Club.

Members also planned a trip to Purgatory, providing there was enough snow.

Dues of one dollar every month were paid by all of the members. The money was used to finance the club's skiing trips.

Sponsoring the club this year were Tom Farrar and Joseph Lavandoski.

Gymnasts compete in Olympics

Long hours of practice and participation in the Junior Olympics were part of the activities of the members of the Girls Gymnastics Club, the only one of its kind in the city.

Averaging eight hours of practice a week, the girls met each day to perfect their routines.

During the year the members held intra-squad meets, and Nov. 17 girls attended the University of New Mexico Gymnastic Clinic, where they received individual instruction on the routines.

In February members competed with other state gymnasts in the Junior Olympics at Del Norte High School.

Miss Carol Bain sponsored the club.

GSC girls active during year

Hockey, selling brownies, dancing and offering barbecues were just a sampling of the variety of activities available to the girls of the Girls Sports Club.

Girls Sports Club was an honorary intramural club. To be eligible for membership, the girls had to participate in at least one varsity team in either field hockey, volleyball, basketball or softball.

In field hockey team members beat teams from the University of New Mexico, West Mesa and Rio Grande High schools.

To raise money the girls sold brownies and had a coat check and booth at the Speech Club Carnival.

Girls from all over the city were invited to compete in ping-pong, badminton and fencing on Girls Sports Day in March, sponsored by the club members.

At the beginning of the year members held a barbecue in honor of the new women's physical education teachers.

Miss Anne Poston sponsored the club.

Pep Club boosts school spirit

Aiding the cheerleaders and drill team boost school spirit was the newly organized Pep Club.

Brightly decorated spirit banners and posters were hung in the school's corridors to remind students of games and heighten the feeling of competition.

Uniforms of red jumpers and blue blouses, made by each girl, contrasted brightly with the game crowds.

"Clackety-clack" was the sound made by the red and blue wooden blocks used by members instead of traditional pom-poms.

Money-making activities included a bake sale and selling chocolate foot-balls.

Putting on a skit, "Mortgage on the Cow," and helping the cheerleaders sell spirit ribbons were two more boosters.

Pep Club also supported a needy family during the Christmas season by buying a turkey and collecting gifts.

Sponsoring the newly reorganized Pep Club was Miss Susan Gregory.

Bowlers roll in league play

Strike . . . spare . . . these were the cries as 14 three-man teams played weekly in a school bowling league.

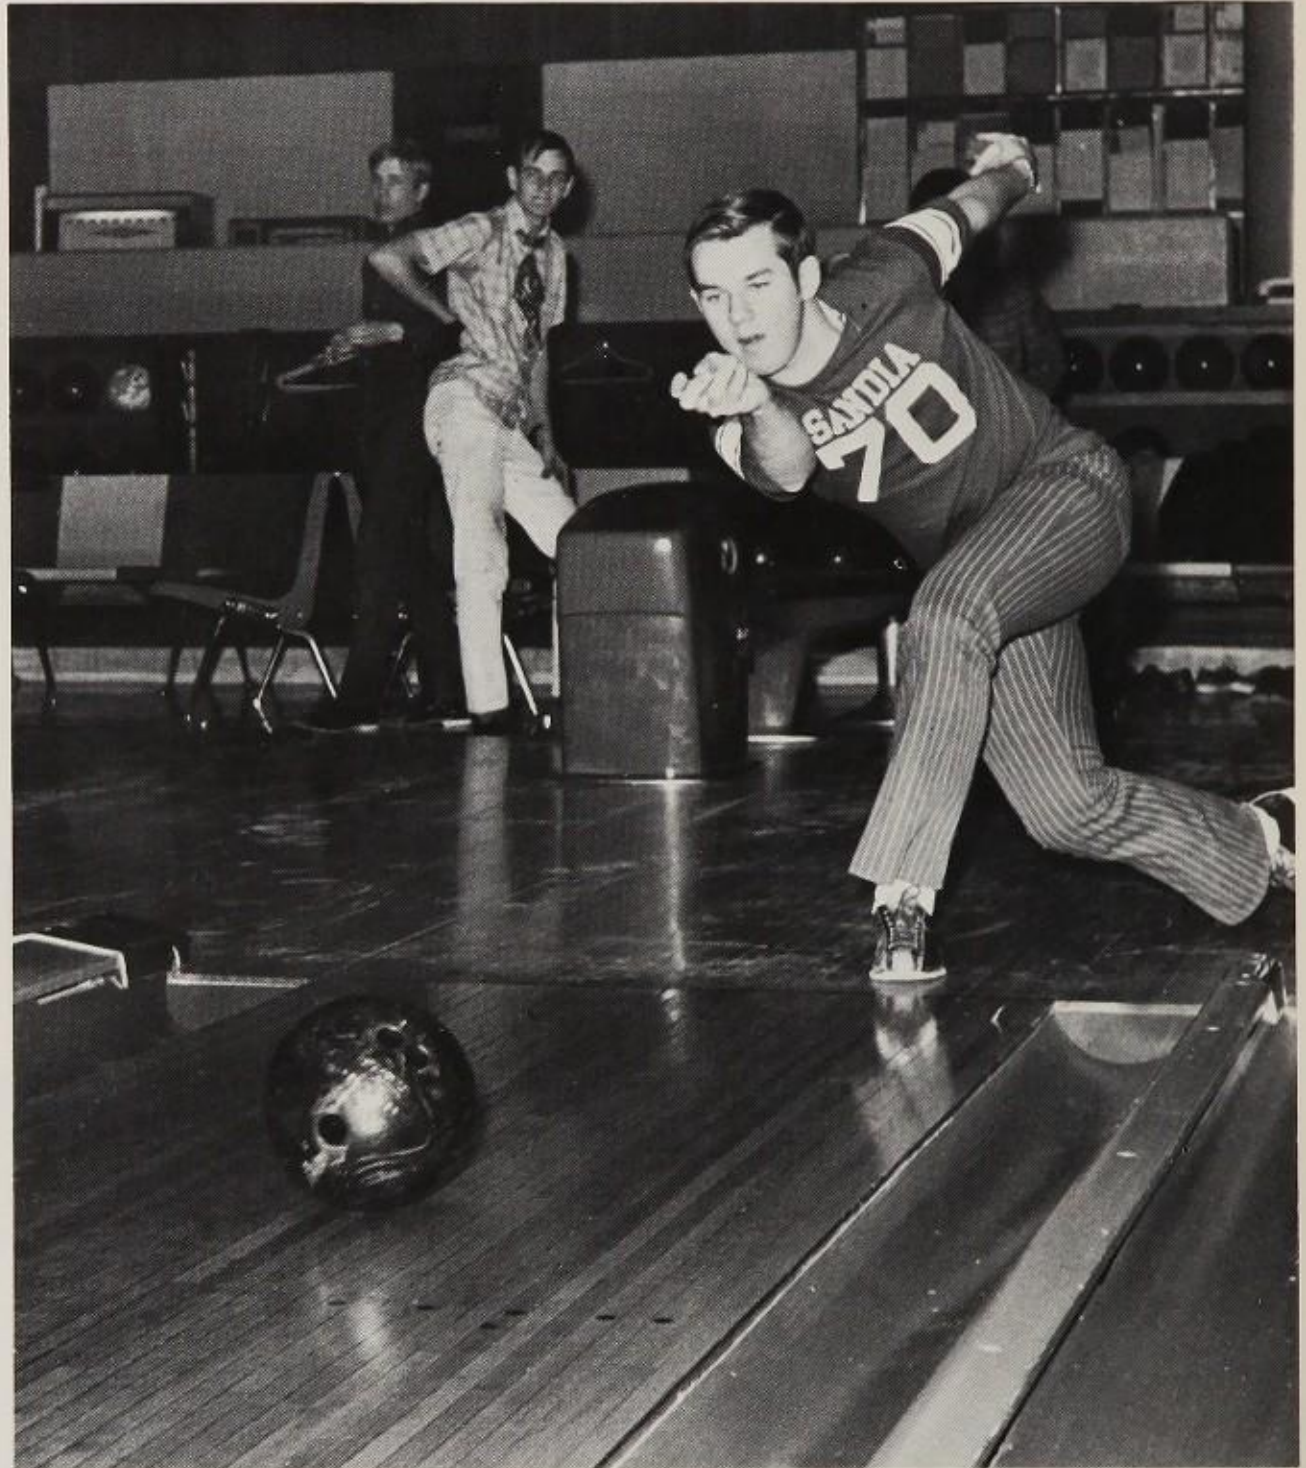

Practicing every Thursday after school at Fiesta Lanes enabled the members of Bowling Club to add points to their total game scores.

Members held two candy sales during the year. Tootsie pops were sold the first semester. Dues of 10 cents a week were also collected.

This money was used to buy trophies, which were awarded to Sandia's League.

Trophies were awarded on the basis of the number of wins and losses per team. Additional trophies were awarded for both boys and girls high game, high game handicap, high series and high handicap series.

Alex Peralta sponsored the Bowling Club this year.

Substitutes are Phil Jarrett, Mary Taylor and Steve Holmes.

Racqueteters play bi-weekly

Love . . . serve . . . net ball . . . These were some of the typical cries as Tennis Club members took to the courts twice weekly.

Playing singles, doubles and mixed doubles, the club members met and practiced every Monday and Wednesday. Cold weather forced them to quit for the winter, but they resumed practice in the spring.

Giving the Tennis Team a chance to stay in practice as well as offering every student an opportunity to play tennis was the purpose of the Tennis Club.

Open to every interested student, Tennis Club had the highest active membership in its history.

FCA holds city-wide meetings

Taking part in the city-wide Fellowship of Christian Athletes meetings was the main activity of the Sandia chapter.

Candy was sold by the boys at school during the Christmas season. Money earned was applied toward service projects.

Principal purpose of FCA was to confront athletes as well as coaches with the adventure and challenge of following Christ. The boys tried to re-establish Christianity in their daily lives.

At the meetings, which had voluntary attendance, the boys discussed Christ and closed with prayer.

Sponsor of FCA was Vince Hoffman.

Players meet in tournaments

Participating in competitive tournaments was the main activity of Sandia's Chess Club members.

Club tournaments were held to help members build up points as well as practice for the city tournaments. A round robin procedure was used, so that every member had an equal chance.

The seven people with the highest number of points were chosen to represent the team in city and state tournaments. Alternates were also chosen.

Five city teams played tournaments against one another. Sandia's Chess Club was defeated by Manzano in the first tournament of the year. Later tournaments were held in January, February and March.

Matches between all chess clubs were held at various high schools. Winners of these played in the Regional Chess Tournaments held April 4. Victorious teams then participated in the State Chess Tournament held in Socorro in connection with the State Science Fair, April 18.

In the past Chess Club members have won five state championships, and from 1963-66 they won four consecutive city championships.

Robert Krylach was the Chess Club sponsor for the twelfth year.

Servir Con Fe donates money

Donating money to the Evelyn Civerolo scholarship fund was the main service project of Sevir Con Fe, girls service club.

To earn the money, the girls sponsored a bake sale late in March.

Throughout the year the girls held meetings after school and in the evenings to plan their activities.

An annual end-of-the-year tea was held to bring in new members to replace graduating seniors. Sevir Con Fe is unique in that it invited sophomore girls to join the club at the beginning of the year.

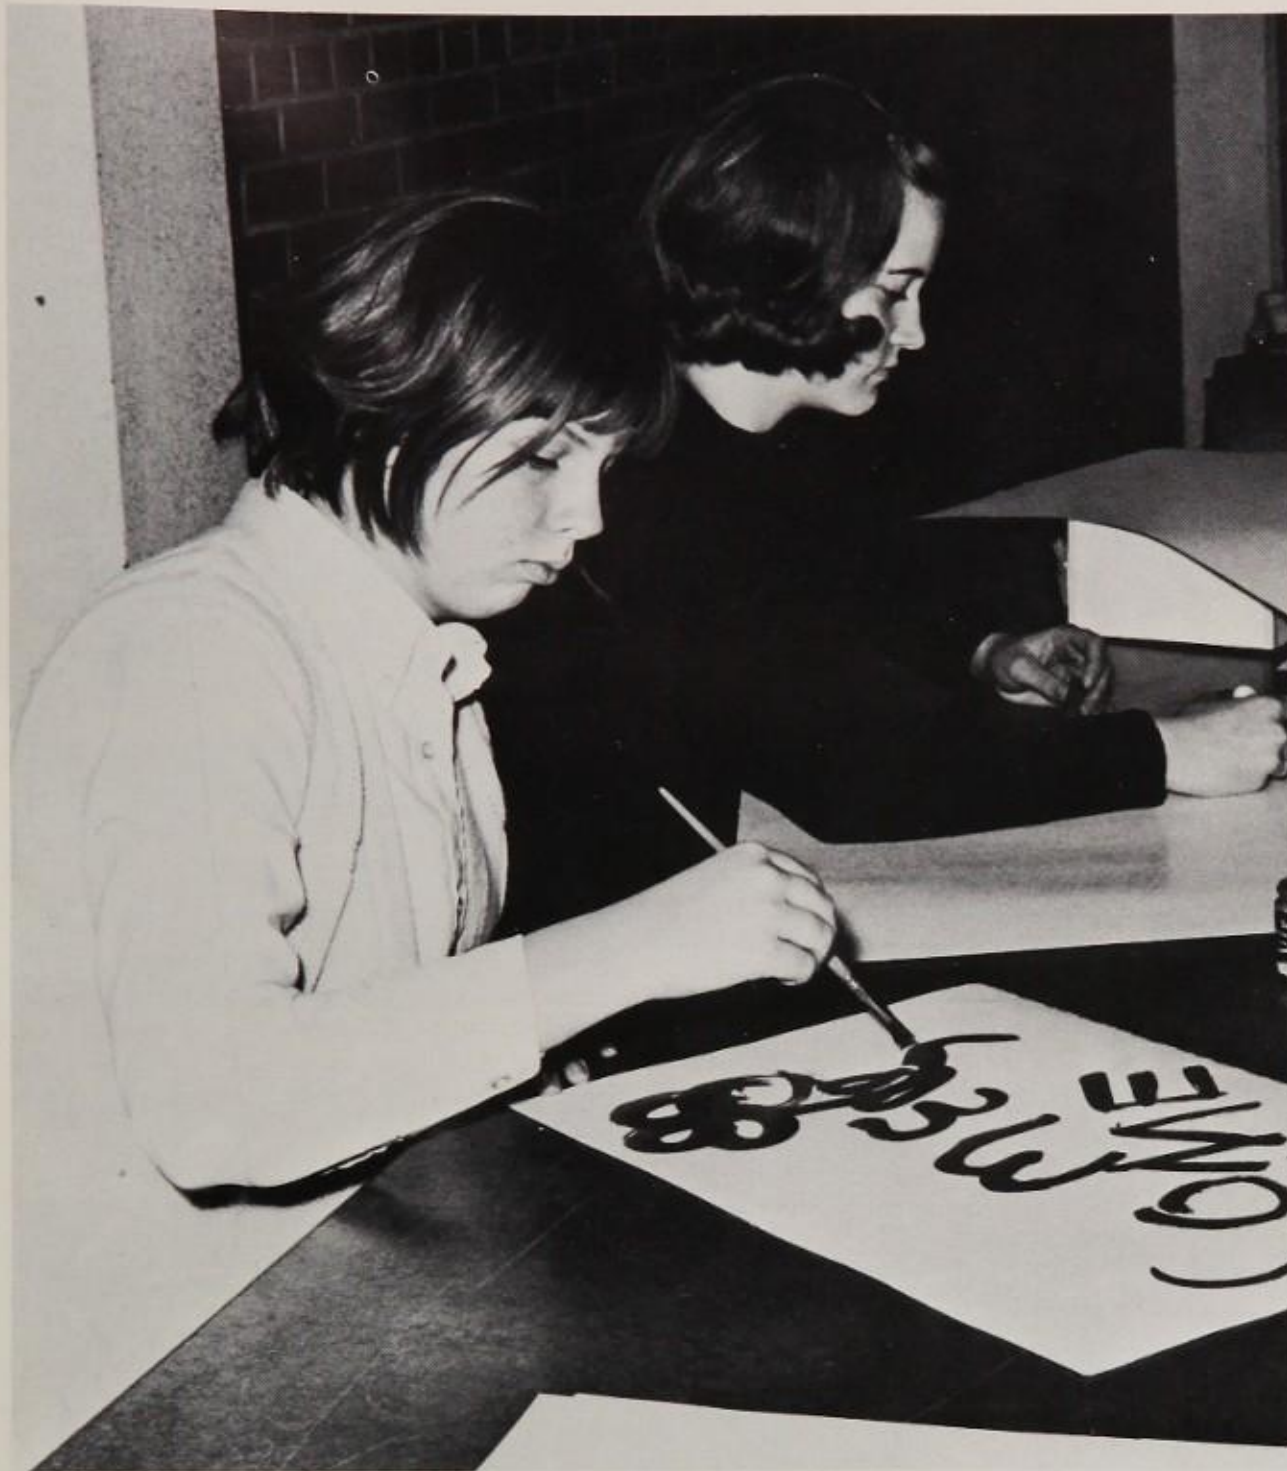

Mrs. Birgit Regener was sponsor.

Volunteers work in hospitals

Visiting at Casa Angelica, collecting gifts for men in state hospitals and caroling to shut-ins over the Christmas holidays kept the 21 members of Volunteers active during the school year.

Three of the members attended orientation sessions at Bernalillo County Medical Center for four weeks in September and October, enabling them to do volunteer work there. Other members volunteered their services at Four Seasons Nursing Home.

Throughout the entire year, Volunteers sent get well cards to students who were ill for a long period of time.

Speakers were invited to talk to the group throughout the year.

Moneymaking projects included a bake sale held in October and a rummage sale held in January.

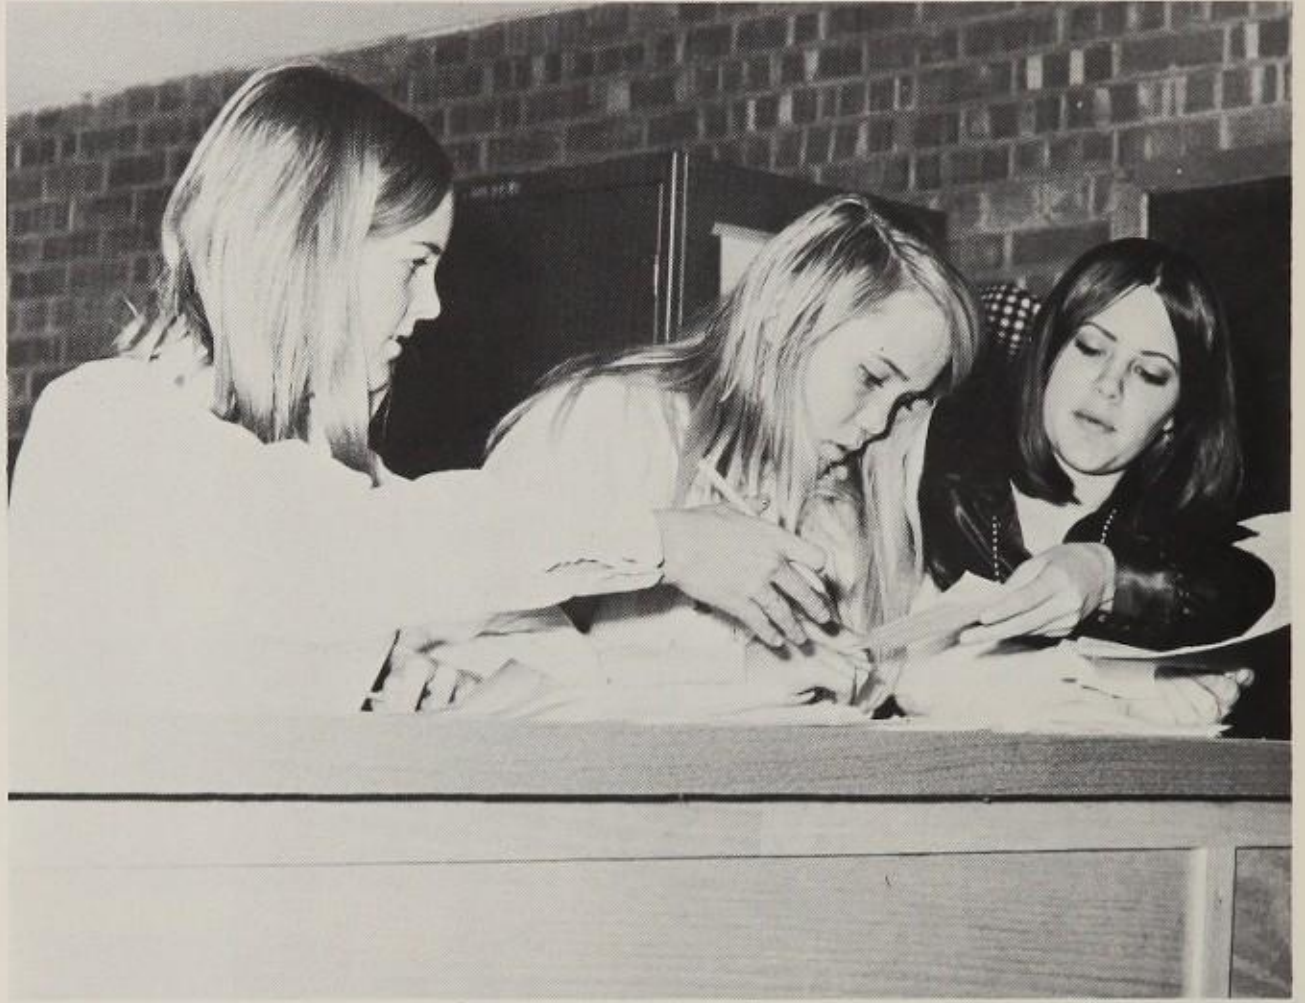

Sponsor of Volunteers was Mrs. Marguerite Royer, the school nurse.

acquire important knowledge, skill

Typing, filing, running off materials and answering the telephone were jobs performed by student assistants.

While Attendance Office aids recorded student absences, the Activities Office assistants typed daily announcements and sold activity tickets.

Checking books in and out, filing magazines and helping to keep the library in order were some of the tasks performed by the library assistants.

Science assistants set up laboratories and experiments and helped to keep the labs in order.

Journalism, English, business, math and social studies assistants typed and ran off stencils for teachers.

The Drama aids worked on the Theatre and sets while the Industrial Arts assistants helped keep the machines in the IA Department cleaned and in working order.

Students who gave their time to aid the faculty also gained office, library and classroom experience. For the first time, student assistants received half a credit for their work.

Matadors tie for second in district

end football season with 5-3-1 mark

Although tying Manzano for second place in the District 2AA football standings, the Matadors disappointed pre-season predictions of a district first.

The Highland Hornets won the District 2AA playoffs, only to be beaten by Hobbs in a state semi-final contest. Capturing their fourth consecutive title, Artesia rolled over Hobbs 21-8 in the state final.

Opening the season with losses to El Paso Burges and Albuquerque High, respectively, the gridders scratched out a 13-8 victory over Del Norte in the third game.

One week later, the Big Blue fought to a 0-0 stand-off against the Manzano Monarchs. The game was given to Manzano on penetrations. Squeezing out a 6-0 victory over Rio Grande in the third quarter, Sandia then moved into third place in District 2AA standings with a 2-1-1 record.

Finally showing some offensive ability, the Matadors kept themselves in contention for the district title by toppling Valley 30-14.

On Halloween night, the Scarlet and Blue were spooked by a revenge-minded Highland Hornet squad by a 34-0 margin. In the two previous encounters, underdog Sandia had deflated the Hornets' title hopes with upsets of 10-7 and 23-12, respectively.

Rebounding from the previous week's loss, the pigskin squad polished off Santa Fe 40-20 in a non-district contest.

In the last game of the season and the Homecoming contest, the Matadors salvaged a second place tie with Manzano in District 2AA with a convincing 20-6 victory over West Mesa.

For the first time city coaches had picked defending district champion Sandia to finish on top of District 2AA, despite the Big Blue's lack of size. In the two previous seasons, strong Matador teams had been overlooked as favorites.

Gridders get city, state honors

Four Matador footballers were named to the AL All-State team and one to the UPI All-State team to highlight the gridder's season, while eight received All-City honors.

Named to the North All-Star team were gridmen Steve Loy and Steve Lynn.

Mike Gardiner was named "Mr. Football" and Jerry Easterly took the "Fighting Heart" award which are annually presented at the El Toreador, booster club, banquet.

Heading the Big Blue coaching staff was Clem Charlton with Jim Ottman and Richard Ruscetti assisting.

Novilleros surprise Highland High,

Copping second place in city competition, the Little Blue footballers ended the season with an 8-2 record.

Albuquerque Sports Stadium was the site of the B games for the first year. Previous games were played on school fields.

Losing only to Manzano and Santa Fe, the B team topped the season with the first win in three years over Highland to clinch second place. MHS took first place.

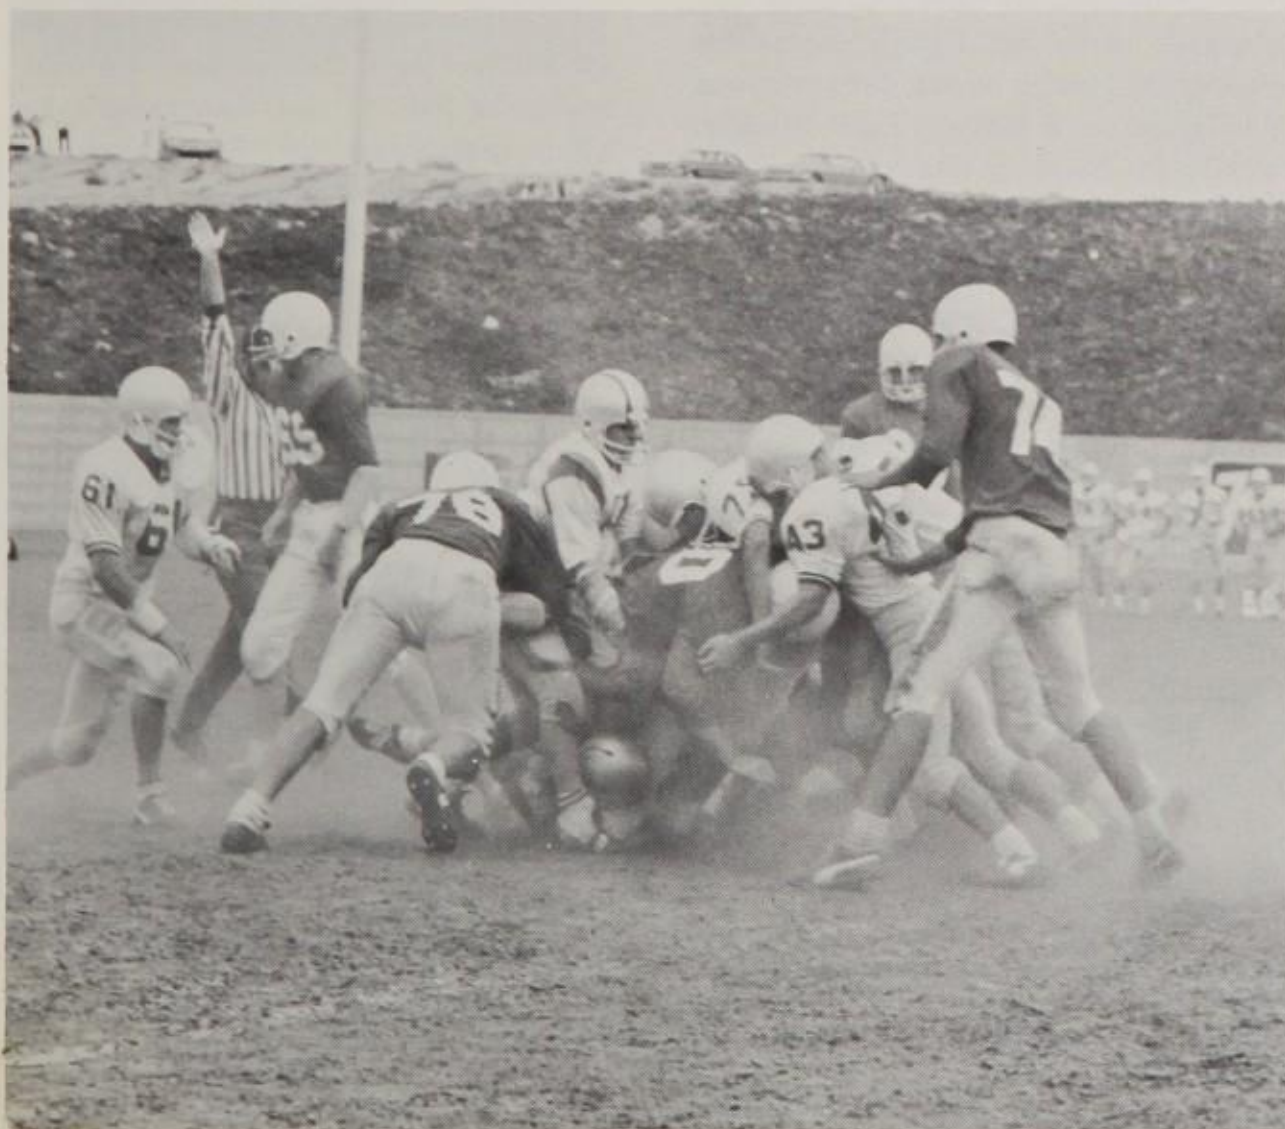

The games of the season were with Albuquerque 21-12, Manzano 14-8, Los Alamos 36-8, Rio Grande 27-0, West Mesa 34-15, Los Lunas 31-6, Del Norte 14-12, Santa Fe 25-21 and Highland 7-0.

Coaching the Little Blue was Vince Hoffman for the fourth year and Carl Bittner for the second time.

Team runs seventh in 2AA

Placing seventh in the District 2AA cross country championships was the close of a downhill season for Sandia's distance runners.

First place in the District 2AA B team meet, though, ended a successful season for the Little Blue harriers.

In the first meet of the season, all Matador runners placed in the top 10, led by Steve Bower. They swept the meet with 29 points, defeating Manzano and Rio Grande with 38 and 60 points, respectively.

After that, injuries and disappointments clouded the team's season. In the District 2AA meet at the new Sandia course, the team could place no higher than seventh. Bower placed sixth in overall competition, missing a trip to the State Meet by four seconds.

Sandia's 144 points were far behind team champion Valley's 56 and runnerup Highland's 61. Highland took the State AA title the next week, defeating Valley 48-88 at the University of New Mexico South Golf Course. Seniors dominated Coach R.P. Waters' varsity team that also took sixth place in the Amateur Athletic Union cross country meet, third in two triangular meets and sixth in a six-team meet at the Sandia course. That race was highlighted by a brilliant finish in which Highland's Robert Ayers outkicked Los Alamos' Rick Rojas in a fast time of 9:33.

Rojas later took the individual title in the State Meet.

The harriers also traveled to western New Mexico for the Gallup Invitational, finishing fifth in the 13-team race.

Winning the junior varsity race in the District meet capped a successful season for the B team distancemen, also under Coach Waters. Led by Nolan Bourgeois and Dean Maharg, who finished 1-2, and Ken Bower, fifth, the B teamers defeated Highland for the team title 43 to 45. The junior varsity's season record included first places in the Manzano-Rio Grande, Del North-Valley and New Mexico AAU meets. In other meets the Little Blues posted two seconds and one third.

Following Coach Waters on his motorcycle, the entire Matador harrier team made good use of the mesa roads in the vicinity of the Albuquerque Academy. They practiced every afternoon from Sept. 1 until the District meet. The team, composed of eight seniors, 10 juniors and five sophomores, also endured chilly early morning practices during late September and October.

Constructed by the runners themselves, a home course was available for the team for the first time. Located near the intersection of Eubank and Montgomery, the course was used for two home meets and the District championships.

tie for fifth in District 2AAAA with 7-14

Taking third in the Santa Fe Invitational, the Big Blue tied for fifth with Del Norte in District 2AAAA basketball standings with a 5-8 district mark.

Under a new districting program designed to place all schools in A districts, former C districts were made into A, B were changed to AA, A went to AAA and AA were made into AAAA. This new districting was put into affect at the beginning of wrestling and basketball seasons.

Ending the season with a 7-14 record, the basketballers lost to West Mesa in the first round of the District 2AAAA Tournament 64-47.

West Mesa won the District 2AAAA crown, beating Albuquerque High in a double overtime by a squeaker of 55-53.

Beginning the season with a 58-57 victory over Rio Grande, the Matador hoopsters lost the next eight, finally beating Valley on Jan. 20.

Defeating Los Alamos 65-57 and losing to Albuquerque Academy 67-64, the Big Blue were victorious over DNHS to capture third place in the Santa Fe Invitational.

Senior Joe Bogle led the varsity in scoring, while John Hicks and Rich Gates, junior, added rebounding power.

After suffering morale problems in mid-season, Coach Don Torgerson was forced to bring up four juniors from the junior varsity. Starting juniors Larry Tuttle and Gates will form a strong nucleus for next year's team.

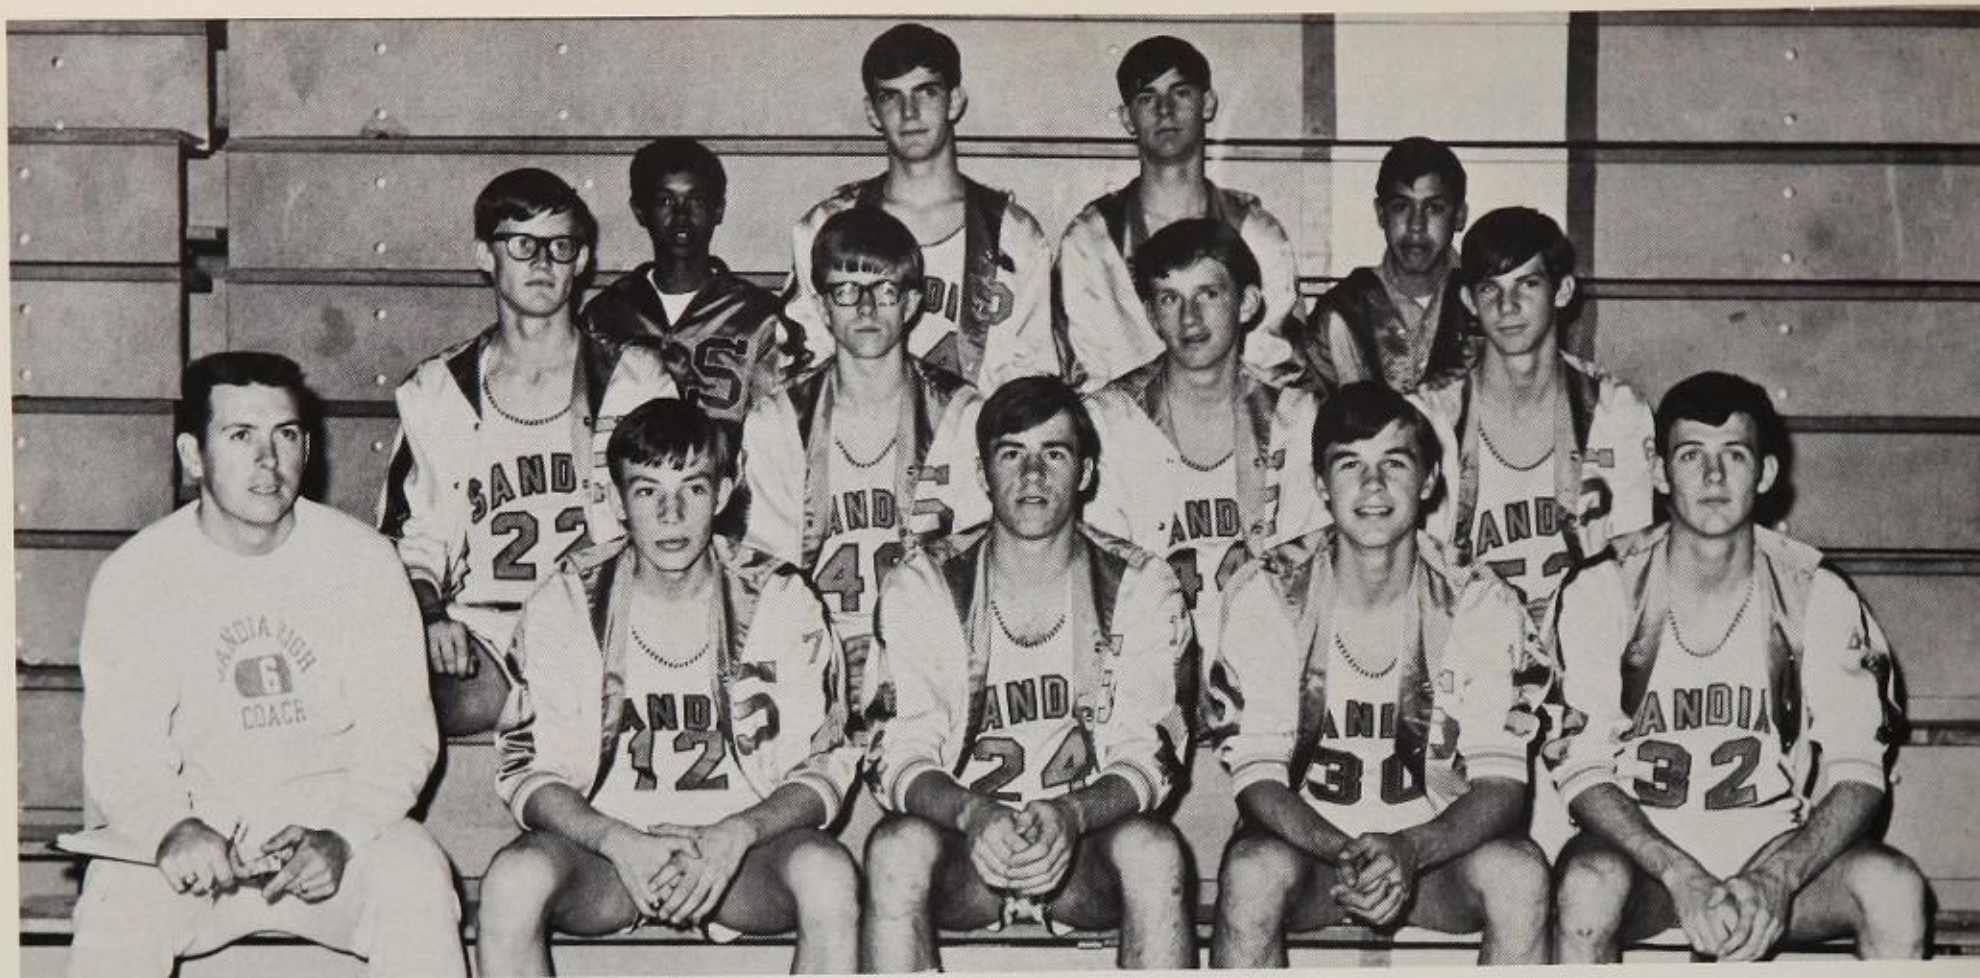

Novilleros, junior varsity, ended a 14-7 season by taking second in the city B Team Tournament, losing to DNHS 53-43 in the finals. Art Casias and John Neville were named to the all-tournament team.

Finishing second to Manzano in the St. Pius Invitational, sophomore basketballers also ended with a 14-7 season mark.

Matador wrestlers capture 2AAAAA

Ending the season with a third place rating, Matador wrestlers staged an upset by capturing the 2AAAAA tournament.

Scott Ackerman became the first Matador in five years to take State by battling to the 137 pound title. Taking only seventh place in the State tournament, the team received three more medals. Mike Gardiner finished second, while Lerry Armstead and Brent Case took thirds.

First place went to Carlsbad with 58 points. Albuquerque High took second with 52 and four state champions.

Seniors Gardiner and Ackerman ended with unblemished district records, 17-0-2 and 11-0, respectively.

Ackerman, 137, and Gardiner, 185, wrapped up firsts in the district tournament. Six other grapplers qualified for State by placing in the top three positions. Second places went to Cam Hurst and Armstead. Taking thirds were Charles Beverley, Dennis Adlesperger, John Beakley and Case.

Finishing with an 11-5 season record, Matador grapplers upset an undefeated Winslow, Ariz., team to take the Winslow Invitational. Ackerman won the 137 pound division, as well as being chosen the outstanding wrestler of the tourney.

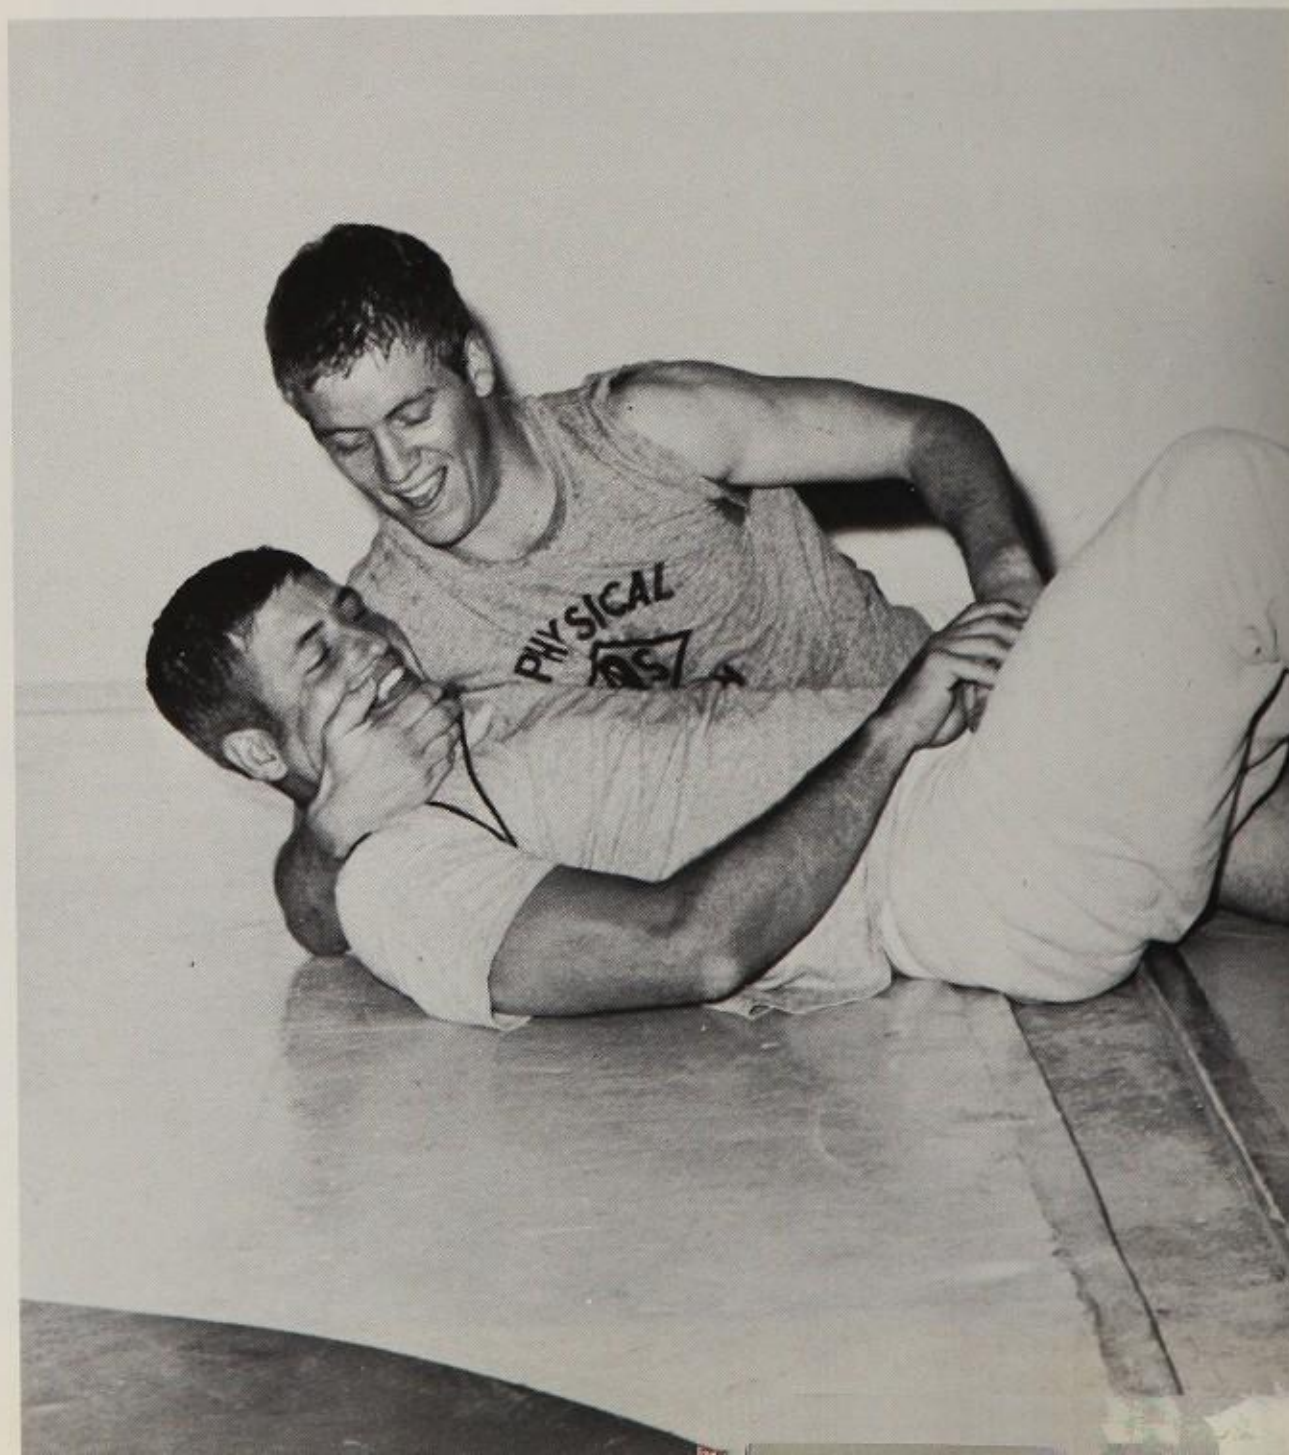

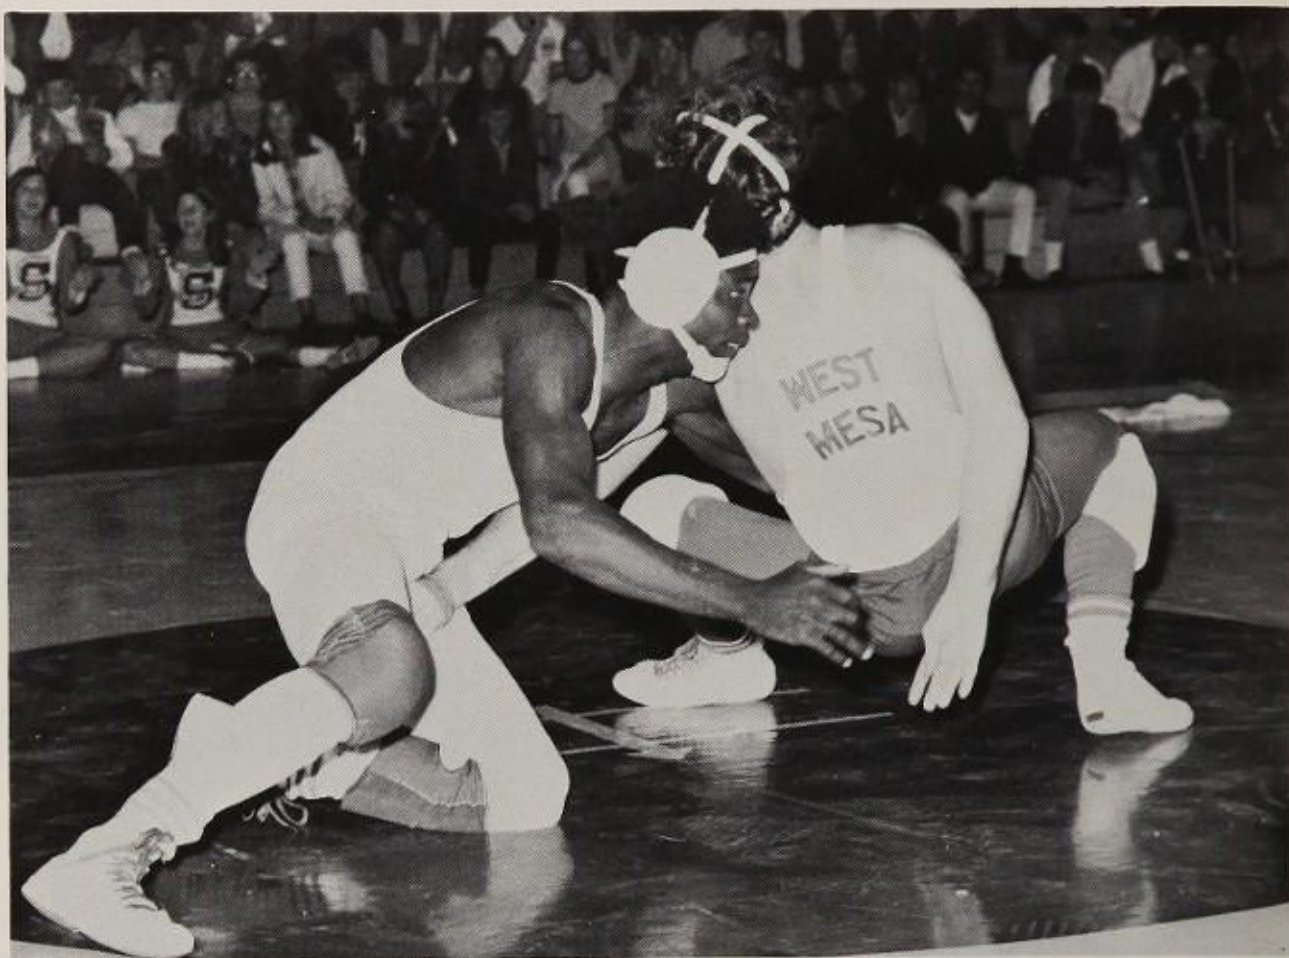

Little Blue grunt-'n-groaners ended a successful 11-5 season, finishing second in the Junior Varsity Invitational with 68 points. Manzano finished first with 98.

Marcus Gallegos took the 140 pound title to boost the effort. Richard Turnbough, 178 pounder, also battled to first in his weight class.

Eugene Sanchez, Mike Barfield and Chuck Vaughn all finished second to assure the second place finish.

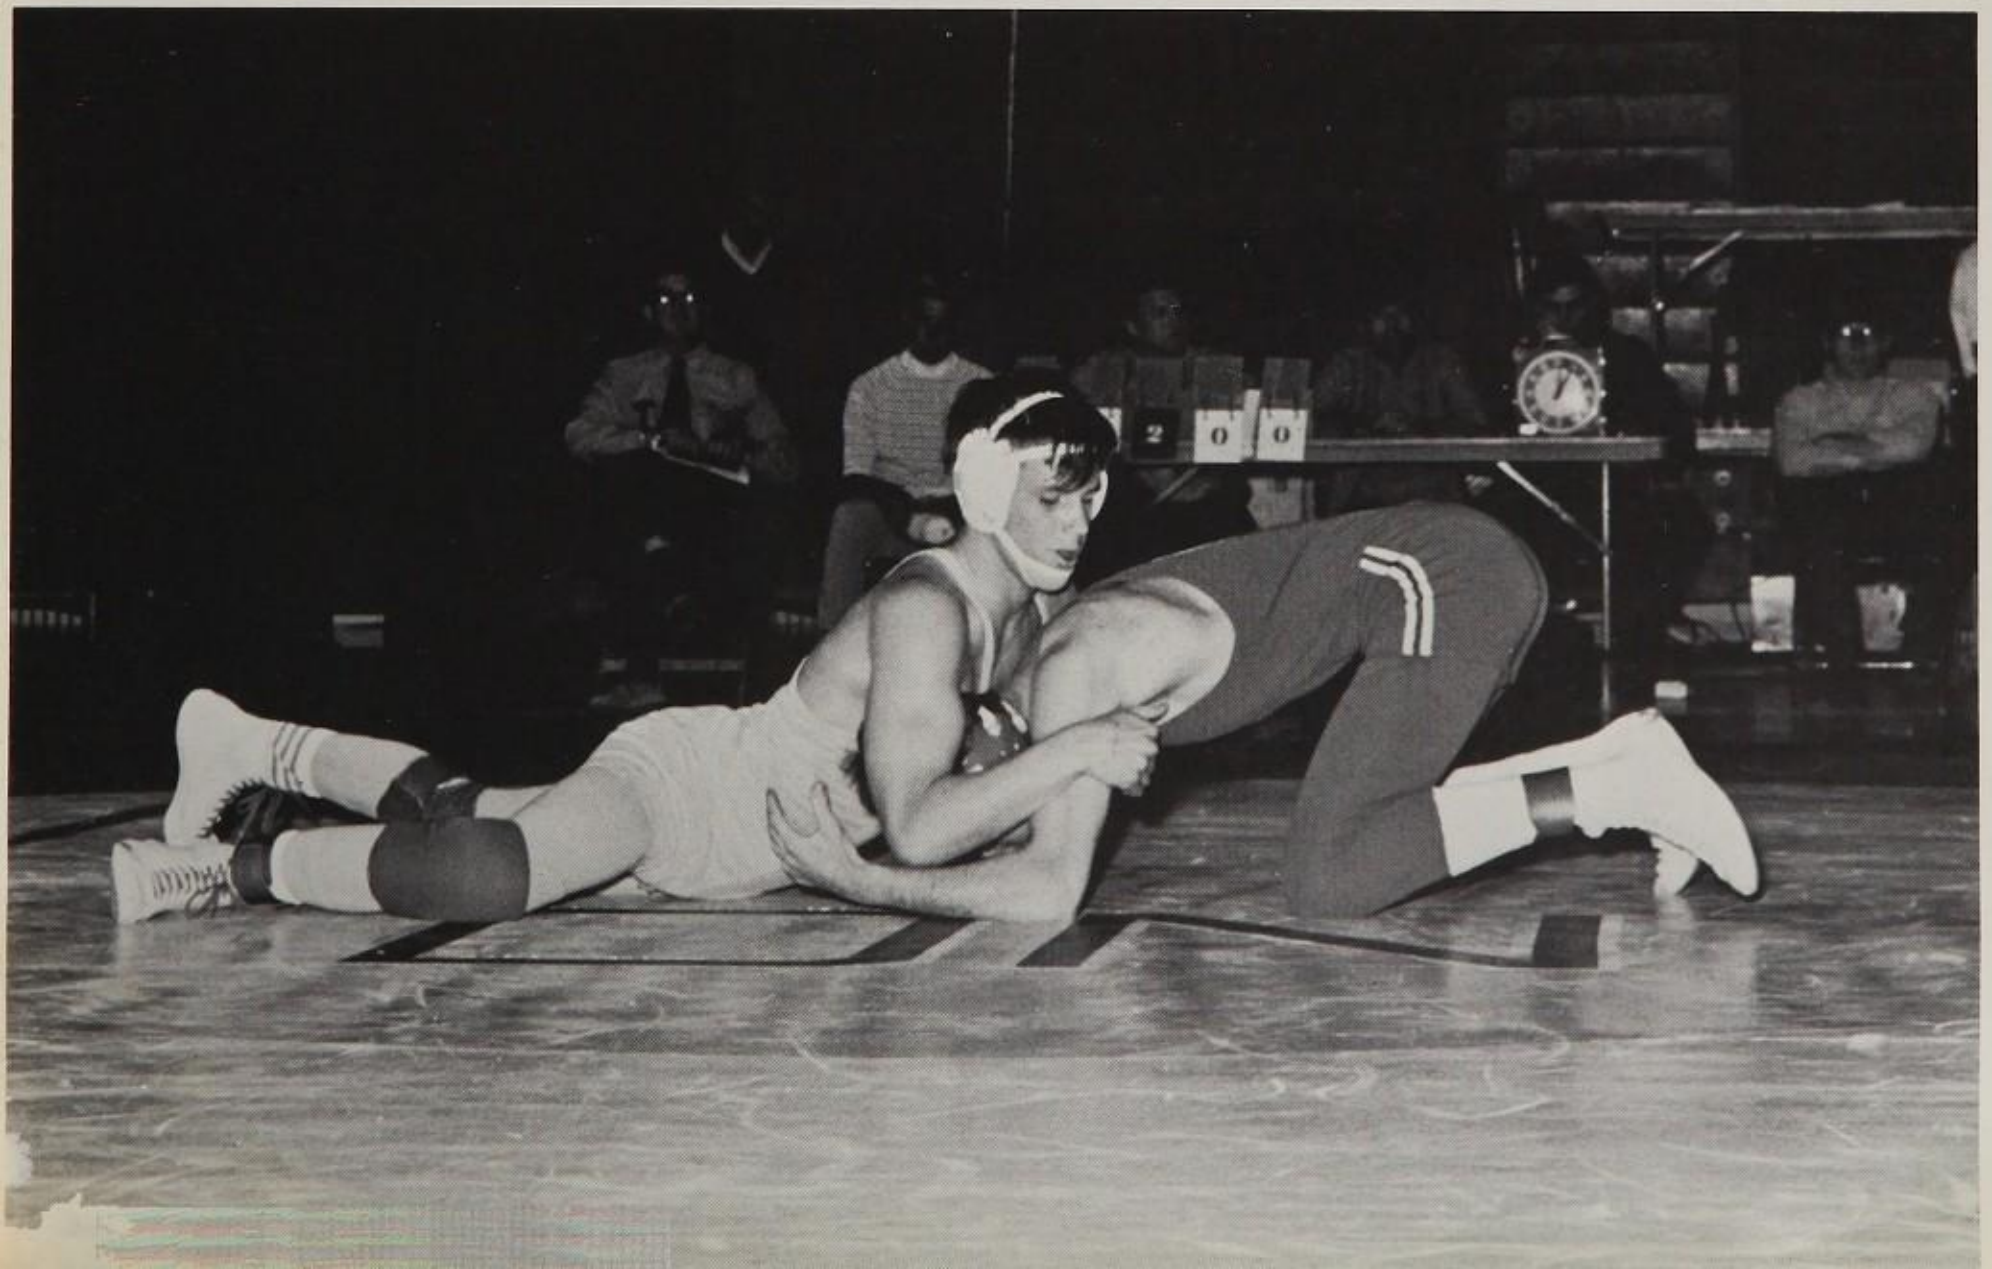

Coach Jim Ottman was the varsity mentor, while Rick Ruscetti coached the junior varsity.

Squad places eighth in State

Swimming to an eighth place in the State Meet, Matador mermen lifted their position from the ninth place held the two previous years.

Highland's Hornets swept the state team title for the third consecutive year, scoring 92 points. Placing second with 44 points was Farmington and in third was Santa Fe with 34 points.

Pacing the splashers to their opening victories were Grant Savage, Pat Brown, James Blank, Chuck Collins and Mark Savage.

In the State Meet Mark Savage, junior, was high point man, scoring 5 of the 6 points Sandians earned. Savage swam in the 100 yard breast stroke and the 200 yard individual medley. Brian Collins, also a junior, came up with the Matadors' sixth point.

Big Blue swimmers were coached by John Benny for the tenth year.

Sandia mermen end with 10-5 mark,

Wrapping up the season, the Big Blue swimmers finished with a 10-5 dual meet season record.

Qualifying nine individuals in 13 events for the State meet at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, only two individuals and the medley relay team placed in the finals.

Sophomore Chip Collins splashed to fifth place in the 400-yard freestyle. Team captain Mark Savage captured sixth in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Pat Brown, Jim Coleman, Chuck Collins and Mark Savage also pulled a sixth place in the medley relay.

Albuquerque's Highland High repeated as state champions with a 78 point performance, while Los Alamos copped second with 70.5. Matador mermen placed tenth with five points.

Swimming in two invitational meets, the mermen finished fifth in the Academy Invitational at the Albuquerque Boys Academy, while managing third place in the NMMI Relays at Roswell.

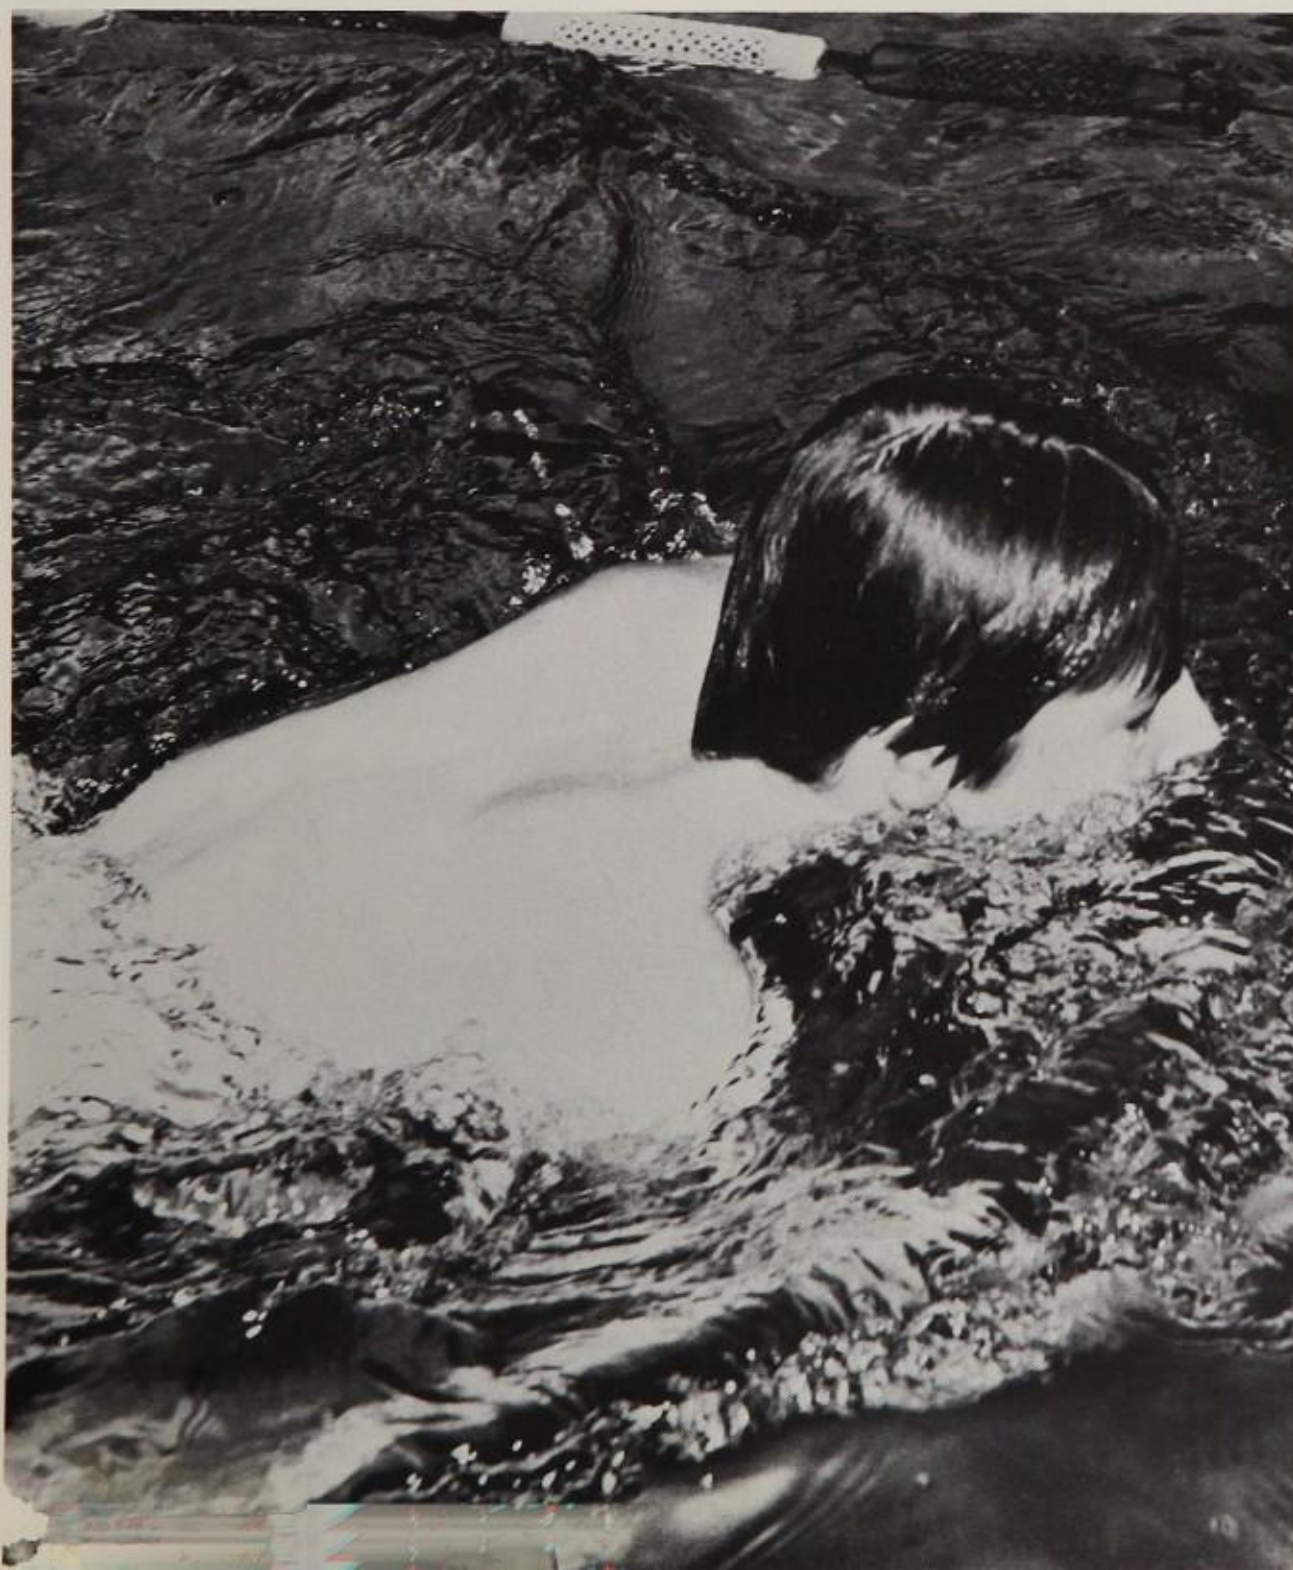

Coaching the varsity splashers for the eleventh season was John Benny.

Braye sets

Surprising Sandia finished third in the State Track Meet with 33 points behind pre-season favorites Del Norte with 59 points and Highland with 47.

At the District 2AA Meet the week before, Sandia again finished third with 67 points behind Highland and Del Norte with 89 and 83 points, respectively.

Taking first in the State discus, Jim Braye set a new state record with a toss of 178 feet.

Sophomore Bob Dooley won Sandia's only other first in the State 440 with a 49.6 time. Gary Easterly was second at 49.7.

Braye took a first in the District discus and a third in the shot put with throws of 169'1" and 51'6½", respectively.

Dooley finished first in the same meet with a time of 49.7, while Easterly was again second at 49.9.

Another outstanding performance at the State Meet was turned in by Reid Cole, who finished second in the 880 with a clocking of 1:53.2.

Finishing second behind Del Norte, the mile relay team consisting of Cole, Easterly, Lerry Armstead and Dooley were timed in 3:18.6.

Handballers complete 1969 season with 5-9 District, 6-12 overall record

Sandia's defending state champion hardballers ended the 1969 season with a 6-12 over-all and 5-9 2AA District record, giving them fourth place in city competition.

Manzano captured the District title with a 12-1 record, but lost the State game 3-2 to the Farmington Scorpions.

During the April 3 Manzano game, senior pitcher Pete Winburn struck out 12 men and gave up but 2 hits. Pete went on to be the winning pitcher of 5 of the 6 wins copped by the Big Blue batsmen.

Junior Lindsay McMurray led the team with 11 runs, 24 hits, 6 doubles, 5 home runs, 4 sacrifices and 15 runs batted in. His total batting average was a high .428.

To be eligible for a letter, a player must have appeared in at least 7 games.

Lanny Winters coached the Matador moundsmen for his third year and was assisted by Lloyd Randel, B team coach.

Tying Del Norte for first in city, the Little Blue topped the season with a 14-5 season record.

Leading the moundsmen were Scott Ackerman, Doug Braye and Denny Rogers, who also played for varsity. Denny and Rick Williams led the sophomores with .364 and .312 batting averages, respectively. Williams also led the team in runs batted in, times at bat and most innings played.

Robert Houle led the team in pitching with a 5-0 record. Rogers and Braye also pitched for the Baby Blue.

Big Blue Swingers post 102-12 season,

Proudly sporting a 102-12 mark, Big Blue golfers were upset by small margins for all three categories of the State AA golf championship.

Los Alamos came from one shot behind the defending champion Matadors to win the team crown 645-650 in a big upset. The Hilltoppers' Eddie Sanchez squeaked by Steve Loy to take individual honors by one shot. Sanchez had rounds of 81-71 for a 152 total, while Loy fired a score of 75-85-153. This was another upset, as Brian Butler had been favored to repeat as state champion.

One shot was again the difference in the race for the two-man title. Sanchez and Paul Lee stroked a 312 tally, while Loy and team captain Butler had a 313 mark.

Led by Butler's 75 score, the linksters won the District 2AA championship. However, Butler lost medalist honors in a playoff upset, when Del Norte's Todd Nicely canned a 75-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole.

During the regular season, the squad recorded several impressive performances. They copped the Wilson Relays title over Del Norte 312-321. Butler was the individual winner with a one-over par 73. In addition, the drivers took second in the St. Pius Invitational and the Albuquerque Relays and tied for third in the tough 32-team field at the Clint, Tex., Invitational.

One of the highlights of the year came # narrowly upset for state championship

when the Matadors set a school record for a nine-hole match with a two-over par total of 146 against Del Norte and Highland.

Coaching the golfers for the eleventh year was Clem Charlton. His teams have taken individual titles in 1962, 1967 and 1968, two-man titles in 1966, 1967 and 1968 and team trophies in 1966 and 1968.

Lindsay duo cops doubles title

Roaring to the District 2AA doubles tennis title, the Lindsay-Lindsay duo stumbled in the State Tournament to the Highland Hornets 8-6 and 6-3, finishing second.

Ending the season with a 5-7 mark, the netters forfeited five matches, inadvertently using a player who had not lived in the district long enough for eligibility.

High scorer for the racketmen was Larry Lindsay, a defending state doubles champion, with a season record of 23-4. Close behind was brother Phil with 22-5.

Junior Dave Gunn came up with a 16-8 total, while Lance Bischoff ended his season matches at 15-9.

Coaching the Big Blue netmen was Richard Prall in his second year.

seasons

Winning seven out of eight volleyball contests, the girls' varsity squad lost only to the University of New Mexico, while the B team ended with a 7-2 record.

Finishing their best season ever, the A squad took victories over Rio Grande, Bernalillo and two each over St. Pius and West Mesa.

Defeating the State School for the Deaf and the College of Santa Fe, the B squad went on to take two victories each over St. Pius and West Mesa.

The University presented the Big Blue with the only loss of the season, but they bounced back with a victory in the second encounter.

However, UNM ended the Baby Blue's winning streak at six with two straight defeats. A final win over Bernalillo gave the B team the seventh victory.

Coaching the A and B volleyball team were Miss Anne Poston and Miss Linda McDowell, student teacher.

Field hockey team plays two

Playing two games, the girls' field hockey team ended a disappointing season with a 0-2 record.

Their first opponent, Santa Fe Prep School, held them to a 7-0 deficit.

Handing the team the second loss of the short season, the University of New Mexico defeated the girls 3-0.

Pulling fourths in the State meet at Los Alamos were Marsha Hann, 400 free style, and Susan Kelt, 100 free style. The relay team, made up of Marsha, Susan, Lynn Hann and Karen Galaldon, placed fifth.

In this first year of girls participation in state-wide intermurals, the local mermaids wound up with an 0-2 dual meet record, with losses to Highland and Valley.

Splashing to a fifth place in the Santa Fe Invitational made up the third meet of the season.

Coaching the swim team in its first year was Mrs. Nancy McNair.

Girl cagers host victories

Playing five basketball games, the girls varsity team won three, while the B team held a 3-1 record at publication.

In the middle of a successful season, the A squad had taken victories over Bernalillo 58-37 and two over West Mesa 41-22 and 81-34.

The Albuquerque Indian School presented the Lady Blues with their first loss by beating them 56-48 in overtime. The other loss was to the University of New Mexico with a score of 58-19.

Taking a victory over Bernalillo 38-15 and dropping West Mesa 31-5 and 36-18, the Little Blue squad lost their only game to UNM 43-20.

Election determines B quintet

Sandia B and sophomore team supporters were led in cheers by a peppy quintet elected by popular vote in the fall.

Cheering at all sophomore and B team athletic events, participating in a few pep assemblies and occasionally filling in for varsity cheerleaders at wrestling matches, B cheerleaders continually practiced and created new routines.

Mrs. Nancy Perry sponsored the squad.

Squad to root for All Star football

Sandia's varsity sextet was named North cheerleaders for the All Star football game in August by placing second in the District cheerleading clinic in Los Alamos.

Attending all school athletic events, leading pep assemblies and creating routines to be used at games kept the six girls active throughout the year.

Sandians were treated to a special surprise on Halloween as they discovered D Wing had been decorated by the peppy squad in preparation for the Highland game, traditionally the grudge match of the year. The girls also decorated locker rooms and sponsored a dance during the football season.

Elected by popular vote the previous spring, the varsity squad also won the "Spirit Stick" at the State Cheerleading Clinic. The award was the first for SHS teams.

Mrs. Nancy Perry sponsored the spirit boosters for the sixth consecutive year.

Gary Doll, president leads class of '70,

Leading the senior class in activities this year was President Gary Doll.

Eight hundred, 57 seniors made up the largest graduating class in history.

The Prom, Senior Week, Honors Assembly and Commencement June 3 ended the school years of the Class of 1970.

For many seniors, school started last summer with 11 boys attending Boys State at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, and six girls attending Girls State at the University of New Mexico. Journalism students attended a workshop at UNM for eight days. Varsity cheerleaders attended the annual clinic at UNM, and representatives attended a week long workshop at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales.

Seniors held many top positions with Jackie Quillen reigning over Homecoming; Lerry Armstead crowned TWIRP King, and Michelle Barnes elected Sports Senorita.

Varsity cheerleaders Diane Rich, Irene Thompson, Darro Breshears, Nikki Fails, Jan Sowell and Debbie Russell led Matador fans. Seniors defeated junior and sophomore classes in the Spiritometer Contest and won $50. to add to the treasury.

Seniors supported school activities, participated in clubs, organizations, drama productions and edited publications.

For the traditional class project, the seniors are building a Peace Corps School in Latin America. Funds were raised through such projects as collecting trading stamps and a dance in March.

Schultz leads class of 1971

One thousand, fifty-one juniors participated in student government, academic and extracurricular activities as members of the class of 1971, led by Steve Schultz.

Junior House, a vital link between class members and officers, was continued for the second year.

While seniors enjoyed a welcomed "day off," juniors participated in Iowa sweep tests. College bound students also took the PSAT test in October and competed for scholarships and national recognition in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in February.

In addition to the annual class Hootenanny presented during TWIRP Week, juniors employed five local bands to entertain at a Rock Festival in January.

John Fannin, junior, was named Mr. Teenage America in the annual contest sponsored by the American Field Service Committee. The money raised was added to the fund for Sandia's eleventh AFS student.

Months of waiting came to an end as class rings ordered in October arrived in February.

Class officers attended the State Student Council Convention in February. The meeting, held in Las Cruces, allowed students to compare school activities.

Student Body Council, class officer, Stater and cheerleader elections were held in late spring in order to make plans for the coming year.

Climaxing the year's activities was the Junior-Senior Prom in May.

Summer vacation began June 4, with juniors looking forward to workshops, clinics, jobs and their senior year.

1,098 sophomores jam Sandia

Sporting the largest class at Sandia, 1,098 sophomores took part in various activities throughout the year.

After several run-offs for class offices, Steve Porter, Gail Igel, Angelia Rogers and Hutch Hutcherson were elected to run the class.

For the second consecutive year, sophomore dues added to the class treasury.

While five girls were elected B team cheerleaders in the fall, boys played on sophomore and Novilleros teams.

Competition between classes in the annual magazine drive resulted in a win for sophomores with Greg Smith top salesman.

December was highlighted by a Christmas party given for the All Faiths Children's Home, complete with presents and Santa.

Sophomores frolicked in the mountains during their snow party held in January.

Human wheel-barrow and piggy-back races were contests at the TWIRP Week Sadie Hawkins night sponsored by the class.

Final activities included class officer elections for the coming year.

While summer vacation brought jobs, summer school and relaxation, many sophomores left Sandia permanently to attend El Dorado, Albuquerque's newest high school.

As spring fever and unusual weather conditions set in, final pages of the 1970 Crest were sent to press. B 10 was once again quiet as staffers relaxed and prepared for the arrival of the book in May and began planning next year's book.

Additional color pages and layout variations promised to make this year's Crest exciting, while picture schedules, interviews and staff "get-together" kept the group active throughout the year.

Production of the Crest was made possible by many people, and we would now like to express our gratitude to some of them.

Thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. James Meek and Ron Kay for action shots, and to Foster Hensley for his constant energy in taking pictures of student activity. Special thanks go to Dick Kent for the color selections and special photographs and to Glenn Hancock of School Pictures, Inc., for the class pictures.

We also thank the Commercial Art classes for providing posters during the subscription drive.

Thanks also go to Gloria Emmett and Mrs. Nancy Harris for the introductory copy, to Susan Fisher for the cover design and to Bill Smith of Paragon Press. Special recognition goes to Darro Breshears, Pat Dorcas, Deedo Fannin and Susan Turney. Although they were not officially on the staff, they donated time on weekends and after school to type and arrange the index. We also appreciate the patience and cooperation of the students and faculty.

We were extremely pleased with the attitude of the staff and the willingness to work, even though snow in the mountains and warm weather in the city proved to be continuous temptations. Our deepest appreciation, however, goes to Miss B. Without her advice, encouragement and understanding, nothing would have been completed. We are deeply grateful to have such a dedicated sponsor.
